—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

To readers of this column: On Sunday next and on several succeeding Sundays at 9 p. m. (Eastern Daylight Saving Time) this writer will speak over a National Broadcasting hookup, including KDKA, Pittsburgh, on the news of the week.

If readers of this column who hear the broadcast will send a post card or brief note, giving their opinions of the broadcast, with suggestions for making it better, addressed to Arthur Brisbane, General Postoffice, New York City, their kindness will be appreciated.

TWENTY-EIGHT years ago Horace H. Rackham borrowed $5,000 and invested in Henry Ford's young company. Sixteen years later he sold his stock to Henry Ford for $12,500,000, a substantial profit. Now he is dead at 72, leaving his whole fortune in trust for charity.

Twelve to fifteen millions are available for immediate distribution, and the gifts will amount eventually to about thirty millions.

Investing with Ford twenty-five or thirty years ago was a good idea. There may be other Fords; the difficulty is to identify them.

The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked; who can know it?

The Bible asks, and modern man replies that while it may be hard to know the HEART of man it is much more difficult to know and understand man's FINANCES.

Yesterday, for instance, rumors that France would go off the gold basis caused speculators in Wall street to shiver, shudder and drop stock prices several dollars a share, the ticker unable to keep up with the selling wave.

WHAT DIFFERENCE can it make to us whether France is on or off the gold basis?

France cut the value of the franc 80 per cent, and that didn't frighten us. The lack of a franc gold standard need not frighten us, especially as France has more gold per capita than any country in the world, and actually more gold in volume than any country except this.

EUROPE decided yesterday, Heaven knows why, that our dollar had dropped in value six and five-eighths cents. Now it costs $4.23½ to buy a British pound, and in Paris a dollar will buy only 20½ francs, whereas a little while ago it would buy 25 francs.

All of that, as Will Rogers remarked, has nothing to do with the fact that in America the dollar is worth about $1.60, and hard to get. If Europe does not want it, WE want it.

NEWS THAT 1,629,000 new jobs have been created in the United States in the past two months is good news, especially since it comes from Mr. Green, of the American Federation of Labor, and is reliable.

These new jobs, it is true, have been artificially created, to a large extent, and "good old times" will not come back until jobs begin looking for men, without any prodding from government.

Nevertheless, jobs artificially created, with the spending of wages that they make possible, may be as important to business recovery as artificial respiration to a half-drowned man.

THE PROPOSITION to reduce by 12½ per cent the salaries of railroad workers, already cut 10 per cent, has been postponed for eight months. It ought to be postponed indefinitely, and can be postponed, with reviving business, if railroads will bring their methods and equipment up to date.

The proposed reduction would have been especially hard on the older, faithful employes, whose pensions depend on the amount of wages received during the last ten years of service.

JUDGE HORTON, of Athens, Ala., setting aside the conviction and death penalty imposed on James E. Patterson, a young Negro, says:

"The testimony of the prosecutrix in this case is not only uncorroborated, it also bears on its face indications of improbability, and is contradicted by other evidence."

This indicates that it is not necessary for an accused man to seek for justice elsewhere.

MRS. MABEL WALKER WILLEBRANDT wrote an article about a United States prohibition agent, accusing him of obstructing justice in the prosecution of his brother, accused of bootlegging.

"Don't ever sue for libel, they might prove it on you."

Mrs. Willebrandt won her suit.

SNIPER SLAYS MINE GUARD

CHARLEROI, Pa., June 23.—Joseph Nevelos, 40, of Lock Hill, night watchman at the Charleroi mine of the Youghiogheny and Ohio Coal Company, was found shot to death at the mouth of the mine early today.

Police said the slayer fired a .32 caliber weapon from a hillside 50 yards away through an open window in the lamphouse. Nevelos staggered from the building and collapsed. An empty cartridge was found on the hillside.

Company officials said they could not account for the shooting. There has been no labor unrest, they said, and Nevelos was popular with the miners. News of the slaying spread and a crowd gathered at the mine, but dispersed on police orders.

Mine officials said there was no connection between the shooting and disorders in other parts of the Upper Monongahela Valley coal field.

Bucs Meet Dodgers, French on Mound

EBBETS FIELD, June 23.—The streaky Pirates of Pittsburgh had a strong desire to snap a defeat string as they prepared to cross bats with the Brooklyn Dodgers this afternoon. After winning three in succession in Boston, the Buccos proceeded to lose three in a row at the Hub and in Brooklyn.

Larry French carried the Pirate pitching responsibility of today. The southpaw turned in a victory over the Braves in his last appearance on the mound. Manager Carey was expected to counter with Southpaw Joe Shaute.

OPERATORS WEIGH CODE

Pittsburgh Company Calls Parley to Draft Program

The Pittsburgh Coal Company, which has been holding aloof from the attempts of local operators to form a code of fair business practices, today made an effort to take the lead for the district in drawing up a plan for submission to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the National Industrial Recovery act.

Officials of the company called a meeting of all Pittsburgh operators at the Hotel William Penn, which opened this afternoon.

Operators were told that the question of drawing up a code under the provisions of the industrial recovery act would be discussed.

It is generally understood that Pittsburgh Coal wishes to form a new association of operators in this district for the purpose of working out the question of minimum wages and maximum hours for miners.

JOHNSON CITES PROGRESS

In discussing the progress made in bringing the recovery act into operation, Gen. Johnson declared today that the coal industry is "the pineapple of the situation." He said that coal presents a difficult problem which is being solved and that the operators are displaying a spirit of co-operation unseen since the war. He added that he was very much encouraged.

Of particular importance to coal is the declaration by Gen. Johnson that he does not wish to use the stringent licensing feature unless it is necessary. He said:

"I don't want to use the licensing feature, for it is repugnant to every American idea. I want to avoid inquisitorial powers and police functions."

BACK FROM CAPITOL

Operators who returned to Pittsburgh this morning from conferences held in Washington yesterday declared that it had been made clear to Gen. Johnson and his aides that it was impossible for the industry to work out a code covering wages and hours for the entire country.

They said that they were instructed to draw up codes for each district and to submit them. Gen. Johnson and his staff would then attempt to forge these into a national code and would make any changes in the district codes to bring them into conformity.

WAGE DISPARITY

The great disparity between wages paid in the northern and southern fields remains the chief obstacle in the way of the completion of codes to be presented

Aerial Saves Baby From Death in Fall

U.S. Spurs Hopes for River Job

The chances for the Ohio Valley flood control project have been improved by a new policy at Washington, according to reliable sources.

Improvements on waterways have been placed under the authority of the chief of United States Engineers rather than a state public works administrator.

As the Army engineers are thoroughly familiar with the advantages of the system of dams on the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers designed to restrict floods and assist navigation, it is believed that the entire river project now is in a better position to be accepted.

U. S. WORK PROGRAM

The Pittsburgh delegation, which, in addition to reservoirs, has been seeking a number of municipal improvements, returned home last night by airplane. They brought word that the $3,300,000,000 federal public works program is expected to shape up rapidly.

In the group were City Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, Chief City Engineer Charles M. Reppert, City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, and former Congressman Edmund F. Erk.

TRADE HOLDS REVIVAL PACE

NEW YORK, June 23—(INS.)—Without as yet giving any indication of the normal summer lull, business is maintaining its revival pace and exceeding even "the most sanguine expectations," Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., declared today in its week-end review.

Further wage rises have occurred in such industries as limestone, cotton mills in the South, zinc and lead smelters and brewers. This further broadened the basic purchasing power and brought new gains in retail trade.

A further spur to consumer buying has been the widespread advertising of retailers who are declaring that current prices are the lowest which will prevail for many years as mark-ups will soon be general.

More workers have been added to the payrolls in the last 60 days than in any comparative period in the last three years, it was stated.

Wholesale markets are keeping pace with the upturn in retail trade and industrial production, the steadily advancing prices having brought the volume of orders booked as high as 50 per cent above a year ago.

HOOVER KIN HEARD IN TUB DEATH

Ex-President's Niece, Mate Volunteer 'Statement'

Universal Service.

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 23.—Ernest Albert Dunbar, Palo Alto engineer, and his wife the former Louise Brooke Hoover, daughter of Dean Theodore Hoover, of Stanford and niece of former President Herbert Hoover, appeared yesterday at the office of District Attorney Fred L. Thomas at San Jose "to make a voluntary statement, regarding the Lamson case."

This development, only partially explained, came on the eve of the arraignment of David A. Lamson, former Stanford University Press executive, in the Santa Clara County Superior Court on the charge that he bludgeoned to death his attractive wife, Allene Thorpe Lamson, in the "Stanford Bathtub Murder Mystery."

Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar were closeted for a half hour with Chief Deputy District Attorney John P. Fitzgerald of the prosecution forces. They left after refusing to explain why they had come, for no apparent reason, to make a "voluntary statement."

Dunbar recited in detail his movements on the morning of Memorial Day, June 30, the day Mrs. Lamson was murdered, according to Fitzgerald. He denied that he had ever visited the Lamson home without being accompanied by his wife, and said that his friendship for Mrs. Lamson was really secondary to that he entertained for Lamson.

As proof of this, it was pointed out that after Lamson arrived at the County Jail at San Jose the day of the murder the first two persons he sent for were his attorney and Dunbar. Dunbar was unable to answer the summons and has not seen Lamson since his arrest.

Dunbar denied, said Fitzgerald, that he ever possessed a key to the Lamson home and he denied any sentiments towards Mrs. Lamson other than friendship for the wife of a friend.

ROOSEVELT TRIP ABROAD DENIED

PORTLAND, Me., June 23.—(AP.)—Stephen T. Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, denied today that the President would go to London.

The President, however, is keeping in touch with developments at the world conference through perusal of lengthy dispatches. He expressed himself as highly gratified at the present status.

Rumors that the President would dash across the Atlantic on the cruiser Indianapolis in a bold attempt to swing the World Economic Conference into line with his views, have been current and have as often been denied.

PROVINCETOWN REPORT

The latest rumor came from Provincetown, Mass., where the Indianapolis, on her way to pick up the President at Eastport, Me., after he completes his cruise up the Maine coast, laid over last night. The announced plans call for the cruiser to take Mr. Roosevelt back to Washington.

Wed 5 Minutes, Granted Divorce

CHICAGO, June 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Marguerite E. Windchy, 22, lived with her husband just five minutes.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 23.—(AP.)—The Hopewell home of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, from which their first born son was kidnaped in March, 1932, will become a children's welfare center.

Incorporation papers for "High Field," the corporation which will operate the property, were filed today with County Clerk Gustav Bach.

The object of "High Field" is stated as:

"To provide for the welfare of children, including their education, training, hospitalization, or other allied purposes, without discrimination in regard to race or creed."

HOPEWELL, N. J., June 23.—(AP.)—The big white stone home of the Lindberghs, which is to be used as a children's welfare center, is on top of Sourland Mountain, second highest peak in the state.

The 500-acre estate is three miles from this town. The house, reached by a private lane, is a half mile in from the Hopewell-Wertsville road, traveled by thousands of cars since the kidnaping of the first Lindbergh baby a year ago March 1.

Simple in taste, the house is gabled, with French doors and windows. In front is a stone wall, waist high, giving the effect of a court.

There is a library, dining room, kitchen and study on the first floor, and bedrooms, including a nursery, on the second.

DAVIS HOPEFUL ON PEACE

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—Norman H. Davis, United States Ambassador-at-Large, hinted on his return from Geneva today a belief that demands for security pacts—stumbling block to previous disarmament agreements—are giving way to sentiment favoring international supervision of arms. He asserted:

"There is a growing realization in Europe that we must reach an agreement — which would be a basis of real recovery.

"Armaments are a product of fear. If we can get all to re-

FRAUD PROBE ALSO NAMES TWO WOMEN

7 Others Included in Latest Return of U. S. Grand Jury

Thomas Dolan, one of the Monaca Club "Three Toms," and two women members of an election board were among 10 persons indicted today by the federal grand jury probing Congressional elections.

Today's indictments bring the total number of those charged with falsifying vote records to 41.

Those named in the latest indictments were:

TENTH DISTRICT

Tenth District, Fourth Ward—Albert Diulius, judge; William Kennedy and Albert Levine, inspectors; Charles F. Morrison clerk, and Constable Joseph Ridge.

Mrs. Daschbach is the wife of City Detective John J. Daschbach.

The indictment sets forth that the board of the Eighth District made a false return showing 324 votes cast for Congressman M. J. Muldowney and 212 for United States Senator James J. Davis. The Tenth District board is accused of making a false return of 287 votes for Muldowney and 233 for Davis.

JURY ADJOURNS

Former Congressman Guy E. Campbell, who arrived by airplane from Washington, testified for half an hour before the jury today. John A. Fugassi, mercantile appraiser, also was questioned.

Others, including Patrick O'Malley, Second Ward Republican chairman, and Alderman John J. Verona, Third Ward boss, were told to return next week.

Prince of Wales 39, Has Quiet Birthday

LONDON, June 23.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales varied the routine of his busy life but little today in celebration of his thirty-ninth birthday.

He spent the morning at his Fort Belvedere home, and motored to York House to read hundreds of greetings from all parts of the world.

Evangeline Booth Decorated by King

CHICAGO, June 23.—(INS.)—Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, today was the recipient of the Royal Order of Vasa conferred by King Gustav V of Sweden, for work among the Swedish people in the United States. Count Bernadotte, grandson of the King, made the presentation.

U. S. to Protect Public In Code Price-Fixing

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(INS.)—The public will be protected against price-fixing in the new industrial and business codes under the industrial recovery act.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, warned today if any code sets up too much of a monopoly with appearance of price fixing, "I'll have to step in."

He promised a consumers' advisory board would be named before Tuesday, when the first of the hearings on codes, that of the textile industry, will begin. He said:

"We want to discourage price-fixing, but we hope the codes submitted to us will be self-policing. What we ask is that the groups make an agreement not to sell below cost."

He said such practices had proved ruinous to small business concerns.

Johnson warned a meeting of chain store executives here that over-production in advance of consumers' ability to buy was the "real reason for the depression" and that if another depression is to be prevented this must be guarded against.

Doctors' Right to Kill Incurables Debated

"Should physicians be given the legal right to dispose of incurable patients?"

Speaking in favor of euthanasia or medico-legal death, Dr. W. A. Guild, of Chicago, cited the case of a child monstrosity saved from death at birth after six weeks of care.

He suggested a special court of humanitarians to hear and grant pleas of persons who wish to die. This idea was opposed by Dr. Alonzo C. Tenney, also of Chicago, who said that legalized euthanasia would be abused.

He argued:

"Too many possibilities would then exist for heirs to fortunes to manipulate such a death."

In the case of the child monstrosity, Dr. Guild said that the patient "required such constant care that the parents were completely ostracized from society which was robbed of a valuable family unit."

Nature, he added, had tried its best to take the child's life, but the family physician "fulfilled his so-called moral and legal obligations."

MITCHELL ACQUITTAL SPURS MOVE FOR TAX REVISION

BARUCH ON JOB TO GUARD U. S. INTERESTS

Financier Opposed to Dollar Stabilization At This Time

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Bernard M. Baruch, outstanding American financier, today quietly began his informal career as an adviser to the Roosevelt administration, and commenced mapping a report for Assistant Secretary of State Moley against involving the United States in any disadvantageous financial agreements with Europe.

In a modest suite in the Carlton Hotel here, while government heralders dropped in for conference, Baruch laid the groundwork for a technical thesis he will forward to Secretary Moley in London, opposing any international currency stabilization agreement at this time.

STUDIES JOB PLAN

The veteran financier, who was head of the War Industries Board during the World War, also began a study of the industrial recovery machinery set up by President Roosevelt to bring the United States back on a prosperous economic basis. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the act, was appointed at Baruch's suggestion.

When his report to Moley is completed, he probably will prepare a second report on the recovery machinery for the President.

Baruch is vigorously of the opinion that the future economic condition of the United States depends upon conditions within this country, and not without. And he believes that recovery centers around the economic program the administration is putting into effect.

FAVORS ISOLATION

He believes further that recovery should be self-contained, and not dependent on the whims and caprices of foreign countries. He holds that the United States can be prosperous alone, under the achievements of the proposed machinery, and that this country should under no conditions involve itself in any stabilization agreements with Europe which will only stop the increase in commodity price levels and destroy the very objective of the recovery program.

In a few weeks, Baruch probably will sail for Europe for a vacation, but he will not participate formally or informally in the London conference, and may not even visit the British capital.

He emphasized today that his work here is being done purely as a favor to his friends in the administration, and as a public service.

U. S. AIDES FACE BANK QUIZ

DETROIT, June 23.—(AP.)—Circuit Judge Harry B. Keidan, sitting as a one-man grand jury investigating the closing of two national banks in Detroit, today agreed to sign a formal request to the Treasury Department that every officer or agent—including Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin—who had anything to do with the Michigan bank holiday be sent here to testify before the jury.

The request was made by Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, who said testimony of government witnesses in the investigation has "become very pertinent to the issue."

Others whom the prosecutor said he desired to question included former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills; F. G. Awalt, former Comptroller of the Currency; Jesse A. Jones, chairman of the R. F. C.; John K. McKee, chief examiner for the R. F. C., and Arthur A. Ballantyne, former Undersecretary of the Treasury.

The grand jury is investigating in public hearings the closing of the First National Bank-Detroit and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, now under Federal receiverships. The two banks failed to open after the Michigan banking holiday.

ROUTLEY TRIAL NEARS JURY

Testimony in the trial of James E. Routley and C. C. Benz, accused of using county-purchased gasoline for private purposes, was concluded today in Criminal Court. The case will go to the jury before court adjourns late this afternoon.

Miss Dorothy Armstrong, daughter of the late Joseph G. Armstrong, testified she bought gasoline at the station supplying county gas without knowing it was charged to Routley and paid for by the county. She said she thought the bills would go to her father, then a County Commissioner.

Routley was assistant chief clerk to the County Commissioners, and Benz chief clerk of the Purchasing Department.

Woman Told to Kill Rooster to Quiet It

MILWAUKEE, June 23.—A woman resident of Milwaukee's South Side sought information from Health Commissioner J. P. Koehler on how to keep an early rising rooster quiet. He said:

Miner Who Sees Insists He's Blind

SUDBURY, Ont., June 23.—(AP.)—The strange case of Tom Kupina, who, according to doctors, thinks he is blind but is not, occupied a Sudbury Court where Kupina sued an insurance company for compensation.

His suit was dismissed when Justice Nicol Jeffrey ruled he had not suffered "total and irrevocable loss of sight of both eyes" as the result of an accident at Frood Mine.

Medical testimony of both complainant's and defendant's experts was that there is nothing organically wrong with Kupina's eyes, but he is suffering from hysteria akin to shell shock which actually prevents him from seeing.

This condition, doctors agreed, may improve suddenly at any time.

of Pittsburgh, expects to return to Pittsburgh Monday.

$60,000,000 PROJECT

The Flood Commission and the city are together seeking the flood control reservoirs and downtown wharf improvements to cost approximately $60,000,000.

In addition, the city is seeking a grant for street, sewer and water works improvements amounting to $10,620,000 over and above the $4,500,000 downtown wharf improvement.

Indications at Washington are that in the public works division under the recovery act, every effort is being made to lay the foundation for a definite program before President Roosevelt returns from vacation July 1.

Washington is apparently centering its attention on projects which can start at once, ready to spring into activity without delay in the program to put the nation back to work.

The plans for the flood and navigation control reservoirs have been completed by United States engineers.

The Kellogg pact, Davis said, put upon the United States an inherent obligation to confer. He added:

"We would be fools not to confer. We have a large stake in peace as a matter of self interest. We ought not to play the sucker and put our head in the sand like an ostrich. Peace is now getting to be looked upon as one of the coldest-blooded propositions in the world."

Davis and Mrs. Davis were aboard the Bremen. He said the purposes of his trip home were to "rest, confer with the President and see my son married." He said he would return to Geneva before the end of the disarmament conference.

Wealthy Hoarder Gives Up $120,000

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—(INS.)—Philadelphia's No. 1 gold hoarder who defied President Roosevelt and the Treasury Department by refusing to turn over $120,000 in gold coins has finally relented, it was learned today.

Dogged by secret service men, who threatened to make public his name, the hoarder, identified only as a wealthy textile manufacturer, withdrew his gold from safety deposit boxes and exchanged it for currency, presumably at the Federal Reserve Bank.

ELOPER FACES BIGAMY CHARGE

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—Justin Edgerton, 40, of New York, a credit sales manager, was released in $5,000 bail today by Magistrate Guy Van Amringe in Tombs Court to await a hearing July 7 as a fugitive from justice wanted in Elkton, Md., on a charge of bigamy.

Assistant District Attorney Harold Frankel asked for the $5,000 bail and the adjournment to await the arrival of extradition papers.

The complainant in the case was James A. Adams, of New Bedford, Mass., father of Edgerton's third wife, the former Grace J. Adams, 22, whom Edgerton married at Elkton, Md., June 17.

Assistant District Attorney Frankel told the court he understood Edgerton had been twice married before his marriage to Miss Adams, whose present whereabouts were not made public.

HOLLYWOOD, June 23.—(INS.)—"I'm changing my address—Viola."

As she jumped, she clutched a purse containing two cents—all the money she possessed.

PITTSBURGHER LINKED IN FIRE DEATH TRIAL

Surprise Witness Says She Saw Convict at Scene of Blaze

CLEVELAND, O., June 23.—(AP.)—A surprise woman witness told a jury today that she saw L. J. Kamons, alleged professional incendiarist, of Pittsburgh, in the Ellington Apartment building a few days before the structure was destroyed by fire with loss of 13 lives.

The witness was Mrs. Jeannette Kope, former tenant in the apartments, testifying in the trial of Ray I. Turk on a charge of murder as a result of the fire. Kamons is under indictment as a conspirator in the case.

He was extradited to Ohio while serving a sentence in the Western Penitentiary, Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Kope said she saw Kamons in the elevator. The witness explained that she first noticed a similarity between him and a man whose picture she saw in a newspaper, and later selected Kamons from a police lineup.

Mrs. Kope was called to corroborate the testimony of Abe Redlich, Beaver (Pa.) County Jail inmate, who testified to several meetings he said Turk held with members of a Pittsburgh arson ring to which Redlich belonged.

The defense, expected to open its testimony before adjournment of court today, will center about Turk's denial that he ever saw Redlich before the start of the trial and his claim that he had nothing to do with the fire.

The state has presented the expert testimony of Fire Chief James E. Granger, who asserted "I would stake my life" on the belief the Ellington fire was of incendiary origin. The explosions that preceded the fire, he said, were of a highly volatile liquid and not of gas.

PEPPER SCORES SENATE ON PROBES

State Bar Meeting Surprised by Attack

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., June 23.—The 200 lawyers here attending the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Bar Associaton were recovering today from their surprise over the speech of former United States Senator George Wharton Pepper.

He was delivering a mildly humorous speech when suddenly he swung into an attack on Senate investigating committees, evasive judges and President Roosevelt's Industrial Recovery act.

Pepper predicted that unless the Senate committees are able to exhibit "self control they will become a stench in the nostrils."

He made no reference to his name having been brought out on the Morgan list.

EVASIONS SCORED

Judges who evade decisions, who are forever postponing the day of judgment he described as "adornments of the bench."

Sarcastically he declared that the United States Constitution has been replaced by the Industrial Recovery act, but philosophically he added that you can expect almost anything these days.

It's still the annual business vacation of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia lawyers, although it must be conceded to the carping critics that if you stretched a healthy stretch in the hotel lobbies you might scratch somebody of whom Mr. Morgan frequently thinks.

Five of the most prominent gentlemen in attendance are John W. Kephart, justice of the Supreme Court; Robert von Moschzisker, former chief justice of the Supreme Court; William I. Schaffer, of the same bench; Judge Thomas J. Baldridge, of the Superior Court, and Mr. Pepper.

All of them were included on some Morgan preferred list brought out before the Senate investigating committee.

SCHNADER ATTENDS

Incidentally, it's prooably a pretty good thing that the hotel lobbies here are quite spacious, for besides Kephart, who still may have gubernatorial aspirations, Attorney General William Schnader has been seen strolling about with a ready smile and a readier handshake. He, too, would like to remain in Harrisburg. These two had a chat about the weather yesterday.

Among the Pittsburghers inhaling the mountain air or dubbing their tee shots are Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, Attorney John D. Meyer, resting from his arduous efforts to padlock the former Monaca Club; Attorneys William Eckert, Smith Christy and Free Weir.

Bar Defeats Proposal To Limit Admissions

The organization, after spirited discussion, voted down a proposal to further limit admissions to the profession and thus maintained its advocacy of the old doctrine of "equal opportunity for all."

Judge Joseph Stadfeld, of the Superior Court, Pittsburgh, criticized the measure as contrary to American principles and said that the maxim "survival of the fittest" would solve any problem of a surplus of lawyers.

Describing the situation in Montgomery and Delaware counties, Franklin L. Wright, of Norristown, where the local bar association voted for the County Court to limit admissions, said applications frequently exceeded the number of attorneys in the counties. He ascribed this to absence of county jurisdiction over the registration of students admitted under state rules, causing candidates to come there from other jurisdictions.

SEE MITCHELL 'COMEBACK'

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—Wall street expects a "comeback" by Charles E. Mitchell.

Acquitted of evading $850,000 in income taxes, the former head of the National City Bank is regarded by financial circles as likely to regain a position of prominence in the "Street."

Mitchell, having brushed away the tears that welled when he heard a jury foreman say "Not guilty" yesterday, visited the financial district. His appearance in several places was greeted by shouts of congratulation.

There was much speculation as to whether he would resume his former place as head of the second largest bank in the world. He is a substantial stockholder in it.

The stock — 35,000 shares—is, however, held by J. P. Morgan & Co., along with mortgages on Mitchell's three homes, as collateral on a loan Mitchell obtained.

REED SCORES RECOVERY BILL

ERIE, Pa., June 23.—(INS.)—Senator David A. Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, today went on record with the intimation that unless the United States Supreme Court keeps an eye cocked on the 1932 Roosevelt landslide, a considerable portion of the administration's emergency program will be ruled unconstitutional.

Much of the emergency legislation, Reed told the Erie County Bar Association, is unconstitutional and "will be so held by the Supreme Court—if that body does not follow the election returns!"

"The sweeter the name, I suppose, the sweeter the rose."

INFANTE JAIME YIELDS RIGHTS

MADRID, June 23.—(AP.)—The newspaper ABC today published a letter in which the Infante Jaime, the deaf and dumb second son of former King Alfonso, reliquished his rights to the throne in the event of the restoration of the monarchy. The succession falls to his younger brother, Juan.

Jaime personally handed the letter to his father, the paper said. The Prince of the Asturias, who had first claim among Alfonso's sons, already has relinquished his rights by marrying a Cuban commoner this week in Switzerland.

Satisfaction at the succession of Juan was expressed in monarchistic circles, where he is considered to be an intelligent and attractive candidate for leadership of the restoration cause.

MELLON PROBE TO GO ON, SAYS CUMMINGS

Congressmen Insist on Laws to Prevent Evasions by Rich

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Aroused by the acquittal of Charles E. Mitchell in New York on charges of violating the income tax laws, Senate and House tax investigating committees today announced that legislation would be proposed to prevent "another Mitchell case."

The House Ways and Means sub-committee investigating income tax laws called for the record in the Mitchell case. A Senate Finance sub-committee, which opened a similar inquiry, also announced it would review the case.

While the jury which held the former head of the National City Bank not guilty of violating the law in selling bank shares to his wife in 1929 and buying them back later and other deals by which he established losses against income taxes, was severely criticized, the investigating members of Congress promised to study the law for defects.

NEW TAX LAWS

Members of Congress generally agreed that the Mitchell verdict will give a tremendous impetus to a complete overhauling of the revenue laws by Congress next winter.

While the investigating committees will direct their efforts to closing up loopholes, they admitted that rich and poor alike may feel the sting of limitation upon deductions from income taxe returns.

Attorney General Cummings announced that the failure of the government to convict Mitchell will not halt the investigation of charges of tax evasion by former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and others.

The department, he emphasized, will prosecute every case that appears to justify it. Nevertheless, Cummings and other Justice Department officials were evidently disappointed by the Mitchell verdict.

CHANGE FORECAST

Chairman Hill (Dem.), of Washington, of the House committee, said:

"The Mitchell case looked like a clear evasion of the law. We will take the facts in the Mitchell case, and if there is a defect in the law, we will recommend a change.

"The effect of the Mitchell verdict will be had on people who now think that the "big fellows" are escaping their just share of taxation."

Senator King (Dem.), of Utah, chairman of the Senate sub-committee, said he favored repeal of the law "under which Mitchell was able to get a deduction on his income taxes." Senator Adams (Dem.), of Colorado, said:

"The Mitchell case, regardless of the verdict, will intensify the movement in Congress for legislation making it more difficult for the rich to evade taxes."

Other members expressed similar views. They also regarded the Mitchell case as a severe jolt to further prosecutions, and expressed doubt that court charges will grow out of the Morgan investigation.

INSULL ACTION HELD UP

TORONTO, June 23.—(AP.)—Still another chapter in the tangled history of the Insull financial dynasty was written today when Justice A. C. Kingstone reserved judgment on an application to appoint a commissioner to take evidence of certain witnesses in Chicago with respect to charges of embezzlement of more than half a million dollars against Martin J. Insull.

The charges were brought in Cook County, Illinois.

J. C. McRuer, acting for Insull, and Edward Bayly, deputy attorney general of Ontario, who is acting in a personal capacity for the state of Illinois, engaged in prolonged argument regarding the appointment of the commissioner and Justice Kingstone reserved judgment on McRuer's application.

Aimee's David Forsakes Temple for Movies

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—(AP.)—The ample-girthed husband of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist is forsaking activities in her four square gospel Angelus Temple, his new business manager announced today, for a motion picture career merely as David Hutton, Jr., H. C. Brandon said:

"He is severing all ties with Angelus Temple, excepting those binding him to Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton as man and wife."

Hutton will continue to live in his wife's parsonage. Mrs. McPherson-Hutton is reported to be in Paris, France.

Besides appointing a new business manager, Hutton yesterday dismissed Willedd Andrews as his attorney, and hired a new lawyer, Fairfax Cosby.

Andrews represented Hutton in the breach of promise suit in which Hazel Joan Myrtle St. Pierre, nurse, won a $5,000 judgment some months ago. Cosby said the judgment will be settled as soon as Hutton earns some money for himself. Brandon said:

"Hutton is entering work with which he is far more familiar. He has never pretended to be an evangelist—and because of this lack of familiarity with such work his presence in Temple affairs has been resented in the organization established by his wife."

'Battling Eddie' Loses Riot Prosecution Bout

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 23.—Mayor Eddie McCloskey, fiery expugilist, lost the decision last night in an exchange of verbal punches wherein he sought to stave off a prosecution.

He was held for the grand jury in $2,500 bail at a preliminary hearing on charges of aggravated assault and battery, inciting to riot and riot.

McCloskey, coming out of his corner fighting, put so much steam in his oral blows that there were frequent protests from the prosecutor's corner.

The Mayor, acting as his own attorney, argued with all the gusto of the days when he was flinging gloves instead of words.

The speeches irked Attorney Frank P. Barnhart, counsel for the prosecutor, Poor Director Leon P. Bennett. McCloskey paid little heed, however, when Barnhart appealed to Alderman J. Alvin Reese, who refereed the bout.

From the Mayor's corner, Bernard Carthew, a friend of McCloskey, asserted he and not the Mayor struck Bennett June 5 at relief headquarters. He said Bennett stood toe-to-toe and slugged away as long as he was able. McCloskey said he had no intention of inciting trouble when he accompanied a group of Cresson men seeking relief to Bennett's office.

BALBO SQUADRON SET TO HOP OFF FOR U. S. TOMORROW

100 CRACK ACES TO SOAR AT DAWN

25 Fascist Seaplanes Primed for Flight Over Atlantic

Love Feud Costs Captain Place In Flight

ORBETELLO, Italy, June 23.—(INS.)—One change in personnel was made as the shrill notes of a bugle call summoned Italy's seaplane airmen to attention late today for a final test of the 25 craft starting tomorrow on a mass flight to Chicago.

Following a quarrel over a love affair between Capt. Leo and Capt. Nannini, Capt. Leo was disciplined and sentenced to imprisonment. His place on the flight being taken by Capt. Marini.

Weather conditions over the Alps now are reported good and growing more favorable.

The air minister and 100 crack Fascist fliers composing the expedition will spend the night at the High Seas Aerial Navigation School here. They will rise at about 4 a. m. prepared to get away for Amsterdam with the coming of daylight.

If things go well the 25 planes will descend at the Dutch metropolis six hours after leaving Orbetello. Following a night's rest at Amsterdam the expedition will continue on to Londonderry, Northern Ireland.

No more than 24 planes will make the entire flight to Chicago. The twenty-fifth will fly only as far as Reykjavik, Iceland, or take the place of any plane forced to fall out anywhere up to that point.

The attempt constitutes one of the main events in Fascist Italy's program for intense concentration on aerial development. Balbo is a great believer in the possibilities of transoceanic commercial flying.

No pains have been spared to assure the success of the cruise. Elaborate preparations have been made for keeping the fliers supplied with meteorological data and, throughout the trip, the squadron, if nothing goes wrong with its radio contracts, will be in communication with land bases.

A crew of four is assigned to each ship—two pilots, a mechanic and a radioist-navigator. Several are to carry an extra man. The planes have two motors and twin-boat-bottomed cabins.

Four light cruisers, two other ships, two submarines and six rented British whalers have been stationed along the route to wireless reports and go to the aid of any plane forced down at sea.

'SOS' REVIVES MATTERN HOPES

SEATTLE, Wash., June 23.—(AP.)—Powerful wireless stations of the North Pacific "listened in" today for an explanation of a mysterious call in which the signals for "SOS" and "Aeroplane" were heard yesterday afternoon.

With Jimmy Mattern, missing round-the-world flier, sought off the Siberian coast, the almost unintelligible message, sent in Russian, lent hope that it might bring word about him. It was heard here by Ed Stevens, amateur operator, and by a naval radio operator at Bremerton, who was off duty.

Stevens said it apparently was sent from some Russian ship. He distinguished the call letters RMAZ, with whom, he said, the sender was trying to communicate. Station RMAZ is at Vladivostok.

'AERIAL TRAIN' MAKES FLIGHT

LOS ANGELES, June 23.—(AP.)—Three motorless airplanes were hauled about the sky here by a fourth plane, acting as "locomotive."

This is understood here to be first instance in aerial history in the United States in which as many as three trailers have been towed simultaneously by one motored craft.

The demonstration yesterday was regarded as a step toward realization of the dreams of airmen—that of operating aerial express trains with only the leading ship powered and the rest towed so they can be cut loose from the train at any landing field along a transport route.

After half an hour's flight the three motorless planes cut loose successfully over Grand Central Airport and glided safely to earth.

GETS SUBPENA, SHOOTS SELF

PEORIA, Ill., June 23.—(AP.)—Garrett De F. Kinney, former state treasurer and director of finance, shot himself through the temple today a few hours after he had been served with a subpena in connection with an alleged shortage in his accounts with the state.

The wound was described at the Methodist Hospital as serious.

Kinney arose early this morning and went to the Cutler and Proctor Stove Company, of which he formerly was president.

Asking the watchman to buy him a Chicago newspaper, he entered the office. A few moments later the watchman, returning, heard two shots. Running to the president's office he found Kinney prostrate, his forehead bleeding from a pistol wound.

Mexico Makes Wide Search for Fliers

MEXICO, D. F., June 23.—(AP.)—Over land and sea today in ever-widening circles, the Mexican government turned all its resources to search for two Spanish officers missing since Tuesday on a flight from Havana to Mexico.

Air and marine bases were set up throughout Southern Mexico, and an anxious populace aided in a hunt, unparalleled in the nation's history, for Capt. Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar, who recently flew from Seville across the Atlantic to Cuba.

Women's Heads Ache, But Men's Just Swell

Science Finds Males Suffer Delusions Of Grandeur

CHICAGO, June 23.—(AP.)—Complaining about headaches that don't exist is woman's ordained lot, the American Association for the Advancement of Science was told today.

Man's lot is to swagger about the house with inflated ideas about his own importance. The reason: Life is that way.

These observations were reported by Dr. Mandel Sherman, of the University of Chicago, as the result of extensive studies that he said indicated the existence of a direct relationship between cultural background and the abnormal mental symptoms of persons.

Varying kinds of mental twists, Dr. Sherman also declared, were found among abnormal persons of different religious faiths. He placed no interpretation on the findings.

In gathering statistics to support his theory, he studied patients in three Chicago and one St. Louis psychopathic hospital, considering their sex, religion nationality, occupation, economic status and environmental background.

MENTAL DISEASES

Dr. Sherman excluded those whose abnormalities arose from physical disorders.

Comparing the symptoms in the mental diseases among the three main groups of religious affiliation — Catholic, Protestant and Jewish—Dr. Sherman said:

"Of the hallucinations in the Protestant group, 50 per cent pertained to religion. In the Catholic group only 27 per cent pertained to religion, whereas none was found in the Jewish group.

"Of the total number of grandiose delusions (abnormally high self-esteem), the percentage distribution was as follows: Protestant, 55; Catholic, 39; Jewish, 6.

"Of the somatic delusions (wherein the patient imagines himself diseased), the percentage distribution was Protestant, 40; Catholic, 44, and Jewish, 16.

"Of the paranoic trend (delusions of persecution), Protestant, 44; Catholic, 46, and Jewish, 10."

Of the group of patients studied, Dr. Sherman also found that women had more religious delusions than men and more frequently imagined they were sick.

DELUSIONS OF GRANDEUR

On the other hand, the men patients suffered more from delusions of grandeur.

The explanation for this difference, he said, lay in the fact that life, for man, was more complex, his social problems more numerous and difficult, his contacts with others in daily competition commoner.

To escape from consequent frustrations and rebuffs, he tended to place an unreasonably high valuation on himself. Woman, however, Dr. Sherman declared, was engrossed with herself—hence her bodily delusions.

His studies indicated, said Dr. Sherman, that frequency of abnormal symptoms increased as one's life became more complicated. Those from simple surroundings were less apt to become afflicted with mental twists.

Equations to Replace Knife, Dr. Crile Says

CHICAGO, June 23.—(AP.)—A prediction that the surgeon of the future would "operate" with mathematical equations instead of knives was made by Dr. George Crile, of the Cleveland Clinic bearing his name, in an address before the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He said:

"Looking forward we can glimpse a century of fewer operations. Biochemistry and biophysics will supplant the scalpel, and present day medical theories will give way to mathematical equations."

MOVIE ACTORS TO DISCUSS CUT

LAS ANGELES, June 23.—(AP.)—Film players affiliated with the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences were notified yesterday to meet Wednesday night to discuss threatened attempts to lower salaries.

The conference was called after officers of the actors' branch of the academy received from New York quotations credited to Harry M. Warner, motion picture company president, saying screen stars are exorbitantly overpaid.

Warner declared their salaries should be subjected to drastic cuts and the money passed on to those whose salaries are smaller, the officers said. The statement was made, they said, following a series of conferences film leaders held in New York to formulate a new code under the industries control act.

PITTSBURGHER FIGHTS WILL

TULSA, Okla., June 23.—(AP.)—An attempt to break a will and prevent distribution of a $100,000 oil estate was made in District Court here yesterday by Mrs. Floy Shelly Davis, of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Davis alleged Mark E. Davis deserted her in 1907 after a year's marriage and divorced her later without her knowledge.

Davis, who died in 1927, was a candy store clerk in Pittsburgh at the time of their marriage, Mrs. Davis testified, and later came to Oklahoma and made a small fortune in oil.

Mrs. Davis is not mentioned in the will.

A passport was introduced by the defense to show Mrs. Davis had designated herself as a divorcee in 1918 when she went to France as a Y. M. C. A. worker during the World War.

CIGARS CLUES TO EATON BOMB

WATCHUNG, N. J., June 23.—(INS.)—With two cigars, one partly smoked, and a five cent piece as their only clues, police today pressed a search for a would-be assassin or assassins who placed a dynamite bomb in the automobile of Rep. Charles A. Eaton (Rep.), of the Fifth New Jersey district.

The bomb was discovered, and the Congressman's life probably saved, by the alertness of Joseph Ballonton, an employe, who discovered the infernal machine when he went to investigate a noise in the Eaton garage.

Disorders Reported In French Colonies

PARIS, June 23.—(AP.)—Disorders in African colonies, Chamber of Deputies lobbies reported today, have reached such a stage that the Radical Socialists have decided to interpellate the government.

Officials denied the reports, but deputies said Communists are fomenting trouble in Algeria, that French have clashed with Italians in Tunis and that rebellious uprisings have occurred in Morocco with disturbances in Rabat.

King George, Well Again, To Attend Royal Court

13 American Women To Bow Before His Majesty

LONDON, June 23.—(AP.)—For the first time this season King George will attend the Royal Court at Buckingham Palace tonight, at which 13 American women are to be presented.

This is the fifth and last royal court of the year and it may have a double distinction. King Feisal of Iraq will probably attend, it was said. If he does, two kings will be present at the glamorous and impressive function.

The king and queen will occupy two gold and crimson thrones on a great dais in the ballroom.

The Americans to be presented tonight by Mrs. Robert W. Bingham, wife of the United States Ambassador, include Miss Alexandra Bacon, of Westbury, N. Y.; Miss Henrietta Worth Bingham, of Louisville, Ky.; Miss Victoria Brady, of Gladstone, N. J.; Mrs. Paul Hays, of Staunton, Va.; Miss Carol Hulings, of Baltimore; Mrs. Gladys Kemp, of New York City; Mrs. Henry A. Koelsch, Jr., of Scarborough-on-Hudson, N. Y.; Miss Margaret McReynolds, of Chattanooga; Mrs. John W. Monahan, of Chicago; Miss Eleanor Converse Preston and Miss Helen Robbins, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Linton Wells, of Glens Falls, N. Y., and Miss Barbara Wertheim, of New York City.

British Officer Begins Lone Ocean Voyage

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 23.—(AP.)—Capt. H. V. Hutson, of the British Royal Naval Reserve, was beginning today a lone voyage across the Atlantic to Gibraltar, via the Azores, in a 70-foot cutter.

KIDNAPING TOLD BY HEIR

NEW YORK, June 23.—(INS.)—The story of a daring kidnaping of the wealthy son of a White Plains contractor by two men who held him prisoner for two nights and a day until they despaired of collecting a $25,000 ransom, was told by the victim today after he had been thrown out of his abductor's car in Eastchester.

The youth, Walter Riegel, 18, son of A. H. Riegel, said he was held captive in an apartment in "downtown Manhattan or somewhere on Long Island," after being seized as he was returning by automobile on Wednesday night to his home in the exclusive Ridgeway section of White Plains.

NEW KIDNAPING LAID TO FLOYD

MUSKOGEE, Okla., June 23.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Myers, of Tulsa, reported to Muskogee police today that they were kidnaped last night between Tulsa and Claremore by four men, one of whom resembled pictures of Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, much-sought outlaw.

They were released, they said, on a detour between Warner and Webbers Falls about 5 a. m., the outlaws stealing the Myers' automobile.

Myers said he was positive one of the men was Floyd. Another was addressed by his companions as "Dago." These two talked, Myers said, about the kidnaping last week of Sheriff Jack Killingsworth at Bolivar, Mo.

Killingsworth was kidnaped by Floyd and Adam Ricchetti when the Sheriff appeared at a Bolivar garage where repairs were being made on Floyd's car. Killingsworth was released unharmed near Kansas City, Mo.

Dinehart Will Wed Titian-haired Actress

HOLLYWOOD, June 23. —(INS.)—After applying for a marriage license, Alan Dinehart, noted film director, and Mozelle Brittone, titian-haired actress from Oklahoma City, announced today that they would be married next week. Their romance started eight months ago on a movie set.

ATTACK KIDNAP STORY LINKING M'MATH

Kenneth Buck Faces Fierce Grilling on 'Mysterious Bill'

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 23.—(AP.)—Kenneth Buck was subjected to a blistering cross-examination in Barnstable Superior Court today as he continued to insist that a shadowy figure "Bill" had directed his activities in the kidnaping of Margaret (Peggy) McMath.

are on trial for the kidnaping of the 10-year-old girl who was taken from a Harwich school on May 2 to be returned three days later after $60,000 ransom had been paid. The ransom was recovered in Kenneth's home.

Kenneth yesterday admitted his complicity in the kidnaping but said he was "hooked" into the case by the mysterious "Bill," of Hyannis. He said "Bill" told him that Neil McMath, father of the child, "knew all about it" and that it was not a "real kidnaping." He quoted "Bill" as saying "McMath needed money."

SHOUTS QUESTIONS

Q.—You were the real kidnaper weren't you?"

A.—No.

A.—Yes.

Q.—And before that you telephoned the McMat hhome?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Why did you do that?

A.—I was reading from the paper.

Q.—And you want the court to believe that the mysterious Bill gave you a paper telling you what to do?

A.—Yes, that's the way it was.

Q.—Why didn't you ask Bill his name?

A.—I knew McMarth was behind it.

Q.—You had no knowledge yourself that McMath had anything to do with this. Did you?

A.—No.

M'MATHS LAUGH

Mr. and Mrs. McMath, parents of the child, sat in the front of the courtroom and once when the mention of "Bill" was made they laughed outright.

Kenneth related the events leading to the conference on the boat Bob in Wychmere Harbor, on the night the child was returned.

He said he communicated with McMath on the boat by writing, having refused to speak.

Explaining the transfer of the ransom money, Kenneth said:

"McMath took a package and put in into my coat pocket and said 'I am giving you this as a gift.' He told me to spend it easy and not put it all in the bank at once."

The defendant then told of leaving the Bob and rowing to shore where he took off the hood he was wearing and put it on McMath. He said they got into McMath's car and drove "right through the town proper of Harwichport" to the place where the child was kept in the cellar of a vacant house.

Clubber Kills Woman Hurls Body in Weeds

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., June 23.—(INS.)—The body of a well-dressed woman about 40, who had apparently been bludgeoned to death, was found in a patch of weeds near a dirt road on the outskirts of the city today.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure is centered north of the Great Lakes and over the Canadian Northwest, while over the United States the pressure is relatively low, with rather weak centers over the central plains and over Utah. As a result of this pressure distribution the skies are mostly clear, and the temperature is about normal over the northern half of the country and above normal over the southern states. Temperatures of 100 degrees or higher occurred yesterday over Western Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Southern Kansas and Northern Louisiana. Generous showers occurred yesterday and last night over Florida, elsewhere the rains were light and scattered.

RISING PRICES POINT TO RECOVERY

WASHINGTON, June 23—(AP)—American commodity prices have out-stripped the fall of the dollar and are pointing for President Roosevelt's goal of a level high enough to bring the country some prosperity.

For the first time since the stock markets and the commodity indexes started their climb, an official analysis has now indicated the spread between the true price rise and the dollar's depreciation as a consequence of gold standard abandonment.

The Federal Reserve Board's monthly review is out today with the statement that by the end of May—just before the latest decline began—the dollar was down 15 per cent in terms of French francs, the leading gold standard currency. The British pound had lost two per cent in the same time.

60 PER CENT JUMP

Six basic commodities, said the board, had by the end of May jumped 60 per cent since February. One-half of the rise corresponded to a general world rise, and the remaining 30 per cent represented dollar depreciation plus actual domestic rise. The commodities discussed were cotton, lard, silver, copper, tin and rubber.

There is still a long way to go to reach the 1926 average which is regarded as the Roosevelt goal, and pending which the dollar stabilization plans are being held off. The Department of Labor placed the June 17 index for all commodities at 64.5 against 100 for 1926. The course was charted steadily upward through the last several weeks. May 20, it was 63.0, and the succeeding weeks 63.3, 63.8, 64.0 and now 64.5.

BIG REVENUE FROM BEER

With this clearcut evidence of a mounting tide went also the better business pointer of growing tax collections. Beer led the parade in May, surpassing expectations to turn in more than $11,500,000, plus several hundred thousand in special associated levies. At that rate it may yield $280,000,000 a year instead of the calculated $150,000,000.

Stock market activity spurted the yield from security transfer taxes to $4,704,000, more than double that for April.

May receipts in all classes for the first time were sufficient to bring collections for the fiscal year past the receipts of the previous year. The 11 months of fiscal 1933 yielded $1,368,238,226, against $1,350,734,652 for 1932's 11 months.

COAL INDUSTRY SEEKS HARMONY

Officials of Central Coals Associates announced in Washington late yesterday that they had completed a code which might be presented to Gen. Johnson today. Central Coals is a newly formed organization of operators in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Northern West Virginia and Maryland. It does not represent all the operators in any of these districts, however.

Coal men are of the opinion that the code of this group will precipitate a controversy with the operators in the Southern fields.

Frank E. Taplin, of Cleveland, who has been the dominant figure in the organization of Central Coals, declared that the Northern operators should demand that the Southern producers increase wages to a common level. Wages in Southern fields are substantially below those of the Northern fields. The change which he suggested probably would make it necessary for Southern operators to increase their prices. This would permit the Northern operators to regain some of the markets which they lost to the Southern fields several years ago. Naturally the Southern operators will oppose this.

Works Program Held Inflation Substitute

U. S. Ready to Start Huge Road Project, Publisher Says

The credit expansion in the government's $3,300,000,000 public works program is removing the need for currency inflation.

This is the view of Col. Willard T. Chevalier, New York publisher, who addressed a group of business men this afternoon at Hotel William Penn. Col. Chevalier played an active part in drawing up the public works sections of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

He believes that a large part of the $400,000,000 set aside by the government for highway construction will be at work within 90 days and that $1,000,000,000 in public improvements will be launched by fall.

Congressman Clyde Kelly, addressing the meeting, asked that Pittsburgh business men give support to the Recovery Act, as a means of ending the cut-throat competition which "had almost resulted in the suicide of industry."

Chevalier, in an interview, described direct relief as a drain on the nation which would, in a short time, have absorbed the entire national income. He said:

"We had to fight direct relief bitterly. We knew it was not the right way to recovery and everyone knows it now."

He also struck at the idea that people should be put to work without labor saving equipment, pointing out that such a condition would provide no work for industrial employes and would not give the community the most for its money.

The Industrial Control Bill naturally followed the Recovery Act, Chevalier declared. Its chief purpose, he said, is to prevent the exploitation of labor and thus protect mass purchasing power.

The meeting was arranged by Ketchum, MacLeod and Grove, Inc., advertising agency, for a group of their clients.

Philadelphia Shows Employment Gains

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—(AP.)—Unemployment in the Philadelphia district decreased from April to May for the second consecutive month, the industrial research department of the University of Pennsylvania reports.

Since March 15, the unemployment peak, there has been a steady decrease, with jobs given to 30,500, the report shows.

STEEL ORDERS SPUR MILL ACTIVITY

Production is continuing on an upper level in the Pitsburgh district steel plants, with many orders reported today. Sharing in the distribution of contracts by the Bureau of Ordinance of the Navy Department, the Carnegie Steel Company has an order for 249 tons of armor plate.

The American Bridge Company has been awarded contracts for 1,760 tons of steel for beam spans for the Missouri Pacific Railroad, and 1,000 tons for plant work at Gary, Ind., for the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company.

STEEL FOR RACE TRACK

McClintic-Marshall Company, a subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel, has taken orders for 250 tons of structural steel for a race track at Bay Shore, Cali.; 250 tons for transmission towers for the Public Service Corporation of Newark; 225 tons for plant alterations for the Oldbury Chemical Company, Niagara Falls, and 125 tons for an addition to the Iroquois Brewing Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

Marking the upward trend in the fine glass industry, the optical department of the L. J. Houze Convex Glass Company at Point Marion has received sufficient orders this week to keep 90 employes working full time for the next three months. An addition to the plant will be completed within the next 10 days which will give employment to another 90 workers.

PLANT OPENING SEEN

Developments are moving toward the reopening of the Jeannette Window Glass Company's plant at Point Marion, which has been closed for 10 years, as a result of a meeting of the local Council last night.

If the plant should resume operations, it was reported, it would make possible a minimum $100,000 payroll.

U. S. Industrial Bill Keystone of New Deal

$3,300,000,000 Work, Control Act Main Hope for Recovery

(Editor's Note—This is the first of a series of articles on the aims, principles and operations of the momentous $3,300,000,000 public works-industrial control act on which the administration is relying to accelerate economic recovery.)

By WILLIAM H. DOHERTY
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—An industrial experiment more far-reaching than anything ever attempted in America is under way to pull the nation out of the depression.

The scheme is so gigantic and envisages such a momentous change in industrial life that, temporarily at least, Washington is the industrial capital of the country.

All the leaders are here or have sent representatives to find out what is taking place under the direction of the "National Industrial Recovery Administration."

CAPSTONE OF NEW DEAL

It is hailed by its friends as the capstone of the new deal, and by its foes as an attempt to Russianize America. The objectives are simple, but promise to be extremely complicated of attainment. Its sponsors sum up its purposes thus:

To provide agreements among all the producers in one industry to maintain higher wage levels, fewer hours of work, and [illegible] to promote fair competition.

Stated another way, the aim is to eliminate cut-throat competition, such as price-cutting, by manufacturers and producers who are pauperizing labor through starvation wages and unconscionably long hours.

This "chiselling fringe" of industry must be removed, they say, to allow industry to maintain a decent standard of living, and drastically reduce unemployment.

Briefly, the competitive profit system in business as it exists today has been weighed and found wanting. The anti-trust laws designed to prevent monopolies and consequent gouging of the public have proved more a a curse than a blessing, officials aver.

INDUSTRIAL SUICIDE

Industry is committing suicide, sponsors of the plan say. By keeping workers on a starvation basis, the purchasing power of the nation is disappearing.

Many articles are actually selling below the cost of production. Obviously there is no profit in that for any one. It is continuing because in many instances it is less unprofitable to keep up plants at a loss than to bank the fires.

Obviously, too, those manufacturers who seek to do the right thing by their employes are helpless in the face of ruthless competition. They must also descend to sweatshop standards or fail.

The depression brought it all on. Diminishing sales forced price-cutting and down the spiral went prices, wages and purchasing power, and sales slipped still farther.

Finally it dawned on Congress, spurred by President Roosevelt and his advisers, that something must be done or industry, the life of the nation, would perish.

That something was done—enactment of the $3,300,000,000 public works-industries control act.

N. Y. Acts to Raise Prices for Milk

ALBANY, N. Y., June 23.—(INS.)—The State Milk Control Board took steps today to control production of milk as a means of obtaining higher prices for dairy farmers.

The plan, which will be the subject of a hearing next Thursday, provides that farmers who decrease production will be paid higher prices for their milk, while those who increase their milk supply will be paid lower prices.

M'DONALD RAPS PESSIMISM AT PARLEY

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

LONDON, June 23.—A vigorous attack upon the pessimism prevailing at the world economic conference was launched by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald today.

Admitting that desirability of a temporary currency stabilization agreement was an "open question," MacDonald predicted an agreement would eventually be reached and lashed out at the present agitation on the part of some countries to adjourn the conference.

MacDonald expressed conviction the difficulties raised by America's refusal to enter a temporary stabilization agreement would be overcome.

CHECK TO HOPES

The American memorandum rejecting temporary stabilization "gave our hopes just a little check," MacDonald said. He added:

"But we must recognize that American conditions for the moment are very different in relation to attempts to arrive at temporary stabilization.

"The American economic situation is very real, as the memorandum on credits and price levels points out. American leaders are working most diligently for success of the conference and I must say it is an open question whether temporary stabilization would be helpful at present. I do not express a personal opinion here.

"The problem as now faced is not cloudy or uncertain. We are going on with our work without a break over the whole range of economic problems, culminating finally with stabilization.

"Informal consultations individually and otherwise are going on without pause. The time will come when we will co-ordinate this effort into a great stabilization declaration."

Stressing the importance of the psychological effect of the conference on a "stricken world," MacDonald declared that adjournment by the end of June would be a confession of failure and the death-knell of the meeting.

Such adjournment, he predicted, would result in currency wars and tariff wars.

America Spurs Credit Relief at Parley

LONDON, June 23.—(INS.)—Forcing the currency stabilization question into the background, the American delegation to the World Economic Conference today moved to sponsor abundant credit and other means of speedy and progressive world recovery through co-operative action.

The Americans submitted a resolution to the monetary commission outlining the American position on price levels and credit policy.

The resolution further clarified the United States stand, since it came on the heels of American refusal to enter a temporary currency stabilization agreement on grounds such action would halt the rise in prices at home.

Meanwhile, France proposed a quota truce which would enable countries using quotas as weapons against importations to keep them indefinitely.

The resolution was seen as a counter-proposal to the intensive drive by the United States for complete abolition of trade restrictions.

Hull Denies Report He Will Quit Post

LONDON, June 23.—(INS.)—Reports that he might resign after the World Economic Conference were denied emphatically today by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, chief of the American delegation.

"Absolute rot!" was the way he characterized the reports.

SEEKS SHRADER REWARD SHARE

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 23.—(INS.)—A belated echo of the Irene Shrader-Glenn Dague case was heard in the Prothonotary's office here today.

Chief of Police J. E. Crafton, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., whose men shot and killed Tom Crawford, brother of "Iron Irene," several months ago, filed a claim for a share of the reward offered for the capture of the murderers of Corp. Brady Paul, of the Highway Patrol.

In his statement of claim, Crafton asserts Crawford was with Irene and Dague when Paul was slain and therefore he legally was one of the murderers.

About a dozen claimants from Arizona, where Irene and Dague were captured, already are engaged in a court battle over distribution of the money. A hearing is scheduled in Common Pleas Court next month.

Briton 'Prefers' Roosevelt to Chamberlain

LONDON, June 23.—(AP.)—Josiah C. Wedgewood, a labor member, stirred the House of Commons today by telling Neville Chamberlain to his face that "the people of Britain would rather have Franklin Roosevelt as Chancellor of the Exchequer than Neville Chamberlain."

Cries of "No! No! No!" from the government benches answered the labor member's statement.

Later Robert Boothby, a Conservative, joined in the criticism of Mr. Chamberlain. He said:

"When Mr. Roosevelt said he was going to raise prices the world believed he would do it. But when Mr. Chamberlain said he hoped to raise prices nobody would believe he would do so by his policy."

ROOSEVELT TRIP TO LONDON DENIED

Chandlers Cove, off Chebeague Island in Casco Bay, today and set out for Tenants Harbor, near Rockland. Aboard were three new "sailors," the President's sons, Franklin, Jr., and John Roosevelt, and A. Y. Paul, of Philadelphia.

Early was contacted aboard one of the two naval destroyers that are guarding the leisurely vacation sail of the President.

He said Mr. Roosevelt "has no plans nor intention to go to London."

However the possibility of taking President Roosevelt to London was the chief topic of conversation today of the 700 officers and men of the cruiser Indianapolis.

No orders had been received to indicate the President contemplated crossing the Atlantic, it was explained.

NAVY IN DARK

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—(AP.)—Officers at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, where the Indianapolis was conditioned for her present cruise, said today they had no information that the cruiser will take President Roosevelt across the Atlantic.

Capt. S. C. Loomis, acting commandant, said the Indianapolis left with stores aboard for several months, but that is in accordance with a Navy regulation.

Capt. Gordon W. Haines, chief of staff, said the cruiser is under orders to return to Philadelphia July 5 for further repairs, particularly alterations to the boiler room.

Capt. Haines said the repair work would consume about 15 days and then the ship is scheduled to go to the Pacific Coast to become the flagship of the scouting fleet.

Roosevelt Reported Waiting Call by Moley

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—The Daily News, in a copyrighted dispatch from Provincetown, Mass., says the Navy is prepared to rush President Roosevelt to London aboard the new cruiser Indianapolis if Prof. Raymond Moley, now en route to the World Economic Conference, sends a hurry call for the President. The News says:

"In leaving the United States during his tenure of office, Roosevelt—should he go abroad—will follow the precedent established by the late Woodrow Wilson when he attended the peace conference in Paris in 1918. But it is believd that Roosevelt, unlike Wilson, would not set foot off the territory of the United States.

"This apparent fact of legerdemain he will be able to accomplish by bringing the Indianapolis to anchor in British waters, probably in the Thames, and inviting the bigwigs of other nations to confer with him on board."

LITHUANIA PAYS $10,000 ON U.S. DEBT

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Quick payment by Lithuania of $10,000 on its $132,091 June 15 debt installment today marked the first results of this government's warning that the defaulting debtor nations would not be welcome at the debt revision parade of the nondefaulting countries here late this summer.

Lithuania failed to make any payment on June 15 and waited to see what attitude this government would adopt towards the defaulters before making known its intentions.

Less than 24 hours after it became apparent this government intended to bar the defaulting nations from the debt revision parade, the Lithuanian minister, M. Bronius Balutis, telephoned Acting Secretary of State Phillips that he had received word from his government to notify the State Department of Lithuania's intention to make a partial payment.

This hurried notification was followed today by payment in silver of $10,000 on the $132,091 due. The payment was made at the federal assay office in New York.

Meanwhile, a possibility that Czecho-Slovakia may head the debt revision parade of the nondefaulting nations before President Roosevelt this summer, instead of Great Britain, became known today following word that this government was willing to grant a review of the Czecho-Slovakian debt situation the last week in July.

Aged Woman, Hit By Auto Door, Dies

ALTOONA, Pa., June 22.—(INS.)—Mrs. Susanne Berkheimer, 73, of New Enterprise, died yesterday from injuries suffered when knocked down by the open door of a friend's automobile. Police said the woman was bidding goodbye to C. O. Brumbaugh and a party of friends at the time of the accident. The car was started with a door open and Mrs. Berkheimer was thrown to the ground.

Handkerchief Lost, Dancer Offers $200

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—(AP.)—Because Miss Lorraine Mayes, dancer, was wearing a new golfing outfit, she spread her handkerchief on a bench at one of the greens before sitting down.

She forgot her diamond engagement ring was tied to one corner of the handkerchief and went away and left it there. That's why she offered a $200 reward for return of the handkerchief, providing the ring comes back with it.

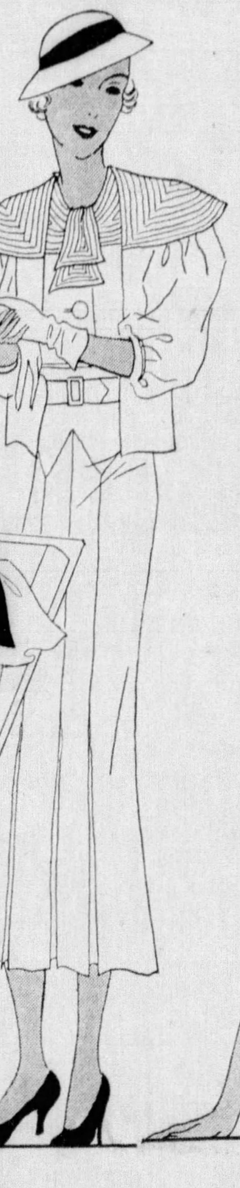
A Misses' "Sunshine Corner" Special

Washable Silk Frocks and Ensembles

$8.95



This new special purchase has grand attractions for young women who adore white and pastels for dress-up occasions and spectator wear, and crave the assurance that they are washable. There are rough crepes, twilled flat crepes, and new, dull bengaline weaves, in clear gardenia white, ivory white and delectable pastels—all of them easily tubbable.

The sleeveless white frock pictured, with navy organdie bow and belt, indicates the dressiness of the one-piece models; and the ensembles have unusually interesting jackets with tucked or epaulet shoulders, and finger-tip swagger coats.

SOCIALIST BAN BRINGS BOAST BY HITLER

BERLIN, June 23.—(AP.)—For his prohibition of the once-powerful Social Democratic Party Chancellor Adolf Hitler claims the support of three-fourths of German voters.

In a newspaper interview today the Nazi leader boasted 75 per cent of Germany would indorse, if new elections were ordered, his system, and yesterday's ban, on grounds of treason, of the Socialists, hitherto second in importance only to the Nazis.

The Chancellor cited anti-socialist decrees already promulgated in Italy and Turkey, and maintained that a setback of his policies in Germany is out of the question.

PARTY RANK DENIED

He asserted the Socialists were not a party, even though he insisted on outlawing them. Once the Social Democratic organization was the leader of Socialists throughout the world, and the winner of the 1918 revolution.

From it came Germany's first president, Friedrich Ebert, and the first Republican chancellor, Philipp Scheidemann. For years it dominated the Reich's political life.

That this ban was the forerunner of the elimination of all non-Nazi parties was expressed in political circles, where the opinion also was held that the Catholic Centrists and even the Nationalists, hitherto Hitlerite allies, would be the next to be cut off.

PROPERTY SEIZED

Wilhelm Frick, Interior Minister, ordered the confiscation of all Socialist party property and withdrawal of Socialist members from the Reichstag, the state diets, and the community parliaments. The government charged that subversive propaganda was found when a secret meeting in Hamburg was raided.

Just two days ago the Hitler administration dissolved the auxiliary organizations of Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist party leader, and raided various party headquarters His resignation from the ministries of Agriculture and Economics was predicted.

Meanwhile, the Boy Scouts organization was dissolved by Baldur von Schirach, new German youth leader, who ordered a blanket dissolution of similar organizations preparatory to welding the youngsters into a national youth group.

MAXEY TO STAY ON BENCH

ERIE, Pa., June 23.—(AP.)—Justice George W. Maxey, of Scranton, member of the Supreme Court, is not a candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, he told members of the Erie County Bar Association. He said:

"I like my job too well."

Senator James J. Davis praised President Roosevelt and indorsed virtually all of the special session legislation. He said he favors the national economy bill "only insofar as the administration would use it to practice real economy and not break faith with the veteran whose disability has been incurred on the battlefield."

WAGNER SUES STORE BOSS

John H. (Honus) Wagner filed suit in Common Pleas Court today against E. L. Braunstein, the E. L. Braunstein Company, the Honus Wagner Company, the National Storage Company and the United Sporting Goods Company, all controlled by Braunstein.

Wagner asked an injunction restraining the use of his name and also for accounting and payment of all monies due him under contract.

After his retirement from baseball, in which game his name had become a household word, Wagner went into business with Braunstein. Soon after, he alleged, Braunstein began liquidating sales, causing him considerable embarrassment.

Wagner claims under contract he was to receive a weekly salary of $60, a 3 per cent commission on personal sales and a 1 per cent commission on all sales over $50,000 a year.

'IGGY,' SLAYER, GETS NEW TRIAL

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 23.—(AP.)—James (Iggy) Varecha, sentenced to the electric chair from Chicago following his confession that he killed a man during a holdup, had a new lease on life today following a decision by the State Supreme Court to reverse his conviction and grant him a new trial.

The youth, who had often escaped from state institutions for the feeble minded was convicted for the slaying of Frank Jordan last November.

At the time of his confession he told police he had held up another man the night of the shooting and had attacked his girl companion after tying the man in the rumble seat of an automobile.

FATHER FREED TO SEE NEW SON

On the promise that he would be back tomorrow, either to pay a $10 fine or serve five days in jail, H. A. Balzer, unemployed machinist, has been released so he could see his son, born a short time after he was arrested.

Balzer, 53, of 1933 Watson street, had driven his wife to Magee Hospital, Wednesday night. Balzer was backing out of a driveway, it was testified. His car knocked a baby carriage out of the hands of Adaline Gruber, 13, of 22 Oakland square, tossing 11-month-old Sandra Gruber to the street, Adaline told Magistrate J. Scott Morgan. Balzer denied his car struck the buggy. He testified the girl upset the buggy, throwing the baby to the street.

PICKET FREED BY MAGISTRATE

Police have no right to interfere or arrest pickets who conduct themselves in an orderly manner, Magistrate Leo Rothenberg ruled last night when he discharged George Contis, 35, of 601 West Diamond street.

Contis, arraigned on a charge of violating a city ordinance, had been arrested yesterday morning in Center avenue, near Roberts street, while carrying a sign protesting the increase in prices of bread and buns in several Hill District bakeries. Magistrate Rothenberg said:

"Picketing, if done in the lawful way, is of no concern to the police court. Any controversy arising from picketing should be aired in a court of equity and not in police court. Police have no right to arrest pickets unless they cause a disturbance, annoy the public or resort to violence."

Ex-Policewoman K. O.'s Flirt in Theater

CHICAGO, June 23.—(AP.)—The accusation against Guy Thomas, 28, was that he attempted to flirt with a woman in a picture show.

Presumably he didn't know she was Mrs. May Hayes, formerly of the police force.

She slapped him, she testified before Judge Leon Edelman, and when he continued to annoy her she applied a knockout punch to the chin.

To add to Thomas' troubles the court fined him $100 and sent him to jail upon failure to pay.

'Runaway' Truck Sets Home on Fire

MONESSEN, Pa., June 23.—A truck crashed into the basement and set fire to the three-story frame dwelling of Albert Snellman on the outskirts of Monessen, causing $2,500 damage last night.

The driver, Grover Aldrich, of Rochester, N. Y., was slightly injured. He told police he lost control in rounding a grade curve.

DENTIST'S SAFE ROBBED OF GOLD

The offices of a dentist and a physician were looted by thieves yesterday.

Gold valued at $800 was reported stolen from a safe in the office of Dr. H. H. Sargent, a dentist, in the Jenkins Arcade. While Dr. Sargent was out at lunch a man entered the waiting room, which was left unlocked, climbed over a partition and robbed the safe, detectives said.

A watch valued at $60 was stolen from the office of Dr. H. E. Feather in the Medical Arts Building, Fifth avenue and Atwood street, police reported.

Steel Firm's Sleuth Hit by Automobile

Benjamin Speer, 43, of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation police department, suffered a lacerated tongue and a probable fracture of the shoulder early today when he was struck by an automobile at South Twenty-ninth and Carson streets.

Speer, who lives at 104 West Meyers avenue, Carrick, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Walter C. Wythers, 40, of 712 West Fifth avenue, McKeesport, driver of the automobile, was arrested.

YOU CAN SAVE

—by buying NOW . . . before rising costs force Leonard prices higher

COMMODITY prices are still on the up grade. Their rise has made necessary one increase in factory prices to us—and a corresponding increase in Leonard retail prices, effective June 28th.

We do not know how long we can guarantee these new prices. The trend of raw materials costs is up—not down. A further increase in the near future seems probable, but by ordering now you can protect yourself against it, and enjoy Leonard Electric refrigeration at the lowest possible cost.

Leonard is still the outstanding refrigeration value of the year, combining quality construction with an unequaled combination of convenience features. All Leonard Electrics—11 beautiful models (4 all-porcelain) have the famous all-porcelain cooling unit, one-piece porcelain interior, Chill-om-eter with 8 freezing speeds and new, fully automatic Steady Kold Defroster (refrigerates while it defrosts).

In addition, the standard models have the exclusive, step-saving LEN-A-DOR (a touch of the toe and the door swings open) which women call the handiest thing in the home. Also the dairy basket, telescoping and sliding shelves, and automatic electric light. Two-door models have convenient vegetable bin, another exclusive Leonard feature.

NEW DIVIDEND TAX MUDDLE CLEARED

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP.)—Overruling unofficial opinions expressed by tax officials, Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, in a statement today said the bureau would hold that dividends declared after June 15 were taxable.

The national industrial recovery act was signed by the President at 11:55 a. m., on June 16, and officials had expressed the unofficial opinion that it became effective at that time.

The section imposing the 5 per cent tax to be withheld at the source provides that dividends declared before the "effective date" were not taxable. Counsel for the Commissioner held that this meant that dividends declared before June 16, the day the new law became effective, were not taxable, and any dividends declared on June 16 must pay the tax.

OTHER TAX CHANGES

The Commissioner called attention to the other tax changes contained in the law, which included the excess profits tax imposed on corporations. This tax is equivalent to 5 per cent of that portion of the corporation net income for the taxable year ending after June 30, 1933, which is in excess of 12½ per cent of the adjusted declared value of its capital stock.

The law also increased the rate on consolidated returns of corporations from 14½ to 14¾ per cent, but this does not apply to the taxable years 1932 and 1933.

Another change taxes the accumulation of earnings held to avoid surtax and earnings held to avoid payment of excise taxes on dividends.

One of the most important changes is the repeal of the section of the law which permitted the taxpayer to carry over for two years losses from sale or exchange of stocks and bonds which have not been held for more than two years, and the repeal of the section which permitted deduction from taxable income for the year net loss in the preceding year.

PRIVATE BANK LIMIT

Another change limits private banks to losses on sale or exchange of stocks or bonds which are not capital assets. Still another amendment prohibits any part of a loss of a partnership being taken as a deduction to a member of such partnership in computing his net income.

The new law also provides that all tax returns made under the act shall be open to public examination and inspection to such extent as shall be authorized by the President. It also provides that the new taxes may be declared void by the President at the end of any year during which the government's total receipts exceed its expenditures or when the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed.

Helvering said regulations soon would be promulgated covering the imposition of new taxes and the changes in the law made by the various amendments.

DENY PAY RAISE TO RAIL HEAD

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission thinks officials of railroads taking advantage of the new federal bankruptcy act should take a cut in salary instead of getting a raise when they are named trustees to operate their carriers.

J. Ledlie Hees, of Gloversville, N. Y., was getting $15,000 a year as head of the Fonda, Johnstown and Gloversville Railroad Company. When the depression came he cut his salary to $10,000.

On April 20 he was named trustee to operate the railroad under the direction of the Federal Court for the Northern District of New York. He immediately applied for a $15,000 salary, saying that he had not been giving full time to the road and felt that if he did he should receive the higher figure.

The commission today had issued an order, without spescial comment, fixing his salary at $7,500 a year beginning April 20.

Philadelphia Wife Gets Reno Divorce

RENO, Nev., June 23.—(INS.)—A few hours after she had filed a divorce complaint charging John H. W. Ingersoll, Philadelphia, with cruelty, Frances Mills Ingersoll yesterday was granted a decree at a private trial. They were married in Wayne, Pa., in 1925.

FIVE HONORED BY DE MOLAY

Pittsburgh district youths were among the 33 given the Legion of Honor degree, highest award of the DeMolay Order, at the DeMolay state conclave in Kane, Pa., today.

Among the local youth, according to an Associated Press dispatch, were:

Harry F. Painter, Turtle Creek; Charles Chalfant, McKeesport; Joseph Pleasant, Duquesne; Clarence MacPherson, Jr., and James Winters, Pittsburgh.

Others from the Pittsburgh district named on various committees were Davis J. Jackson, Sewickley; C. A. McPherson, Bellevue; Robert McCune, McKeesport; John L. Bercher, Pittsburgh; Louis N. Seeger, Jr., McKeesport, and John Fitzgerald, Dormont.

Officers were to be elected late today. Lancaster and Pittsburgh are bidding for next year's meeting.

McKeesport Girl Injured in Fall

Policeman Shot By Own Revolver

Patrolman Charles Bradley, attached to the East End Police Station, was in Mercy Hospital today with a bullet wound in the leg, inflicted when his service revolver fell to the floor in his home, 7518 Formosa way, last night.

Boy's Scalp Cut At Piano Practice

WILMINGTON, Del., June 23.—(AP.)—Six-year-old Morris Schultz was struck on the head by the lid of a piano while practicing music in his home and was treated at a hospital for scalp injuries.

4 FEARED LOST IN CANOE UPSET

EDMONTON, Alberta, June 23.—(AP.)—Fate of three Colorado School of Mines students today was still a mystery as word was awaited from Lake Athabaska concerning a reported drowning accident. No word had reached here from Fort Chipweyan, lonely outpost on the lake, to confirm or provide additional details of the mishap.

The trio, Albert Comstock, Bronxville, N. Y.; Robert Weld, Watertown, Conn., and Robert Burns, Nelson, B. S., were on a canoe trip through the north country. Burns' parents, who hastened East from Nelson to check the report, were still at Fort Chipweyan, which they reached by plane from McMurray.

The canoe in which the Golden (Col.) students were paddling was reported to have capsized.

Three Children Die In Oil Stove Blast

TILBURY, Ontario, June 23.—(INS.)—Three small children were burned to death near here today when an oil stove explosion wrapped their farm home in flames.

The victims were Reta Fox, 5, and her brothers, Leonard, 4, and Glenn, 5 months. A fourth child, John, 2, was rescued by their mother, Mrs. Benjamin Fox.

MENU CONTEST NO. 2 DRAWING BIG RESPONSE

So great was the number of entries submitted in the first week's Prudence Penny's Prize Dinner Menu Contest that the judges will not be able to complete their work until late today. The task has been made doubly arduous because there were so many really fine menus sent in. The judges are putting in so much time and care in their work that the winners will have well earned the $100 in cash prizes to be awarded.

In the meantime hundreds of entries are coming in for Contest No. 2, irrespective of the menus submitted by housewives in Contest No. 1. The same problem is to be solved by the women readers of the Sun-Telegraph:

"Can four persons be served with a well-balanced, appetizing dinner menu at a cost not to exceed $1.50?"

The prizes for the second week will also be $100 in cash. The first prize is $25. Entries for Contest No. 2 must be in before next Tuesday night at midnight.

Women interested in this unique and timely test are advised not to wait for the announcement of the winners for the first week. Bear in mind that it is an entirely new contest this week on the same question. Housewives may submit the same menus that they sent in last week—amplified or changed if they wish. The opportunity, however, is still open to win a liberal cash prize in the second week's contest, and there is nothing to stop an entrant from winning two or more prizes if she submits what the judges select as the very best menus.

On another page of today's Sun-Telegraph there is an entry blank and complete set of rules for the dinner menu Contest No. 2. If additional blanks are desired, they can be secured for the asking at any of the leading stores: Triangle, Kroger's, Butler's, Clover Farm, Donahoe's or McCann's.

That a 9-room house on North avenue, suitable for 2 families, is for rent at $40 a month.

That a nurse is needed for an invalid; references required.

"Nowadays it's the Sun-Telegraph for Want Ad results." Want Ads for big Sunday issue can be phoned in till 9 o'clock tonight and up to 1 p. m. Saturday.

WIFE'S COOKING AIDS DIVORCE

Dr. Charles H. Girt, a dentist, of Elizabeth, whose wife's cooking, according to his testimony, worried him considerably, has been granted a divorce from Helen Girt by Judge William H. McNaugher.

The doctor, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and a former instructor there, told the court that he and his wife quarreled frequently over trivial things and that many of their differences were controlled by outside sources, principally relatives. He said his wife's conduct made him nervous. It was revealed that the doctor had valuable oriental rugs which Mrs. Girt did not take the best care of. He also claimed she interfered with him in his practice.

JUDGE SMITH FETE TONIGHT

Men and women prominent in business, political and civic life will attend a testimonial meeting and reception for Judge Ralph H. Smith, of Common Pleas Court, at 8 o'clock tonight in Memorial Hall. Several thousand persons are expected to be present.

Judge Smith

Speakers will be Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, former commander of the 80th Division; John E. Laughlin, dean of the school of law, Duquesne University; John H. Adams, principal of Perry High School and former teacher of Judge Smith, and Attorney Gregory Zatkovich.

Superior Judge Joseph Sladfeld was scheduled to be one of the speakers, but was forced to leave for the East today.

DEMOCRAT CLUB IN 19TH WARD

The Nineteenth Ward now has a Democratic club, and there are going to be more party organization in wards, boroughs and townships where heretofore all the Democrats enrolled could have met in a telephone booth.

The Nineteenth Ward club, just formed, is one of the first units to be formed in anticipation of the September primary and November general election. Officers of the club are:

James G. Lagnard, president; James Hodson, vice president; Joseph Hagen, corresponding secretary; John N. Nolan, treasurer; Ray Geary, financial secretary.

New East Liberty Drug Store Opens

With a new line of merchandise and new fixtures, the East Liberty Cut Rate Drug Store has opened at 6300 Frankstown avenue. In a statement, Maurice Wesoky, the proprietor, said:

"We have a new organization, and have no connection with the East Liberty Pharmacy, which formerly occupied the same site."

Goodwill Industries Asks for Clothing

The Goodwill Industries is appealing to families throughout the county to donate lightweight wearing apparel. Donors may either send the garments to 2801 Liberty avenue or notify the Goodwill headquarters, which will call for the donations.

Rural Ridge Child Falls Into Tub, Dies

2ND MAN FREED IN THEFT TRIAL

A second defendant in the trial of an alleged truck robbery ring operating on the Lincoln and William Penn highways, was freed today by Visiting Judge J. H. McCann. He is Harry Soffer, of Duquesne. Yesterday the court directed that D. J. Fogel, of Morgantown, W. Va., be acquitted.

The jury was ready to take the case of five remaining defendants, all charged with receiving stolen goods. They are Louis Essner, Duquesne; Benjamin Bondy, McKeesport; Leon Friedman, Pittsburgh; Fred Hoffman, McKeesport, and Henry Samovitz, Braddock.

Three defendants, Patsy and Raymond Tierno, of New Alexandria, and Joseph Hanlon, of Pittsburgh, pleaded guilty to highway robbery.

REALTY BROKER GUILTY IN BRIBE

CAMBRIDGE, O., June 23.—(AP.)—E. D. Shively, Cambridge real estate dealer, today had been convicted of attempting to bribe State Representative Forest W. Hall. He faces from one to 10 years in prison.

Shively was indicted after an Ohio legislative committee investigated Hall's charge that Shively offered him $1,000 to "forget" his bill to reduce the interest rates on chattel loans and mortgages.

Hall is pastor of the Senecaville Methodist Episcopal Church.

HIGH, LOW BROWS SAME

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 23.—(INS.)—Feminine movie stars today eyed each other's foreheads with interest, but there was no trace of jealousy over brows that were low or brows that were high.

The reason was the pronouncement of Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, curator of anthropology in the Smithsonian Institute at Washington that:

For instance there are Carole Lombard and Sylvia Sidney, two of Hollywood's prettiest.

Both are rated as better than average in intelligence, yet Carole is a highbrow in the exact sense of the word, and Sylvia a lowbrow.

Miss Lombard said:

"It would be silly for me to presume that I am brainier than Sylvia just because I top her in the distance between my eyebrows and my hair line."

Then again there is Mae West, who acts in the plays she has written herself—which should qualify her for a considerable degree of intellectual acclaim. Mae's brow is pretty low as brows go.

SPANISH VETS ELECT TODAY

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., June 23.—(INS.)—With election of officers slated late today by the United Spanish War Veterans of Pennsylvania, and the auxiliary, Mrs. Nellie Wilson of Pittsburgh was proposed for judge advocate of the auxiliary.

Other Western Pennsylvanians mentioned for posts were Mrs. Myrtle Baker, Franklin, junior vice president; Mrs. Margaret Mackey, Pittsburgh, instructor; Mrs. Jennie Black, Altoona, historian; Mrs. Mayme Condrin, Oil City, conductor; Mrs. Julia Bollinger, Johnstown, guard; Mrs. Sara Q. Dunmeir, Greensburg, delegate to the national convention in Los Angeles, and Mrs. Estelle Thompson, Pittsburgh, alternate.

County to Fight For Bank Interest

The new bank law which bans interest on daily balances will not affect deposits of the county, according to Solicitor A. W. Powell, of the County Controller's office.

Powell said the county has contracts with the depositories running until January 1, 1936. He said if any bank refused to pay interest, it would be the privilege of the county to withdraw its funds.

HOUNDS TRACK FUGITIVES

GATESVILLE, Tex., June 23.—(AP.)—Bloodhounds aided officers in the capture of four inmates of the Gatesville Reformatory, who escaped shortly before the body of W. J. Leonard, reformatory blacksmith, was found in his shop.

The hounds yesterday trailed James Anderson and Clarence Raines to a ranch. Today they led officers to a railroad yard at Morgan where they captured Grady Applegate and Willard Scott.

Sheriff Pearl Benson, of Bosque County, said Scott made a statement concerning the slaying of Leonard, but its details were not divulged.

Reformatory officials said the four youths worked in the shop of Leonard, 48, who was found Wednesday with his head battered by an ax. His motorcar was missing. The car was found abandoned near Meridian, where the first two boys were captured.

The four have been charged with murder.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Parents Should Be Ready To Cheer Youngsters

"Goofy!" is Mother's verdict, and she wants us to tell her some way to save them from themselves.

Can she do it?

Should she, if she can?

Or should the youngsters be allowed to buck life for themselves?

Dear Miss Robinson:

Will you please help us? We are confronted with a situation we can't seem to handle.

We are the parents of a 23-year-old son who is contemplating getting married some time this month. He was graduated from college last June, and he has not yet been able to find employment, except with his father, whose finances are not such as to enable him to pay the boy enough to more than just help support him.

But, as the girl is working (though for an extremely small salary, too, as it happens), they feel that they will get along, and that it is all right for them to go ahead with their plans.

We don't feel that they can make a go of it. We have tried to reason with our son, and tell him that he should wait until he is making more, but all to no avail.

DOES NOT APPROVE

As a last resource, we even invited the girl's parents over to our house and talked it over with them, trying to get them to back up our stand. But they refused to back us, insisting that if the young people want it that way, the marriage should take place.

We don't know what on earth to do. Do you think that a boy who has not even bought his own clothes, or paid his board yet, should get married?

Please help us out, and tell us if you know of anything that we can do to stop this business. We feel that it would be sure to end badly, and we don't want that to happen to our boy.

A DISTRESSED MOTHER.

Of course you don't, my dear! But if they choose to do it, there is no way you can stop them. They have to meet life for themselves. If they're merely a couple of foolhardy kids determined to have their own way, whether it's possible or not, it is quite likely that they will come to grief.

HELP THEM

How, then, can you help them?

Not by objecting, my dear, because they won't listen to you, but by standing by, ready with the tolerance and common sense that life should have taught you—to help them fight through to victory, or to survive defeat gamely.

So—hands off, with criticism! Ready with understanding and encouragement! If they strike a snag, don't stand off and say "I told you so!" Say "Heads up! Forward march! What's a barked shin, if you get there in the end?"

And — who knows? — maybe they're not just a couple of nit-wit, irresponsible kids. Maybe they're a couple of gallant young adventurers, who see the hard road ahead for just what it is, and are willing to brave the "outrageous slings of fortune" to go on together!

Whichever they are, it's their road, and they must learn to walk it. So—give 'em a hand!

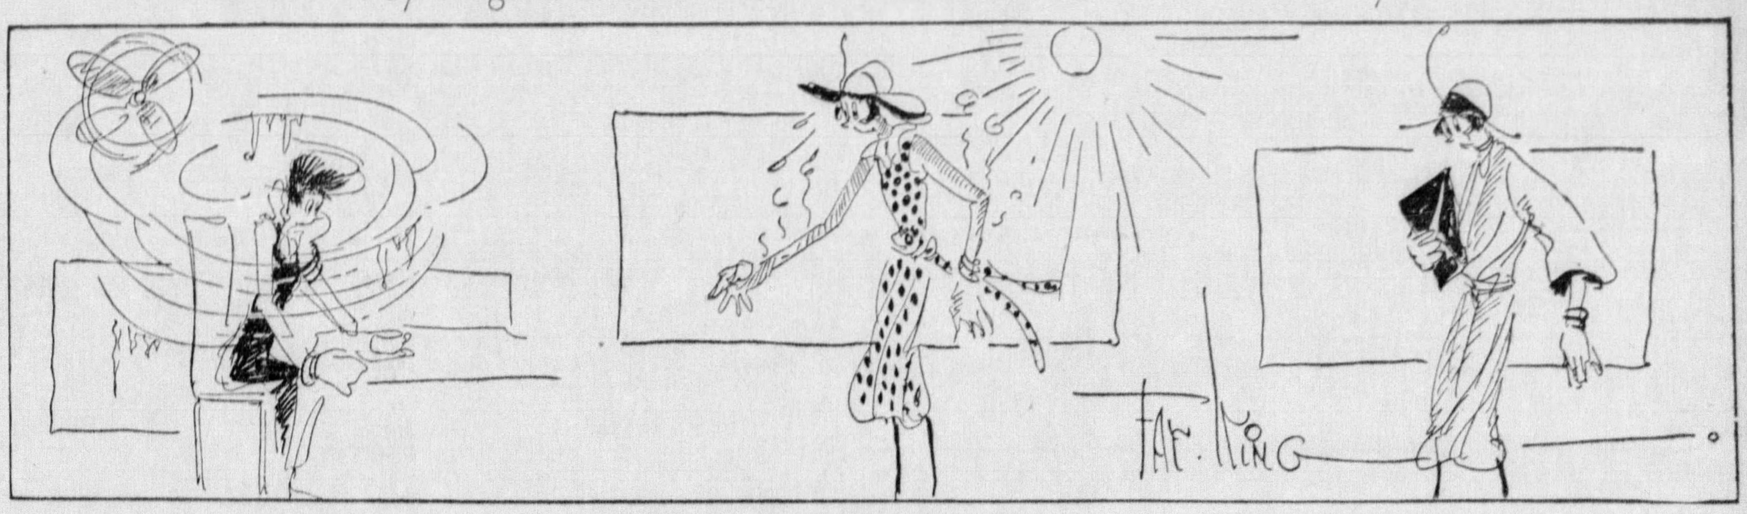
Fay King's Advice Comes Like a Cool Breeze on a Hot Day



By FAY KING

In hot countries no activity takes place during the heat of the day. Everyone retires to rest and quiet. In the tropics no alcoholic drinks are taken until after sundown.

We can also learn from animals that may do as they please. Birds seek the shade in some leafy tree. The family cat finds a cool spot for sleep. The dog lies by quietly.

On hot days one should be as quiet in every way as possible. Don't argue. Don't rush. Relax!

For me a hot bath is more refreshing than a cold one. I find a light wrap cooler than to have the hot sun beating directly upon bare arms and neck. It also protects one from the chill of electric fans and cooling systems.

Heart of a Wife -:- -:- Continuation of LOVE'S REAWAKENING

By ADELE GARRISON

Gangster's Insults Bring Quick Retribution

What prompted Nick, the gangster, to utter his mocking diatribe against me I never shall know. He was bound and helpless in the hands of the men who had accompanied Harry Underwood in his wild dash to our rescue. He could not hope to escape, and I have wondered if the low cunning of which he was possessed had not suggested the advisability of laying the foundation for some form of blackmail. Or he might have been so enraged at me that he wished to leave me a legacy of trouble with my husband, as a result of his innuendo.

Whatever his motive, the consequences were swift, summary, and, I am sure, astounding to him. Dicky, with a choking, angry snarl, sprang in the direction of the voice.

With a deft, swift motion, Hugh put me down upon the ground, then stripped off his flying coat, laid it down, and lifting me tenderly, placed me upon it.

"I don't think I shall be needed," he said, "but if I should be wanted, I'm not going to waste any time."

Dicky had been swallowed by the darkness from which Nick's voice had come. From it sounded his voice, now tense and raucous.

"Let go of him, Wynne. Untie him, and then let me at him!"

"Oh, what is he going to do?" I quavered.

"Something for which I'd trade my right arm," Hugh answered. "He's going to thrash that fellow within an inch of his life."

"But that beast won't fight fairly," I choked apprehensively. "He probably has a knife or a revolver hidden somewhere, and he's such a big ruffian."

"You're wasting your time worrying about trifles, Lady Fair," Harry Underwood said grimly. "In the first place—Hold him, Wynne, a second or two longer!—We're not going to turn him loose until we've frisked him from the skin out. In the second place, we'll all be watching for any off move. In the third place, did you ever see your husband box? It's the man called Nick that needs prayers, not the Dicky bird."

He dashed after Dicky, and then Nick's voice sounded again, no longer blustering, but with a distinct whine in it.

"Say, can't you birds take a joke?" he asked querulously. "This is what I get for helping the little dame out when she asked me to chase the other car and help her girl friend get away."

"Shut up, if you know what's good for you," Wynne growled.

"Not a thing," Wynne reported after a minute. "We took an arsenal away from him before."

There was a sound between a gasp and a bellow as Nick realized he was free. Evidently he had judged these men by his own standards, and believed Dicky meant to slug him while the others held him. Then he launched his great bulk at Dicky with feral, terrifying swiftness.

"You asked for it, cull," he snarled.

Those who like knitting but do not care to tackle anything elaborate should start by knitting some new jackets for hot water bottles. These are so simply done that a child can do them and they are so useful. Cast on sufficient stitches to cover the width of the bottle, then knit on, as for a scarf till there is enough knitting to make into a bag. Double over and sew up the two sides. Make a handle of ribbon or another strip of knitting.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Three Bids

A witty writer once remarked that within every human being there are three personalities—one, the actual person; two, the person the individual thinks he is; and, three, the person the other people think he is. Perhaps this figure of speech might be carried over to the bidding of a hand at Bridge. Thus almost every hand could be bid in three ways, the first being the ideal way, the second the way the holder thinks it should be bid, and the third, the way the holder's partner or opponents think it should be bid.

Mr. Frank L. Worthington, of Doylestown, Pa., submitted to me the hand below with a request for my opinion upon the actual bidding and on the bidding as he thinks it should have been.

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The actual bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♡	3 ♠ (1)	4 ♡ (2)
Double	Pass	Pass (3)	Pass

"1—Ouch.
3—Oi! Oi"

The ideal:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠ (1)	2 ♡ (2)	3 ♡ (3)	Pass (4)
4 ◇ (5)	Pass (6)	5 ♠ (7)	Pass (8)
6 ♠ (9)	Pass (10)	7 ♠ (11)	Pass
Pass (12)	Pass

"1—Of course.
2—Well?
3—Hello!
4—Let's go home!
5—Let's get organized!
6—What a partner!
7—Easy does it.
8—Good night!
9—Can't miss.
10—Where's my hat?
11—Give 'em the woiks!
12—Boy-oh-boy!"

Mr. Worthington's ideal bidding is very fine, and the actual bidding is very bad. Unquestionably, with the magnificent fit in spades North could quite safely have bid three hearts rather than three spades, as with an Opening vulnerable bid by his partner, four spades must be entirely safe, and a Slam at least remotely possible. In any event, no harm can follow a bid that guarantees reaching a game with North's distribution. On the other hand, the actual call made by South is open to equally severe criticism. North's jump in spades certainly suggests the wisdom of discovering whether there are further possibilities in the hand rather than a Double for penalties. If West can bid hearts and East can give a Double Raise in hearts when vulnerable, certainly South's heart Queen does not appear to be such valuable property. On the other hand, North again should not pass the Double of four hearts. His hand is a virtual distributional monstrosity. Certainly four spades should be made laid down, and even if the contract of four hearts is defeated, North's distribution does not suggest that the defeat can be a severe one, in view of the fact that both opponents have shown by their bidding that they have heart length and strength.

This incidentally is the weakest point in the game of many Bridge players—namely, an inclination to double for penalties without sufficient justification and a pass of partner's Double on a hand which can contribute little or nothing to the defeat of the adverse contract. It is a safe rule to leave in a Penalty Double by your partner when you have painted a correct picture of your hand, but if the picture you have given of your holdings is not one which your partner is apt to visualize, then a Penalty Double should be rescued. I certainly sympathize with Mr. Worthington, but I think he was at least in part to blame.

Today's Question

The bidding:

North	South
Pass

You, East, hold:

♠ 9 3 2 ♡ K 4 ◇ 9 6 5 3 ♣ 10 8 7 6

What card do you lead?

Answer: The heart King. This hand offers the opportunity for what might be called a desperation lead. The North and South bidding, which is very strong, plus the extreme weakness of your hand, shows that there would be very little chance of defeating the contract. Therefore, the best chance is that partner holds the Act of hearts and then you can ruff the third round, and then partner may have one other trick; or partner may have the Queen of hearts and the Ace of trumps, in which case four tricks will probably be taken.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Cigaret Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly inform me if it is good form to light your own cigaret first? K.

No. We should light the other person's cigaret first. And this is true in spite of all the superficial arguments against it.

The Widow's Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—When introducing my husband to friends, should I say his last name?

2—After the death of either husband or wife, is the widow or widower, as the case may be, still related to the other's family—his mother, say, or his sister?

3—Would it be proper for the widow to continue to use her late husband's name, or should she use her own first name?

V. B.

It isn't necessary to say your husband's last name. An excellent form for an introduction of your husband to a woman is, "Mrs. Graham, may I present my husband?" Or, if you wish the introduction to be more informal, more casual, say, "Mrs. Graham, this is my husband," or, "Mrs. Graham, my husband." When you introduce your husband to another man, say, "Mr. Graham, my husband."

2—The relationship remains the same as when the husband or wife was living. If the relationship has always been a friendly and congenial one, this naturally remains as it is, just as the relationship of in-law remains as it is.

3—The proper thing for the widow to do is to continue to use the same form of name that she used when her husband was living. It is not good taste for her to use her first name in her formal name. That is, she still is Mrs. Henry Allen. This is the form for her visiting cards and for all other formal forms.

NEW GAS RATE FIGHT TO BE LAUNCHED

A new fight for lower gas rates will be made before the Public Service Commission, according to D. Glenn Moore, president of the Utilities League of Municipalities.

The league has been fighting for lower rates to the consumers of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania who are supplied by the Manufacturers, Peoples and Equitable gas companies.

The "big three" in the gas utility field made rate reductions last March, but these were declared "negligible" by the league, which contends they did not affect the smaller consumer.

The fight by the league has been strengthened, Moore says, by decisions of the Illinois Commerce Commission which ordered rates reduced from 32 cents per 1,000 cubic feet to 27.6 cents. This will mean a saving of $1,080,000 a year to the consumers in the Chicago district.

LUTHERANS PICK COMMITTEES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 23.—(AP.)—Elective committees of the Pittsburgh Synod of the United Lutheran Church, including trustees for Thiel College at Greenville, Pa., were announced at the ninety-first session of the synod which closed yesterday.

Trustees named for Thiel College are the Rev. G. W. Englar, Pittsburgh; the Rev. M. R. Kunkleman, Charleroi; Stanley Gillespie, Greenville; Peter M. Lehman, Pittsburgh; Charles S. Passant, Zelienople.

Trustees for the Bethsday Orphans' Home, Meadville, are the Rev. W. H. Hetrick, Connellsville; the Rev. T. L. Crouse, Pittsburgh; Paul H. Baldwin, Rochester, and John F. Yeaney, Meadville.

Trustees for the Old Peoples' Home, Zelienople, Pa., are the Rev. C. L. Boecele, Ligonier; the Rev. J. E. Bittle, Pittsburgh; the Rev. A. W. Stremel, Pittsburgh; W. H. Blank, Greensburg; W. B. Ferguson, Chicora; W. P. Weibert, J. H. Hunter and R. H. McGraw, Pittsburgh.

U. S. SET TO WIN RACKET WAR

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(Universal) — Warfare will be waged relentlessly by the Federal government against racketeers until the battle has been won.

This declaration was made by Attorney General Cummings in disclosing that he is mapping a "real campaign" against the type of criminal preying on legitimate business.

Citing the Kansas City outrage, in which four law officers, including a Department of Justice agent, were killed in an attempt to release a prisoner, the Attorney General said:

"That sort of thing not only challenged the Department of Justice, but American civilization. Our warfare against racketeers and kidnapers will be a real campaign and not a series of sporadic and dramatic incidents. It will be steady and systematic."

WIFE ACCUSES 'OTHER WOMAN'

Her husband was friendly with another man's wife, Catherine M. Davidson, of 1410 Franklin street, testified before Judge Frank P. Patterson in asking a divorce from Harold W. Davidson.

Mrs. Davidson explained that her husband and the other woman's husband became involved in a fight. Judge Patterson inquired:

"What happened to the other husband?"

"He was sent to the hospital."

Mrs. Davidson also said that shortly after she was married, her husband told her that he had been married to another woman and had two children, but she was not able to verify that.

They were married March 4, 1930. Mrs. Davidson charges desertion.

3 of Wedding Party Hurt in Car Crash

Helen Rich, 19, Mammoth, received chest injuries; her brother, Henry Rich 22, driver of the other car, escaped being hurt, while Miss Rich's companion, George Mackl, 25, Greensburg, sustained lacerations.

Crutchfield Honored By U. S. Trade Body

J. S. Crutchfield, Sewickley, has been elected a director-at-large of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Frank C. Crutchfield is president of the American Fruit Growers, Inc., and for two years he has been a director of the chamber here.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Dr. Copeland

Scientists tell us that the two chief fears with which babies are born are the fear of loud noises and the fear of falling. In the early months of life there may be acquired the fear of strange people and of strange things. As time goes by, the nervous child may add many others to his list of terrors. If this form of nervous expression is not checked, he becomes at an early age a timid, whining child, a torment to his parents and to all with whom he comes in contact.

Home environment is an important factor in the disposition of a child. Fussy mothers, themselves timid and fearful, quickly communicate their state of mind to their children.

Oft repeated warnings make them more apprehensive. "Now, Willie, don't climb up that tree; you'll fall down and break your leg." "Don't fight with other boys; you might get hurt." All such warnings result in the child's running home to sob out his grief on mother's lap. They weaken the character and prevent the development of a strong and resourceful mind.

Of course a child must be taught caution, or his career may be brief and stormy. For example, care in crossing the streets must be taught at an early age. But such admonitions should be given in a matter of fact manner, avoiding such words as will strike terror in the mind of the child. Fear "psychoses," as the scientists call them, which appear in later life, are often traced to the unwise training of childhood.

One of the worst practices is that of frightening the child with threats of the doctor or the policeman. The former is particularly ill advised. In case of illness, when it is necessary to call the doctor, the instilled dread of the physician often renders the child unmanageable. A child should be instructed that a police officer is one of his best friends.

Nothing else will so surely destroy that self-confidence in a child regarding his ability to cope with his daily problems, as a sense of physical or mental inferiority.

Some dangerous adventure in early childhood may be responsible for an apparently unreasonable fear. The effects of seeing a dreadful accident, of having a severe fall, or some unpleasant experience should not be lightly regarded by the parents. Discuss the matter quietly with the child and make an effort to reassure him. Ignoring the matter entirely is most likely to fix the circumstance more firmly in the child's mind and to give him a continued feeling of apprehension.

Alarming stories, emphasizing the subject of death, tales of wild beasts, "which come out of the woods to eat up bad little boys," may bring obedience to commands. But they may result in severe injury to the nervous system.

A nervous, timid child should enjoy a home atmosphere free from emotional outburst. The parents should encourage his confidence, and reassure him as to his ability to meet dangers and difficult situations as they arise.

SLAYER OF DRY AGENT HUNTED

OSKALOOSA, Ia., June 23.—(AP.)—Peace officers of Central Iowa today combined in a vigorous search for a liquor runner suspect who killed one federal prohibition agent and wounded another. The slayer escaped in his car.

The dead man was Harry Elliott, of Des Moines, who was shot in the face with a shotgun as he attempted to arrest the suspect.

The shooting occurred late yesterday after a five-mile chase from the outskirts of Oskaloosa when Murphy said the two operatives recognized the coupe in which the suspect and his wife were traveling.

WILL OF PRIEST RAPS HOOVER

ERIE, June 23.—(AP.)—The Rev. Patrick J. Blake, of Clearfield, who died in an Erie hospital June 15, altered his will, on file today, because of the slump.

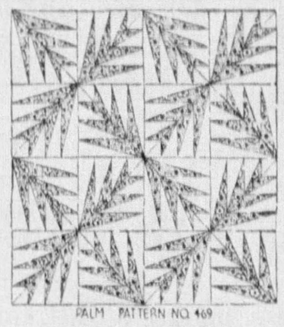
"I made these alterations in 1931 on account of the depression. Hoover administration cause of it all."

The alterations referred to were bequests which had been crossed out. The will leaves $1,000 to a sister, Jennie T. Murphy, and $250 each to two nieces, Ellen and Mary Murphy, all of Fall River, Mass.

PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



PALM PATTERN NO. 469

By LAURA WHEELER

The Palm pattern is one of the handsomest old quilt designs which has been handed down to us. Aside from its pictorial quality, it has a grace of line that makes it a choice quilt. Added to its beauty is the simplicity of its construction. In some quiltlore, the name of this quilt is given a biblical origin. It refers to the day which is now celebrated as Palm Sunday, the day when Jesus was greeted with palms of His entry to Jerusalem.

The pattern comes to you with complete simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

This Hollywood of Ours

I didn't realize what I was doing, I guess—until one of my own group whispered: "This is a fine time and place to ask a person a question like that!" . . . It probably wasn't the proper time and place, perhaps, but nowhere else in Hollywood would anyone find so renowned a gathering, either . . . What any column subscriber wants most, I suspect, is an intimate glance of someone he's heard or read about—and here at the exciting Colony Club were many of my favorite persons . . . They were bunched at this table or that corner—Nancy Carroll, frixample, Maureen O'Sullivan, George Raft, Lupe and her John-nee, Eleanor Holm, Countess Di Frasso, Gary Cooper, Boots Mallory, the Marx Brothers and other pretenders.

And so it didn't matter to me that all of them were in their merriest moods . . . With their girl friends, or the other fellow's . . . They were laughing lustily, swapping hilariously amusing jokes or stories about their pet hates, dancing, romping and drinking pop . . . It was when they were happiest and laughing loudest that they were asked: "If you had your choice in the matter—how would you like—to die?"

Eddie Cantor was the first to turn pale . . . "Taking bows!" he replied, and those of us who know him intimately, can assure you he wasn't kidding . . . Groucho Marx's preference is to die in Garbo's arms . . . Ivan Lebedeff would like to be shot—"but by a good marksman!"

Johnny Weismuller's hot tomale, Lupe, was in a glum mood when we approached their table. They had been rowing about something again. . . . Someone thought it was over June Knight, who had just stepped out of the skies from New York. . . Lupe was given two minutes to think up an answer . . . She took two seconds . . . "I died two years ago," she baritoned, "and you wouldn't understand—it's too deep for you." Lupe wasn't being nasty—she was merely making Weismuller twitch a little. . . . "She means Cooper," said Johnny with a prop smile. . . When it came his turn to answer, he said: "With my last love" . . . "I suppose he minns Bubbeeee Arnssssss!" interrupted Lupe, emphasizing her hiss. "Ha, ha! Dot's verree fun-nee!" It was just as well that we were summoned to another table. . . . For, shortly after, Miss Velez, who can hit hard, was trading vicious wordage with Tom Mix.

George Raft, who wasn't with his reported romance, Margie King, for a change—said he would like to die "paid up—and with an army of pals and others sincerely sorry to hear that he had died" . . . Dorothy Lee said "I like to die? I wouldn't like to die!" . . . Harpo Marx said that I was too late . . . He died at an opening performance in London years ago . . . Chico Marx hoped he'd die with Busby Berkeley's chorus.

Oscar Levant, who deserted the wing of George Gershwin to assume charge of a studio's "artistic department," whatever that is, is easily America's champion of sarcasm . . . He snarled: "I'd like to die with an insult on my lips! Telling the doc: 'Are you lousy?' "

Sidney Blackmer doesn't want to die "on this earth" . . . Nancy Carroll was given an hour to think up an answer, but she couldn't. Therefore the one somebody once credited to her is revived — because, even if Nancy didn't say it, you'll agree it's a honey . . . "I would like to die," Nancy is supposed to have said, "at 90, shot by a jealous husband!"

Maureen O'Sullivan prefers the end to come when she is sleeping . . . Cy Bartlett, whose bay-bee is Boots Mallory, said he'd like to die "by an error of my own doings!" . . . Walter Wanger's snapper was: "In New York!!!"

Joan Crawford would willingly die now if she knew that people who were courteous and helpful to her when she needed it most—were not in want . . . Edmund Lowe would like to pass out from the shock of having the government suddenly remit a fat check telling him he overpaid that much . . . Lilyan Tashman wants to die laughing when she is summoned below . . . Eddie Welch, who writes quips and gags for movie comedies, wishes he could die knowing that St. Peter would take up his option . . . Eddie Buzzell would like to die saving someone else from death . . . Ruth Etting hopes the end comes when the imitators stop using her "individual style of ending songs," so she expects to live forever . . . Mervyn Leroy wants to die by gas when he is told he is "through" as a director.

Franchot Tone wants to die suffering—from Miss Crawford's suddenly cut off embraces . . . Sam Goldwyn wants to die playing backgammon—but winning! . . . Lee Tracy doesn't care when, how or why he dies . . . John Farrow wants to die at sea . . . Mae Murray wants to die a natural end when "I lose my good looks" . . . Warren William would like nothing better than falling dead after losing his sense of humor . . . Bob Montgomery wants to die from anything but the swelled-head . . . And we want to be put into the electric chair for poisoning delicatessen counter men who forget to remove the skin from bologna sandwiches.

Scene at Midnight

Smoke, shrieks, sirenish and sensuous stars of the stage and screen . . . Menjou drowns his sorrow with the "stinger," a tasty bit of dynamite made of brandy and white peppermint . . . Nancy Carroll at the slot machines . . . Jack Kirkland, her ex-groom, watching her win three handfuls of quarters in a row . . . The three Radio Rogues, who cleverly mimic sky-riders . . . Their impersonation of your New York correspondent is punctuated by: "Flash! Flash!" and then they prepare clown news items about the celebrities in the tiny room enjoying them . . . Some of their "items" sting, too—but the stars make no squawk to the management . . . Gregory Ratoff in a corner alone—and moody—instead of rehearsing his role in "20th Century" . . . All deeply concerned because Dick Powell is so ill . . . Estelle Taylor shocking Rowland Brown because he "can't stand to hear women cuss" . . . Connie Talmadge, the only star who quit while a star . . . Babes in the Hollywoods.

Arlen Loaned To Portray Fat Part

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, June 23.—When Dick Arlen went golfing with both Adolph Zukor and Emanuel Cohen the other day, studio gossips wondered whether they talked of the star's recent dissatisfaction with Paramount.

Mr. Arlen

Maybe they did, for Charles R. Rogers announces that Dick will be loaned to him for one of the leads in "Golden Harvest," the first of the new series of pictures he is making for Paramount release.

As the role is a fat one (it offers Dick a chance to play a different type of character—a young wheat farmer), guesses are being made that a truce has been effected and that the star's option will be exercised in August.

Rogers will send two units on location for "Golden Harvest," one to the northwest to film grainfields, and another to Chicago to photograph scenes in the wheat pit.

In addition to Arlen, the picture will have Chester Morris and Marguerite Churchill. It will be Marguerite's first film role, I believe, since her hit in "Dinner at Eight" on Broadway.

* * *

He really is a good actor, but he has had several bad parts. The other day, the critics were unkind to him again. Looking up from a paper, he exclaimed to a friend:

"Why is it that when they tell the truth, they always have to tell it about me!"

* * *

During her stay in Paris, La Dietrich has discarded trousers. It comes from a very good source that she also will be wearing dresses on her return to this country.

* * *

Miss Ames

To me, it is a funny story. Ever since he went to Annapolis on location, Bruce Cabot has been putting in almost daily long distance calls to Adrienne Ames. The other night they came to a dead end in the conversation. Cabot hesitated for a moment, then he exclaimed:

"We're having a thunder storm here. Do you want to listen to it?"

So he put the receiver out the window and Miss Ames, in Hollywood, listened to about $5 worth of Maryland thunder.

* * *

The Clark Gables are off to Vancouver with the Joe Shermans. They'll motor there and Clark will stay on for a while. He doesn't report to the studio for about a month . . . Helen Hayes will give a big dinner and theater-party in honor of the western premiere of Charlie MacArthur's play, "Twentieth Century."

* * *

What next? The most expensive motor car of them all slid up before the Paramount studio. A chauffeur got out and opened the door for a pretty girl. She was in to see Leroy Prinz. She told him her name was Lucille Stafford, of Tulsa, Okla., that her late father was an oil man, that she recently bought her own airplane. And then she asked him for a chance to try out as a chorus girl.

If Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will give him a three months' vacation, Nils Asther wants to accept an offer to do "Mr. Wu" on the London stage. The Swedish actor recently made a hit as a Chinese in "The Bitter Tea of General Yen." Plastering up the corners of his eyes for the part later cost him several weeks of painful recuperation . . . Due to the shortage of sirens in Hollywood, Fox will postpone "The Worst Woman in Paris" until Myrna Loy is sufficiently recovered to take the lead.

Mr. Asther

Did you know: That Mary Boland, now playing comedy parts for Paramount, was Leo Dietrichstein's leading woman in "The Great Lover"?

Smartly Tailored

Miriam Jordan, who is tailored quite summerishly, is the wife of a philandering Victor Jory in "I Loved You Wednesday."

Love Comedy In Warner

By WILIAM J. LEWIS

"I Loved You Wednesday," which, it is said, lived up to that title on the stage, is just a puzzle as a name for a picture. This was revealed when the photoplay was shown in the Warner yesterday, with Elissa Landi, Warner Baxter, Victor Jory and Miriam Jordan in the principal roles.

Miss Landi we see for the second week in succession in a better role than those that usually fall to her. The first was that in "The Warrior's Husband." With the help of that part and the dancer she characterizes nicely in "I Loved You Wednesday," she probably has risen a lot in the esteem of movie audiences.

The dancer she portrays finds her first romantic disappointment when she learns that her sweetheart, Victor Jory, has a wife. Then she meets Warner Baxter, engineer, and they become engaged after a friendship of some years, during which she has become a famous artist.

Then Vic turns up again, and Elissa all but forgets Warner under the spell of a renewed romance with Jory, whose wife, you may be sure, has her eye on developments. Elissa comes to her senses just in time to save Baxter's matrimonial plans from shipwreck, but the reason why she does seems rather pointless.

It is an entertaining comedy, but light and ineffective, with Jory something of a surprise as a "great lover" type. Baxter's part is much below his ability, and Miss Jordan is rather static.

A Fatty Arbuckle comedy, "How Have You Bean?" is rough and laughable.

Lew Ayres on First Eastern Trip

Lew Ayres, now a Fox star, whose first production under the new banner will be opposite Lilian Harvey in "My Weakness," will leave for New York for a vacation of a week before returning to the film center for work. This is the young player's first trip East. After "My Weakness," Ayres will be costarred with Janet Gaynor in a story based on "The House of Connelly," by Paul Green.

'Bedtime Story' Baby Signed for Films

Baby LeRoy celebrated his first birthday June 14 by being signed for a seven-year Paramount contract. Baby LeRoy made his screen debut and endeared himself to millions of fans when he appeared with Maurice Chevalier in "A Bedtime Story." He is next slated for the Charlie P. Rogers production, "The Baby in the Icebox," which will be released in the fall.

Helen Twelvetrees Model in Film

History is repeating itself for Helen Twelvetrees, who re-enacts a portion of her early life in the picture, "Disgraced." In her characterization of a model for an exclusive gown shop, the actress hearkens back to the time when she was one of New York's most famous mannequins. Her success in modeling for covers of leading magazines brought Miss Twelvetrees to the attention of film executives.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS By William J. Lewis

The second presentation of the first production of the Stage Guild at the Willows, "Another Language," was given last night, and the third will take place next Monday night. The second production of this summer theater organization will be "Honeymoon," a comedy by a former dramatic critic, Samuel Chotzinoff, and George Backer. In the season just ended it had a run of 75 performances in New York, which is no poor record, considering the kind of a theatrical year it was in general.

* * *

Charlotte Greenwood, now featured in the operetta, "Wild Violets," in London, may accept a vaudeville offer in that city after the close of the musical play, June 30 . . . Central City, Col., which still has its grand opera house that was built in the opulent mining days, and which revived "Camille," with Lillian Gish, last summer, will have "The Merry Widow" for its summer festival this year . . . Walter Connolly, on Broadway last season in "The Late Christopher Bean," will be in the movie, "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," with Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter . . . Walter Abel, prominent dramatic actor, has left New York for Hollywood to join the film cast of "White Woman." . . . Dick Powell, who has been seriously ill in a Los Angeles hospital, is expected to leave the institution in a week . . . When Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., returns from Europe he will join the cast of the film version of the Noel Coward comedy, "Design For Living," which will include Miriam Hopkins and Fredric March, with Ernst Lubitsch directing . . . Another recent Broadway play, "Three-Cornered Moon," will be filmed with a cast made up of Hardie Albright, William Bakewell, Richard Arlen, Mary Boland, Wallace Ford, Lyda Roberti, Tom Brown and Joan Marsh.

Dramatic Film In Fulton

By WILLIAM T. SCHOYER

It's a "melodrammer" of the great North Woods at the Fulton this week. Men are men up there and women no better than they should be—and the plot of the picture, "Self Defense," is to keep these hard facts from one of the women's daughters.

The young daughter, Barbara Kent, has spent her life in boarding school learning the finer things of life. She must never know her mother, Pauline Frederick, runs a saloon and gambling joint. The mother's high-minded deceit looks successful until the villian shows up with a pair of loaded dice.

Ordered out of town by hero Theodor Von Eltz, an honest croupier, and Pauline, the villian robs, shoots and writes to daughter to come on. Stalling the daughter off till the saloon is fixed up like a Y. M. C. A. hut, Von Eltz learns about the dirty deal from the villian's double-crossed "moll," Claire Windsor.

Then guns flash, and Von Eltz finds fate holding the loaded dice to decide his life or death.

And amid the turmoil of passion and sacrifice the daughter finds love—and nothing else. She keeps her finer impressions, namely, that her mother is a social uplifter and an ambition to own the best hunting stable in the country. Perhaps that's the trouble with the picture.

Eddie Klein in Charge Of Roof Garden

The Hotel Mayfair Roof Garden, newly decorated and furnished, will reopen tonight, under the personal direction of Eddie Klein. There will be a floor show and the dance music is to be provided by Jimmy Conrad's band. The Gypsy String Trio will play between dances.

In Which the Customers Do the Work.

"YOU HAVE printed several medical stories recently," writes Ruth Colgan, "so I take it that another one will not be amiss. This case is absolutely true and will doubtless be recognized by those of your readers who have any connection with the medical profession.

"Dr. Claude Williams, let us say, was a master of the X-ray. For the past eight or nine years he has been celebrated—and justly so—as one of the greatest diagnostic experts in medical science. He lived in Rochester and spent much of his time in a famous clinic that is located in that city.

"Dr. Williams' specialty was cancer and, if he said you had it, there was no further argument about the matter. It was his job to condemn people to death, and he had never been known to err in his judgment of a case. In his field, he was rated as one of the very greatest.

"About a year ago, Dr. Williams began to slip down the ladder of health. His assistant, a young doctor who fairly worshipped Williams, became highly alarmed as his chief's health seemed to fade before his very eyes.

"'You're not well,' he told Williams. 'Why don't you go away for a time?

"'I haven't time for a vacation,' was all he said. 'There is too much work to be done.'

"As time went on and the doctor failed to improve, however, he finally agreed to have some X-ray plates made of his stomach. The plates were made, and were turned over to Dr. Williams' assistant. And the young man then did a rather unusual thing. He placed the doctor's own plates among the many he would examine on the morrow and said nothing to Williams about it.

"The following day, Dr. Williams and his assistant went through their usual routine. They finally reached the doctor's own plates, and the assistant handed them over without comment of any kind.

"Dr. Williams studied them carefully. He shrugged his shoulders and returned them to the young doctor.

"'Cancer,' was his abrupt diagnosis. 'That man will be dead within six months.'

"'Are you—are you certain, sir?' he asked nervously.

"Dr. Williams regarded him curiously.

"'You've never asked me such a question before,' he asserted. 'Have you any reason to question my judgment in connection with those particular plates?'

"His assistant straightened with an effort.

"'Not at all, sir,' he replied. 'I—I just wanted to be sure.'

"Dr. Williams nodded.

"'Well,' he murmured, 'you can be. That man will be dead in six months. And perhaps less.' . . .

"Just one week later, they found Dr. Williams dead in his home. He had killed himself by the gas route. And the note he left was typical of the man. It was addressed to his assistant.

"'By your attitude and by the fact that the number was missing on those plates, I knew that they were my own. In my condition, it would be useless for me to continue on. This is the better way out. Good-bye—and good luck to all.'

"And that's all there is to the story, Mr. Hellinger. Except for the fact that, two days later, a staff doctor at the clinic performed an autopsy. And it was then they learned that Dr. Williams had made the first diagnostic mistake of his life.

"He had no cancer."

* * *

"IT was on the day last week," writes Frank Fagan, "when King George opened the World Economic Conference. Just before noontime, West Fortieth Street was crowded with its usual lines of crawling, groaning taxis—and the sidewalks held their shuffling masses which must have presented, if one had a vantage point in the heavens, an appearance of caviar in the process of being spread.

"Through the strollers came a brusque and active figure. His starched shirt, smoothly fitting suit and costly cane marked him as one of those rare survivals that we are pleased to term executives.

"Just ahead of him, in the protecting shadow of the Metropolitan Opera House, was a newsstand. He stopped and twisted toward him one of the first editions of an evening newspaper in order to read its headlines.

"'Is King George's speech in here?' he asked. And there was an element of the dictator in his voice.

"The newsdealer seemed to move closer to the paper that the man was fingering.

"'It's the latest edition,' he replied in a slightly uncertain voice, 'but I don't know what's in it.'

"The pompous one stepped back.

"'I should think,' he asserted harshly, 'that you'd try to know what's in your papers. You might sell more.'

"The newsdealer put his hand on the sheet speculatively; then slowly, very slowly, he pushed it into its proper place. There was a perceptible droop to his head and shoulders. Every line of his figure etched with fantastic accuracy a heartrending hurt.

VAST MARKET DESCRIBED TO ADVERTISERS

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—How business may be advanced through advertising in the American Weekly, America's most widely circulated magazine, was told a distinguished group of business executives last night at the St. Francis Hotel.

The occasion was a dinner tendered to nearly 100 prominent advertisers, chain store officials and heads of advertising agencies by E. M. Swasey, vice president of the American Weekly magazine, and Coulter McKeever, in charge of the San Francisco office of the publication.

NEW OPPORTUNITIES

McKeever outlined the exceptional opportunities that exist in this country for the successful exploitation of business through advertising and the part played by the American Weekly in reaching this market.

He declared that despite the vicissitudes of the past few years, the American consumer still has twenty-four and a quarter billion dollars in the savings banks, and that in 1932 more than thirty-one and a half billion dollars were spent on retail sales alone.

This vast American market, McKeever explained, is not evenly distributed over the face of the country. Climate, population and spending habits make certain areas far more valuable than others from the viewpoint of business exploitation.

As an example, he asserted that 995 cities of the United States with populations og 10,000 or more account for more than 70 per cent of the entire retail sales of the country, and it is in this profitable market that the American Weekly has nearly 4,000,000 family readers.

PROBLEMS EXPLAINED

The problems of an editor of a great national publication like the American Weekly were explained to the guests. The prime requisites of such editorial technique, he said, are to interest people, to arouse their curiosity, and above all to build confidence in the accuracy of the information presented to the reader.

The latest in art, science and medicine, as well as fiction, fashions and household economics, make up the balanced menu of the American Weekly Magazine, which, McKeever pointed out, accounts for the fact that it is the most widely circulated magazine in America, reaching more than 5,000,000 families every Sunday—more than twice the number reached by any other publication.

Swasey also made an address. The dinner brought together one of the most representative groups of advertisers and business executives ever gathered at a similar function.

PANTHER SCARE NEAR BRADFORD

BRADFORD, Pa., June 23.—(AP.)—Reports that a ferocious wild animal, believed to be a panther, is roving the sparsely settled district about Allegheny National Park, north of Bradford, have caused apprehension among the residents.

Maynard R. Stoddard, farmer, living near Interstate Parkway extension, telephoned state police that the animal had clawed and chewed his horse to death.

HERO OF 'LOST' SOLDIERS HURT

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—Maj. Sidney Cain, 53, one of the survivors of the "Lost Battalion" of the World War, was seriously injured in an a tomobile accident near Roosevelt, Long Island, last night.

Maj. Cain, who lives in Hempstead and is superintendent of Doubleday, Doran & Co., Inc., publishers, suffered a compound fracture of the skull when a bursting tire caused him to lose control and his heavy coupe crashed through a fence.

4 DIE IN FIRE; SUSPECT HELD

SEATTLE, Wash., June 23.—(AP.)—Threats to "wipe out" an entire family, Sheriff Claude G. Bannick said today, were made about two weeks ago against four persons, whose charred bodies were found in the ashes of a burned farm house.

The Sheriff said that Frank La Vergne, elderly caretaker of the ranch until a week ago, described the threats at Tacoma. The Sheriff quoted La Vergne as saying the threats were made by George Coyne, owner of the farm.

Coyne was arrested when he returned to the scene of yesterday's fire several hours after he had escaped the flames. He was held in the county jail here today, being questioned about the fire.

The victims were Arthur Stone, 33; Mrs. Vera Stone, 30, and her two children by a former marriage, Jean, 7, and Gloria May, 6. The Stones married about two weeks ago.

Youth's Arm Cut By Fall on Bottle

Found wandering in Sandusky street early today with blood streaming from his arm, Joseph Exler, 17, of 820 Progress street, told police he had fallen on a milk bottle. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital, where 20 stitches were taken to close the wound.

FIRES ON HOUSE OF OHIO MAYOR

TILTONVILLE, O., June 23.—Accused of shooting up the home of Mayor John S. Kenney last night, Oscar Carpenter, 45, is in the Jefferson County Jail.

When Kenney, foreman of the Yorkville tin plate plant, failed to give Carpenter work, police said Carpenter drove to the Kenney home, sounded his horn and opened fire with a shotgun.

He fled to Shadyside, where he was arrested, police said, sitting on the running board of his auto, with a shotgun across his knees and another in the auto.

Mrs. Kenney at the time of the shooting was at the home of a neighbor ministering to a woman who had swallowed disinfectant.

Chalk Hill Posse Hunts Store Robber

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 23.—A posse of mountaineers and state police searched the region around Chalk Hill today for a masked robber who held up the general store of Samuel T. Thomas, off the National Pike last night, taking $85 from the till.

Mrs. Thomas, aged invalid, was toppled from her chair by the holdup man. Two boys in the store were held at bay while Thomas was compelled to hand over the money.

CHILD WARD ATTACK, DEATH CASES ENTER PROBE

POLITICS

Democratic Harmony Appears Impossible

By MARK SHIELDS

Prospects for Democratic harmony in the coming municipal primary are what might be expected in Allegheny County.

They don't exist.

The luncheon conferences of M. L. Benedum, Joseph F. Guffey, County Chairman David L. Lawrence and Maj. E. Lowry Humes has had no influence whatever upon that wing of the Democratic army which numbers among its members former Registration Commissioner John M. Henry.

Mr. Shields

Mr. Henry was dropped as a commissioner by Gov. Pinchot at the instance of Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Guffey, but the enmity between the factions dates much farther back than that peculiar episode. The Henry group is known to feel that there are differences which must be fought out some time and feels that September is as favorable a date as could be selected.

The presence of Maj. Humes at a conference with the other three gentlemen—all Roosevelt enthusiasts—meant only that Maj. Humes was talking for himself, according to a spokesman for the Henry crowd. It distinctly did not mean that anything which transpired could be interpreted as a step toward harmony, which would avert a primary fight on the mayoralty nomination.

More than the mayoralty is involved. Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Guffey control national patronage, but it would be a severe blow to the prestige if both gentlemen should they suffer a primary defeat. Control of the party organization in the city and county is involved, though committee members are not elected at this time.

* * *

City Fund Audit Hits Kerr's Candidacy

By one of the Henry group the matter was summed up this way yesterday:

"A lot of the boys think this would be a good time to be against harmony. They aren't for it. There are issues within the party which have to be settled some time, and September would be as good a date as any."

This wing of the party never has become convinced that there is not too much flirtation between Mr. Lawrence and his coterie and the Republican organization.

In political circles where Republican mayoralty possibilities are discussed—and that means everywhere—the revelations of city deposits in the Pennsylvania Trust Company are a topic of live interest. There is a general disposition to credit Mayor John S. Herron with a bit of smart politics—and this disposition is found extremely close to the Mayor, too.

Nothing has been revealed which was not known to practically every political insider. But the public did not know about these deposits exceeding the legal limit, without adequate security. The public did not know that the condition was known, or should have been known, to City Controller J. P. Kerr.

With independents hunting for a mayoralty candidate, some of the Herron group feared that Controller Kerr might be favored, though it has been some months since the Contr ler's name was mentioned in this connection. So when a new City Treasurer was named when Herron became Mayor, an audit of city finances was asked for.

This is the audit which has been made public now, through an official and natural channel. Mayor Herron and his friends think it has killed any possibility of the Controller getting into the political battling. Mr. Herron wishes to take no more chances than he is compelled to.

* * *

Expect Waldschmidt Reorganization Soon

There is no suspicion at all that the Controller benefited in the slightest degree from the peculiar circumstances which favored the Pennsylvania as a city depository. But there is no evidence that the Controller took any forceful action to stop the affair. He may have said things were terrible, and that such matters shouldn't be.

But they continued to be, and nothing happened until "the butter in the cooler," the in again, out again, where again, inadequate security bonds melted to comparatively nothing, and then hit the limelight as security for deposits in another bank.

It is all a strange story of official passivity on the part of Controller Kerr and City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, according to the Herron group.

Dr. Kerr, of course, says to have acted op.nly mig have caused trouble in 1931.

In addition to wilting any mayoralty ambitions for Controller Kerr, the disclosures probably mean the retirement of Mr. Waldschmidt. He was slated to go when Mayor Herron took office, but he has fraternal affiliations which were viewed as extremely valuable assets to the administration so long as Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell is a possible opponent of Mayor Herron.

When this furore blows over there is more than an even chance that Mr. Waldschmidt will resign. The administration would be glad to have him do so, feeling that his retirement now would not be of the same benefit to Mackrell as it once would have been.

The timeliness of these revelations, from a Herron standpoint, is too significant to pass unnoticed, for Mr. Herron himself and his new city treasurer are in no way involved in what went on before.

MAN PLUNGES 23 STORIES TO DEATH

Widow Claims Body Of Altoona Salesman Suicide Here

The crushed body of Richard W. Schafhirt, 35, Altoona, who plunged to his death from the twenty-third floor window of the Pittsburgher Hotel last night, was claimed at the county morgue today by his widow.

Schafhirt was in ill health and had been furloughed last November by a tobacco company with which he had been employed for 17 years. When Schafhirt and a friend, Harold B. Hahn, of 901 Seventeenth avenue, Altoona, registered at the hotel, Wednesday night, the former asked for a room "high up," Deputy Coroner John T. McQuade said Hahn told him. Hahn said he placed no significance on the request.

Hahn told Homicide Detectives Edward Scanlon and Thomas Donohue, Schafhirt had no financial difficulties. A few weeks ago Schafhirt and his wife returned from a trip to Florida.

Hahn was at dinner when Schafhirt leaped from the window, deputy coroners said. When Hahn returned he found the door locked and called a bell boy, who opened it with a master key. Hahn found the window open and a chair facing it.

300 ON STRIKE AT JEANNETTE

JEANNETTE, Pa., June 23.—Three hundred employes of the Jeannette Glass Company failed to enter the plant for the 1 o'clock shift today and declared they were on strike.

Shop laborers said they would not go to work until they obtained an increase to 60 cents an hour. They said they now are getting from 30 to 35 cents. They also asked time and one-half for Saturday and Sunday, shifts now cover six hours.

JUDGE, LAWYER CLASH IN TAX PROTEST SUIT

School Board Counsel Hit for Stand on Expense Policy

A tilt between A. Leo Weil, special counsel for the Board of Public Education, and Judge James H. Gray today enlivened arguments on a taxpayers' suit to compel the board to reduce taxes.

Frank S. Delp and others had filed suit to compel the school board to apply the insurance and general funds to reduction of the taxes and to prohibit the board from levying more than 8 mills.

The board filed a demurrer, but no answer.

Judge Gray, who sat with Judges Thomas M. Marshall and W. H. McNaugher during the arguments today, commented:

"I believe the board should be glad to file an answer and make a complete explanation as to the setting up of these funds."

Weil answered:

"A committee of citizens passed on all questions pertaining to these funds and supported the board's policy."

Judge Gray retorted:

"The public does not have faith in a committee appointed by the board itself."

Weil then charged:

With Judge Gray answering:

"Yes, and some times because they don't exercise sufficient supervision over the School Board."

Weil closed with:

"If this court is going to require an answer I will take an appeal direct to the Supreme Court."

Attorney Harry Shapera, for the plaintiffs, argued that the board was without constitutional taxing powers and that it was guilty of "extravagance" in building "palatial public educational buildings" costing in the millions.

The court will hand down a decision later.

Editor Reads Story Of Brother's Death

It informed him of the death of his brother, Ensign Mack E. Voorhees, U. S. N., in an airplane accident.

Europe Must Aim Guns at Moving Dollar

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

That London conference will go down in history as bluff's labor lost.

The whole idea was to skullduggle America into a game of diplomatic tiddlywinks. We were to be pushed around like a piano in vaudeville.

Thirty foreign nations are lined up to plug the pound sterling over the homespun, glorious and erratic dollar.

We were the bat at the fishing party. Fortunately, somebody got a rush of common sense to the intellect. We looked before we leaped, and had our eyes tested before we looked.

So, we refuse to stabilize the dollar. If they are going to shoot at it they will be aiming at a moving target.

The real diplomat is sailing off the New England coast on a berry crate. The boys we sent to London are just the Indians in front of the cigar store.

KNUCKLE FIGHT BRINGS PROBE

And old-fashioned bare-knuckle fight in a remote plot in Penn Township, beyond Lincoln avenue, in which the fighters battled for 20 minutes within focus of headlights from 100 automobiles, is being investigate by police today.

Joseph Callahan, 32, of 225 Stratford avenue, is in the Pittsburgh Hospital with a broken collor bone, several broken ribs and bruises.

County detectives are seeking the other combatant.

Detectives say an argument which started on Collins avenue last night precipitated the fight. Detectives held for questioning William Wirth, 21, of 6344 Shakespear street, who is alleged to have taken Callahan to the hospital.

ACT TO BARE AID QUIZ DATA

The Joint Committee on the Social Crisis yesterday took action to bring into the open conditions under which relief was provided homeless men and boys in Pittsburgh. The action called for publication of a report secretly made following investigation of conditions cited by Morris Lewis, state investigator. He charged that the Helping Hand Association kept inadequate records, declaring that he found other faults in the activities of the association.

An investigation by the Federation of Social Agencies followed Lewis' report, and it was said at the conference yesterday that some of the faulty methods had been remedied.

THREE SLATED FOR LOAN POSTS

HARRISBURG, June 23.—(INS.)—Warren Van Dyke, Democratic State Chairman, today announced the recommendation of three persons as managers of new Home Owners' Loan Corporation offices in Pennsylvania.

The recommendations were submitted to William S. Stevenson, Washington, chairman of the loan corporation.

Jacob Mays, Reading, was recommended as Pennsylvania manager of the corporation with headquarters in Philadelphia. Levy D. Lichliter, Somerset, was urged as manager of the Pittsburgh branch office, and Clarence J. Weary Carlisle, was recommended to head the Harrisburg branch office.

FORD OFFICIAL CITES GAINS

Automobile sales have increased 40 per cent this year over the corresponding period of last year, R. F. Leonard, district manager of the Ford Motor Company, told Ford dealers at a luncheon meeting in the Chamber of Commerce today. He said:

"Business is better right now than it has been for the past 15 months, and it is getting better. Thus far this year sales show a 40 per cent increase over the same period of last year."

An economy test, sponsored by the Gulf Refining Company, to demonstrate the economy of Ford cars, was explained to the dealers. The test, over Pennsylvania mountains, will be officially started tomorrow morning at the Gulf Building by Mayor John S. Herron.

JUDGE LENCHER INVESTIGATING NEW CHARGES

Girl, 16, Tells Story Of Relations With Young Friend, Man

Cases where two other wards of the Juvenile Court suffered from neglect, resulting in the death of one and attacks on another, were handed to Judge Benjamin Lencher, of Juvenile Court, for further investigation today.

Meanwhile, on testimony that a new two-room home is being built for the 73-year-old woman, her 50-year-old deaf mute son and her 6-year-old Juvenile Court ward, Judge Lencher had decided that the boy can remain in custody of the woman, now living in a vermin-infested shack.

A 16-year-old girl placed in care of the Juvenile Court when her parents separated a year ago, took Investigator Leo A. Riordan to the North Side today to point out the Robinson street boarding house in which she spent three days with an Ambridge Italian.

TELLS OF ATTACK

She told a story of being placed in the care of the Girls' Service Club, of obtaining work as a domestic while she lived there, of going to Blairsville and being attacked by a young friend from Latrobe.

Meanwhile, the Pittsburgh Hospital reported the death of Alice Consant, 13, of 7513 Bennett street, East End, from an infection of a bone in her leg. She was hurt at play some time ago and the infection developed through neglect, the hospital reported.

The girl was found to have lived in a small home with 13 other people, including a small Negro boy, ward of the court, with a heart affliction requiring quiet for proper cure.

At a hearing in Judge Lencher's chambers late yesterday, Judge Sara M. Soffel voluntarily explained her official approval of the continued residence of the boy in the lean-to shack, described in the probation officer's report as "filthy and polluted with vermin."

WEEPS FOR BOY

Judge Soffel said:

"When this case came up my instant reaction was that this child should be taken out of the home. But when I learned from neighbors that he had lived with this woman since he was two weeks old, that she had reared his mother and that they were devoted to each other, it seemed to me that if the conditions in that home could be improved or supervised, the child should be permitted to remain.

"It was a case where I personally felt that relief should have been given. This was not an original placement of a ward. The child had been brought in for relief because the home was unable to care for him. The woman has some right to be heard in this matter. I was led to believe that home conditions had been changed. If they haven't been changed, I do not think the child should remain."

As Judge Soffel spoke, the aged woman wept quietly and moaned:

"Don't take my boy away. I shall die if you take him away."

Judge Lencher reassured her:

"I'm not going to take him away. But I would like to have more definite assurance that a new home will be provided for you and the boy."

Bridgeville Begins New Deal Vote Plans

Plans to bring the Democratic "New Deal" to Bridgeville were inaugurated when Democrats of the borough met in the Harmuth Building last night to prepare for the fall elections. Charles Harmuth, representative of the Twelfth District, presided.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 23. To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

There is one line of bunk that this country falls for, and always has, "We are looking to America for leadership during the conference. She has a great moral responsibility." And we, like a big simp, just eat it up. Our delegates swell out their chests, and really believe that the world is just hanging by a thread and the American delegates control that thread.

Will Rogers

Why they didn't discover us till 1492. And the world had had 1492 wars, 1492 peace and economic conferences, all before we was ever heard of. England controls all the oceans, half the land, over half the world's international commerce. France is no babe in arms. Japan and Russia are of age, yet it's America they kid into thinking she is the whose cheese. Yours, WILL.

AUTO SPEED KING HERE

CANNON BALL BAKER

'Cannonball' Baker Preaches Gospel of Safety First

Safety-first, last and always"—is the motto of "Cannonball" Baker, famed cross-country driver and safety exponent.

Baker stopped here yesterday for a local automobile agency on a new mission, that of spreading the gospel of safe driving at the swift pace now prevalent on the nation's highways.

Baker is an exponent of high speed—the kind that enabled him to make a coast-to-coast record of 60 hours and 51 minutes.

He expressed the belief that even greater motor safety is on the way and pointed out the surprising increase in highway miles per hour is being brought out by two factors. They are, first, the fact that motorists have made remarkable progress in improving their driving ability and, second, that motor car manufacturers are every year providing more speedy and, at the same time, safer automobiles to drive.

ELECTRONS CUT CAPERS IN MAGIC SHOW

Ray of Light Shoots Spray of Water On Fire

Electrons, those tiny bits of electricity, which still puzzle science with their antics, are the tiny actors which Dr. Phillips Thomas, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, uses to stage a modern, scientific magic show.

He entertained the Building Owners and Managers' Association convention members at their closing session yesterday in William Penn Hotel with his scientific lecture, "Electrons at Work and Play."

With a table full of strange gadgets, Dr. Thomas amazed his audience with a demonstration of scientific electrical "miracles," which began as engineer's playthings and are now, he explained, finding highly practical use in industry.

'ELECTRIC EYE'

In many restaurants, waitresses carrying loaded trays find that doors open as they approach, and in steel mills, heating furnaces automatically open wide as steel billets are carried near, he revealed. Even the color of a tomato is "seen" by one of Dr. Thomas' wonderful tubes, and moved from its fellows when it isn't the right shade of red.

By the use of these and other tubes, hitched up to sensitive "relays" closing electrical switches, a number of seemingly magic feats were performed.

MODERN WILLIAM TELL

Another act was his "William Tell stunt." Dr. Thomas raised a bow, but instead of an arrow it "fired" a beam of light at a photo-electric cell on a boy's head and a small charge of powder blew the apple off his crown.

"The Portable Fire Department" was another use for the "electric-eye." Automatically, the eye moved up and down, back and forth, until it aimed at the light of fires lit on a screen before it, and then—bing, it fired a spray of water extinquishing the blaze.

Scientific Version Of William Tell Act Presented

For guarding homes, Dr. Thomas said invisible rays are shot across windows and doors. Bells rings and alarms are given if anyone crosses them. Concealed batteries keep the apparatus working even if would-be robbers should cut the telephone and light wires.

WABASH TUBE OPPOSED BY PLANNERS

Abandonment of the proposed Wabash tunnel project by the County Commissioners, variously termed a white elephant and a gift that robs, is urged in a resolution now before City Council.

Because the project "conflicts with the by-pass system" already approved by the City Planning Commission, the commission presented the resolution to Council yesterday at a public hearing.

Although the city law-making body has no responsibility for financing the tunnel undertaking, which is under advisement by the County Commissioners, the city would be affected because of extensive street changes that would be required, it was pointed out at the hearing by L. W. Monteverde, chairman of the Planning Commission.

Council was urged to request the Commissioners to drop the Wabash plan and to assist in financing the following projects to improve traffic facilities for motorists of the southern territory:

Underpass at south end of Point Bridge.

Banksville avenue and Saw Mill Run boulevard improvement to Dormont.

U. S. AID BEGGED FOR HUNGRY OF CITY

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP.)—An appeal for federal aid to prevent starvation among Pennsylvania's unemployed was brought to Relief Administrator Hopkins today by the Pittsburgh League for Social Justice.

A statement carried by Benjamin C. Marsh on behalf of the league said that in 16 counties allowances of $3 a week and less for a whole family's food have recently been cut 20 per cent.

'MEAGER DIET'

Only 19 of the state's 67 counties are allowing as much as $3, the statement said. The league figures five persons to a family. The league declares:

"The meager diet obtainable at 90 cents a week already is showing grave results. School authorities and social workers all over the state report an alarming increase in malnutrition both among children and adults.

"In the City of Pittsburgh alone, out of a public school population of 100,000, approximately 40,000, or 40 per cent, are in a poor nutritive state and at least 12,000 of these are so much below normal weight as to be in great danger of permanent irreparable damage to their health if this condition continues."

PRICES RISING

"A 15 per cent increase in foodstuff prices in the last two months, without a proportionate increase in the relief allowance, can mean only a further breakdown in the health and morale of those who must depend on public funds for sustenance.

"Our own State Legislature has failed abysmally to provide for adequate relief. We urge you to present these facts to the federal relief agency in the hope that sufficient federal funds can be allotted to keep our people from starving in the midst of plenty."

Dr. B. J. Hovde, of the University of Pittsburgh, is chairman of the league.

FLAMING GAS SHOWERS WORKER

Showered with blazing gasoline, Michael Petruska, 26, of 39 Doerr street, was in St. John's Hospital today in a serious condition.

Police said he was burned as he drained the gasoline tank of an automobile owned by Charles Traxler, guard at Western Penitentiary.

Expo Attendance Tops Two Million

CHICAGO, June 23.—(INS.)—Celebration of Finnish Day at the Century of Progress Exposition today saw the total attendance soaring well past the 2,000,000 mark.

Melvin Silberman, 9, of Kansas City, Mo., received a gold souvenir medal from President Rufus C. Dawes for being the two millionth visitor.

'Double Flip' Kills Playground Head

He died in a hospital at Spangler.

Marital Holiday Looms For Soft Drink Playboy

Rich Man Once Sued By Showgirl Now In 'Vacation' Pact

NEW YORK, June 23.—(INS.)—Mrs. Conkey B. Whitehead, wife of the Coca Cola millionaire, announced today that she and her husband have agreed to take a "marital holiday."

It was her answer to reports that Conkey, playboy and sportsman of New York and Atlanta, had refused to be responsible for her debts. She would make no comment on this, but George M. Aaronwalk, attorney, asserted it was true.

The Whitehead romance dates back to 1929, when the Coca Cola heir eloped with the former Marion Hughes, of New Rochelle.

Mrs. Whitehead was only 18, and their marriage was kept secret for several months until Conkey finally announced they had been married on November 14, 1929. At the time he was being sued for $200,000 damages by Miss Frances Porter, New York showgirl, who charged he ousted her from his yacht.

World War Hero Dies in Hospital

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 23.—(AP.)—Relatives were informed last night of the death in a Washington hospital of Capt. Charles E. McLain, 40, son of Maj. C. C. McLain, treasurer of Indiana County, Pa.

Capt. McLain served in the 110th Infantry, 28th Division, in the World War, returning with a Croix de Guerre and a Distinguished Service medal.

Brownsville Man Hurt in Tree Fall

NUTTY RACKET ARRESTS 2

Two men are held, under $1,000 bond, by police today while they investigate the common, or garden variety of Chinese Water Rose or Sacred Horn nuts peddled hereabouts of late.

These are nuts that grow two sprigs of roses and two sprigs of boxwood hedge if you leave them in a jar of water long enough—maybe.

Also, if you dissect them with the same care practiced in police laboratories, you'll find they have buckshot inside of them—probably to keep them from floating in the water.

So Gallagher had Bernard Wolfe, 27, of Portland, Me., and Larry Stout, of Boston, Mass., arrested by city detectives.

CAPONE'S LAST STILL SEIZED

CHICAGO, June 23.—(INS.)—Prohibition agents today confiscated a $250,000 alcohol distillery plant described as the largest and most complete ever found in the Middle West.

Federal officers said the still, having an estimated capacity of 5,000 gallons a day, was the last of the gigantic plants operated by the Al Capone syndicate.

The alcohol plant occupied the fifth and sixth stories of a North Side warehouse building, the first four floors of which are used by the Illinois Malleable Iron Company. Six men were seized.

Wholesale shipments of the finished product were made in 52-gallon steel drums and in tank cars filled directly by pipe line.

ACTRESS DIES; NATIVE HERE

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—Minna Adelman, actress and wife of Joseph Adelman, of the American Academy of Dramatic Art, died yesterday after a heart attack.

She appeared on Broadway two decades ago in numerous productions of Henry B. Harris, retiring from the stage after Harris went down with the Titanic.

Mrs. Adelman was born in Pittsburgh, the former Minna Roehn.

Mrs. Adelman had roles in Davis stock productions here about 25 years ago.

Killip, of Philadelphia, president, and all other officers of the Pennsylvania Young Peoples' Branch, Federation of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, were re-elected yesterday. They are: Jacob J. M. Strite, Waynesboro, vice president; Miss Mae Keiss, Tunkhannock, corresponding secretary; Miss Mary Rea, Kirkwood, recording secretary, and William Ferguson, Oxford, treasurer.

Mexico Has 'D. F.' Like Washington Has 'D. C.'

In compliance with the wishes of the Mexican government and the usage of the United States Geographic Board, the Congressional Directory and up-to-date gazeteers, the dateline "Mexico City" has been dropped in news dispatches for the correct appellation, "Mexico, D. F."

The city, in Mexican usage, is called Mexico, and the federal district (Distrito Federal) is the seat of the supreme federal powers of the government. The city and district bear the same relation to the republic that Washington and the District of Columbia bear to the United States.

The historic old distillery at Large, near Clairton, has been sold.

National Distillers Products Corporation, of New York and Richmond, owners of several Kentucky distilleries and other companies, today in New York announced the purchase of the Large and Broad Ford distilleries of the Overholt Company. The price involved payment of 102,000 shares of National Distillers' stock and $600,000 in the company's 4 per cent notes.

Widow Fails to Save 40 Pets From Fire

HADDONFIELD, N. J., June 23.—(INS.)—Mrs. Louise Pittinger, 65, a widow, narrowly escaped injury early today when she risked her life in a vain attempt to rescue some of the 40 cats and dogs she kept as pets when her house at Osage was burned to the ground. All the pets perished in the flames.

Steamer Aground In Oriental Waters

SHANGHAI, June 23.—(INS.)—The French steamship Aramis, with 100 passengers aboard, went aground off Steep Island in the Chinese Archipelago today.

The situation of the ship was described as not serious. Several tugs were rushed to its assistance.

Pinchots to Seek U. S. Offices, Reports Say

HARRISBURG, June 23.—(AP.)—Gov. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot are going to be candidates for national offices, gossipers had it today, after they leave the executive mansion.

The Governor will tilt with David A. Reed for the United States Senate and Mrs. Pinchot is to oppose Louis T. McFadden for Congress, the rumors say.

Pickling Tank Scalds, Kill Carnegie Man

As a result of burns received when he fell into pickling tank of scalding water at the Superior Steel Company, Stanley Suchan, 59, 711 Parrot street, Carnegie, died today in St. John's Hospital, according to a Coroner's report.

Suchan had removed several floor boards to clean the tank when the accident occurred last Wednesday.

COUNTY FACES PAYROLL DELAY

Hundreds of county employes today faced the possibility of a long wait until pay day. With the Commissioners and Controller divided on whether deductions should be made from salaries as provided under the new pension law, it is likely the matter will have to be settled in court.

Commissioners C. M. Barr and C. C. McGovern maintain that the pension fund is insolvent, and the new Coyne bill, which went into effect the first of June, has not made the fund solvent. They question the legality of appropriations of county money and deductions from the pay of employes. The two Commissioners have asked their county solicitor for an opinion on this question.

Last night Barr and McGovern directed that department heads submit payrolls without deductions. They refused to approve the payroll of the County Planning Commission, but Commissioner W. D. Mansfield placed his signature on this roll.

Controller Robert G. Woodside announced that he would not approve any payroll from which the 3 per cent deduction had not been made.

Mansfield said that while he felt the deductions should be made, he did not want to hold up payrolls.

Visitor Shot, Friend Kidnaped in Chicago

CHICAGO, June 23.—(INS.)—Francis Lepper, Dayton, O., suffering from a bullet wound in the neck, today told police that five gunmen had kidnaped his friend, Frank Conner, also of Dayton.

Jumping aboard his automobile after crowding it to the curb, Lepper said the five men shouted they were going to take Lepper and Connor for "a ride." He was shot, Lepper said, when he left his car and fled.

"Beech-Nut makes quite the finest cup of coffee I have ever tasted"

Mrs. William C. Robinson

MRS. WILLIAM C. ROBINSON

Mrs. William C. Robinson, nee Laughlin, is the granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin Jones, of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Co., and the wife of William C. Robinson, president of the National Electric Products Company. Noted for her charity, president of the Women's Exchange, Mrs. Robinson is the distinguished hostess of a charming home...her spacious Sewickley Heights estate, the living room of which is illustrated.

On one European trip, it surprised Mrs. Robinson and her family to find that chefs, renowned for the perfection of their dishes, were responsible for the poorest coffee that the Robinsons had ever tasted.

"Until I discovered for myself the excellence of Beech-Nut, I thought that the secret of good coffee lay entirely in the making, rather than in the coffee itself"... an error, Madam, that is all too prevalent.

Now Mrs. Robinson knows differently. For she says, "Anyone can make a superb coffee with Beech-Nut. I am glad to vouch for its superiority. I have recommended it to my friends and they feel as I do, that Beech-Nut makes the finest coffee they have tasted."

And like the careful hostess that she is, Mrs. Robinson adds, "The surprising thing about Beech-Nut is that it costs but little more than coffees that are not so good."

Coffee ALWAYS at its best

Only those who use Beech-Nut Coffee regularly can appreciate the great difference between this rare flavor from tropic heights and just coffee.

So we thank you, Mrs. Robinson, for helping us acquaint the housewives of Pittsburgh with the superior quality of Beech-Nut Coffee.

Yet in spite of the extra trouble and expense it takes to get such coffee, Beech-Nut brings this delicious mountain coffee to you for but little more than you pay for ordinary coffees—it is a luxury in flavor, but no luxury in price.

And remember, the full fresh flavor of Beech-Nut Coffee is sealed in high vacuum tins a few minutes after it leaves the roasting oven. Its flavor and its freshness are always certain—it is coffee always at its best.

A very smart and intriguing showing of beach fashions was held yesterday at the Pittsburgh Field Club between the women members' regular bridge and luncheon. There were perky suits for the very, very young, and for the sophisticates of the school set. Mrs. William F. Ross was the chairman.

Marie McCahill modeled beach pajamas in a novelty knit of two shades of blue, with a matching hat and bag.

In Pert Pinafore

In Suit of White

Very nautical indeed looked Helen Mossman, in blue jersey pajamas, and short, tailored blue jacket with a white anchor embroidered on one lapel. And they all had beach shoes, ranging in materials from crepe rubber to coarsely woven string, to match their costumes.

And the tiny tots in the show were Mary Ann McHugh, in green and white striped shorts and ribbed white jersey top; Mary Lou Downing, in a white crossbar knit with an appliqued water lily; Barbara Hill, in a Mickey Mouse suit, and Veolantte Bennett in a coral and white suit. And they all carried the most fascinating rubber water animals, turtles, dogs and alligators.

Janet Louise Gillespie Marries Homer C. Porter

A bride of yesterday afternoon was Miss Janet Louise Gillespie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Gillespie, of South avenue, Wilkinsburg, and the bridegroom was Homer C. Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Porter, of Dennison avenue. The ceremony took place at 3:30 o'clock in the Second United Presbyterian Church, Wilkinsburg, with the Rev. H. H. McConnell as officiant.

The bride wore an ensemble of flax blue rough crepe with a matching hat, and her bouquet was of orchids and roses. Miss Eleanor Jacobs, as the maid of honor, wore verbena yellow crepe. George Porter was his brother's best man.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of navy blue mousseline de soie, and a corsage of orchids, and the bridegroom's mother chose crepe for her gown, and wore a corsage of gardenias.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Porter left for Wisconsin. They will reside in Indianapolis. The bride is a graduate of Highland Hall, Hollidaysburg, and the bridegroom is a Carnegie Tech man.

WHEN THE THERMOMETER CLIMBS BE COOL AND CHIC IN WHITE

ON THE hottest days this summer, when the thermometer climbs up and up, wear white. If you're a "slavey" and must come to town, simply add a dark jacket and you lose none of the refreshing summeriness. This year you see white, white, white everywhere, even on confirmed sophisticates in town.

* * *

ON THE right is sketched the type of spectator sports dress you simply cannot go through a summer without. This one is distinguished by enormous pearl buttons at the neckline and sleeves, the first navy blue, next turquoise, then yellow—even the buttonholes are carefully piped to match! The dress, and not the jacket, has sleeves, an idea which should please the woman who hesitates to remove a jacket to expose bare arms. The whole thing is classic in its simplicity.

* * *

WHITE WITH polka dots is becoming a preferred combination, endorsed in countless ways this season. It is easy to look forward to vacation time if the dress at the left hangs safely in one's closet. It will prove a perfect summer standby, for it is equally at home in town or country.

* * *

THE WARDROBE that seems to contain many costumes often turns out to have but a few dresses that rely on quantities of accessory sets to convert them into numerous costumes. Matching sets of hats, purses and gloves can make one outfit look like at least three different ones, depending on your ingenuity! Both costumes sketched today could alternate their appearances in this way. Shops make the task a simple one. First floors have never looked as gay and brimful of ideas as they do now, and salespeople can give first-hand information about what's in fashion at the moment.

Fontainebleau Alumni Will Meet Tomorrow At Buffet Supper

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

An organization one doesn't hear a great deal about in Pittsburgh is to have a meeting tomorrow. It's the Alumni of the American Conservatory of Music at Fontainebleau which will have a buffet supper at the home of Sylvia Derdeyn McDermott, in Parkman boulevard, Mrs. McDermott and Miss Marianne Genet being hostesses.

The local group is not a large one, but it includes such well known musicians as the two hostesses, and Marshall Bidwell, William Wentzell, Charles Pearson, Helen Roessing, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Williams, Marie Vierheller, Hilda Berkey and Elizabeth Webster.

The hostesses are hoping Beveridge Webster will have returned from France in time to be honor guest at the affair.

Wiener Wins Blue Ribbon At Rosslyn Farms Show

There was a "specialty class" in the Rosslyn Farms Woman's Club dog show last night that caused considerable amusement. In this class was entered—one hot dog, a wiener, if you please, that was equipped with ears and legs and a tail and that won a blue ribbon for its exhibitor, Dorothy Alter.

Other blue ribbons went to the dogs entered by Mrs. Sayre Millen, C. H. Weaver, Barrett and Stewart Oliver, Mrs. W. I. King (whose dogs won three blue and two red ribbons), Lois Mason, David Liversidge, Ray Cathcart, James McNall, Sonny and Patty Doig, Patty Hofmann, Betsy Bell, Margie Helm, Paul Shively, Mrs. W. N. Paker, Rodger Speer and Bill Nesbit.

The show was held in Parrish Park and was attended by everybody in the community. Thirty-eight dogs were entered.

Calvert Mission Group To Give Tea Wednesday

The Women's Missionary Society of the Calvert Memorial United Presbyterian Church of Etna will sponsor a tea at the home of Miss Lena Alpermann, High street, Etna, on Wednesday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock.

A program will be given by Miss Alfretta Tomlinson, soprano; Mrs. William Grob, contralto; William Girty, bass; Everett Girty, and Herbert Girty, tenors; Raymond Metzger, pianist; Miss Viola Voelker, violinist; and Miss Jane Good, reader.

Congress Evening Department to Hold Outing

The evening department of the Congress will have its annual outing tomorrow at the Perry Tea Room, with Miss Helen H. Cowan in charge of arrangements. Miss Karen Fladoes is chairman of this group, which, during the past season, has met once each month in Congress House for dinner with a program following. The outing on Saturday will mark the season's close of activities for this unit.

Knoxville Club to Honor Retiring School Head

Many of the city's leading men and women have been invited to the informal reception which the Woman's Library Club of Knoxville will give on Monday evening in honor of Milo H. Miller, who is retiring after 33 years as superintendent of Knoxville public schools. Mrs. Miller will share honors with her husband. The reception will take place in the Knoxville Junior High School.

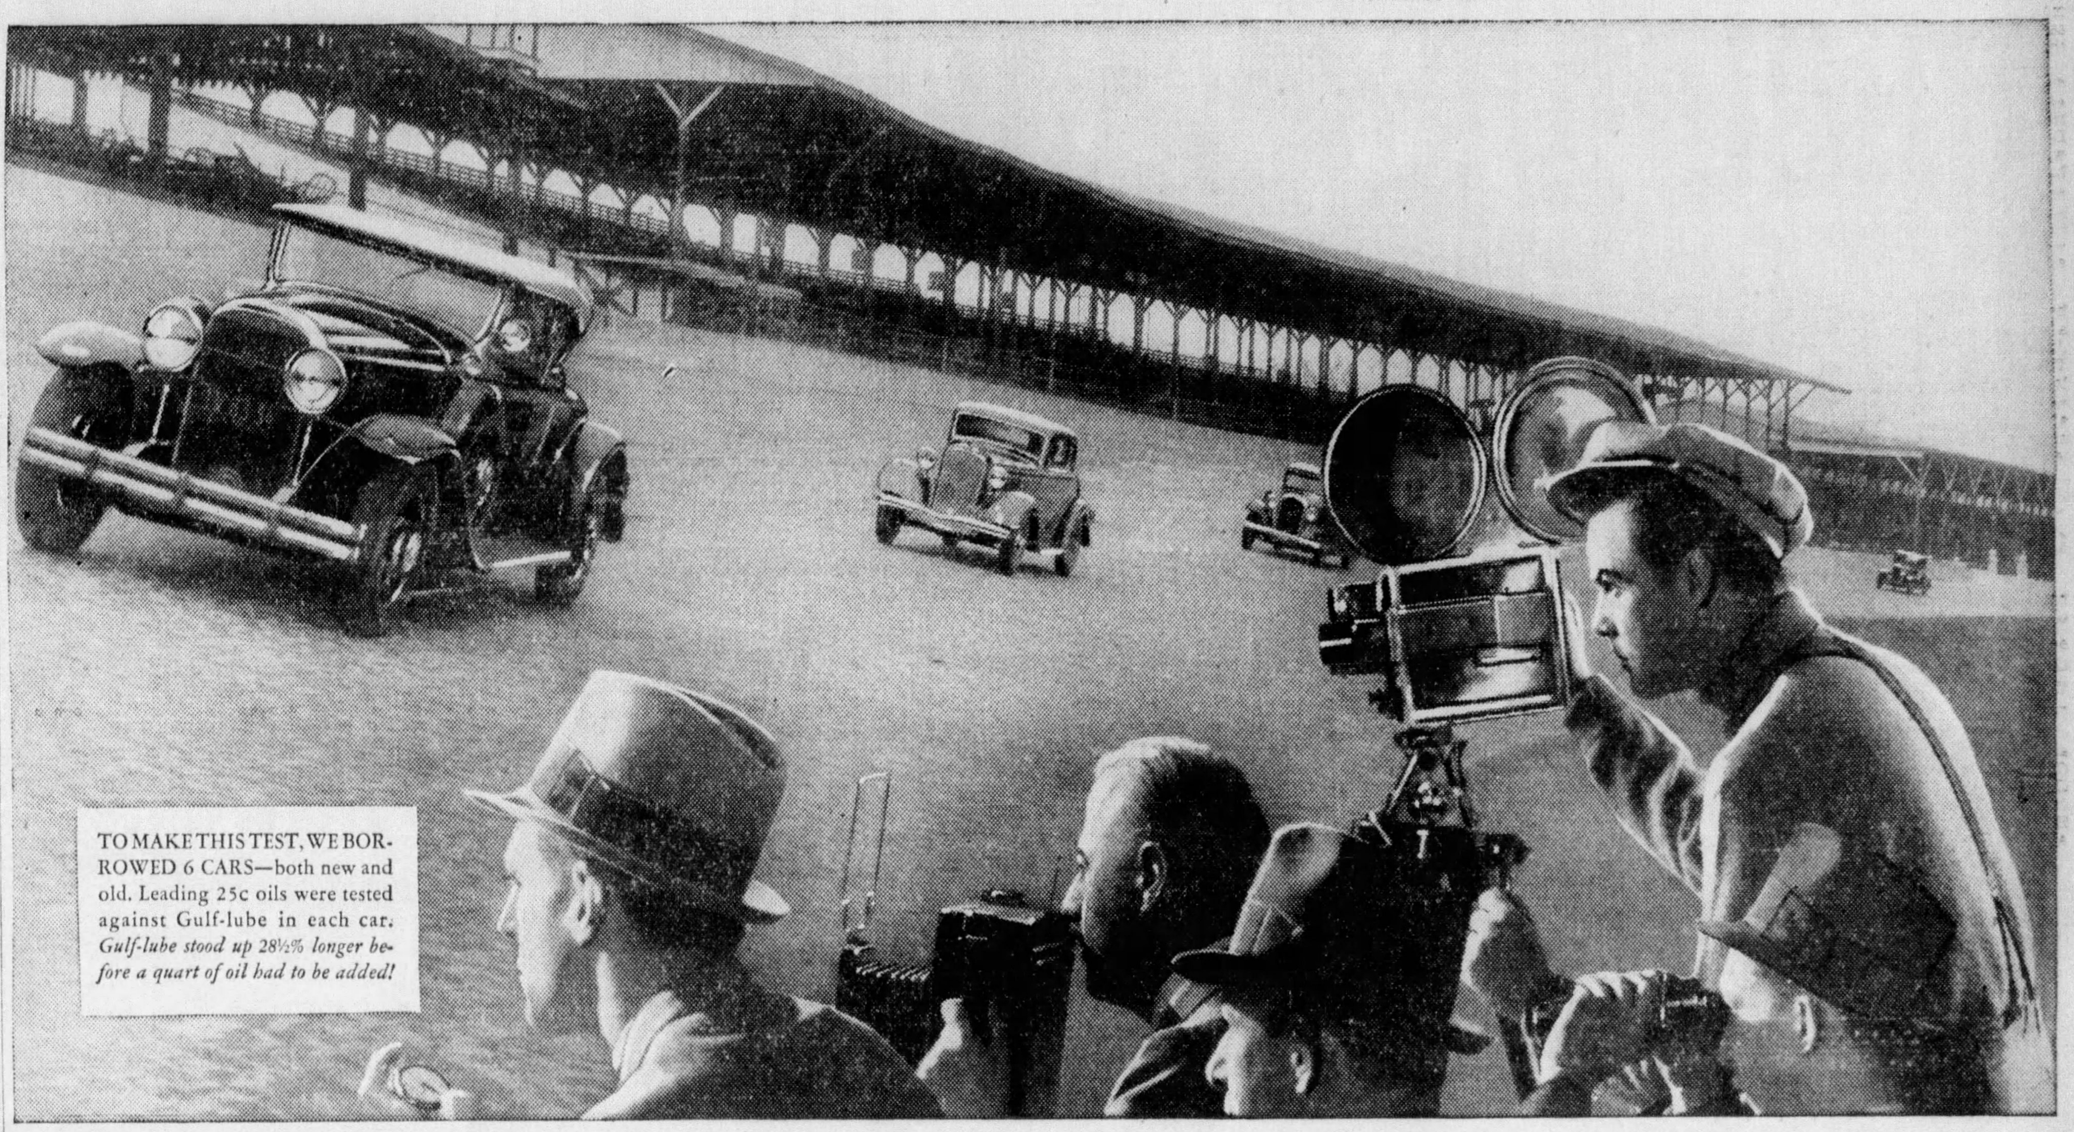
Here She Comes!
THE NEW "HIGH-MILEAGE" MOTOR OIL



TO MAKE THIS TEST, WE BORROWED 6 CARS—both new and old. Leading 25c oils were tested against Gulf-lube in each car. Gulf-lube stood up 28½% longer before a quart of oil had to be added!

Never has America seen an oil as good as this for 25 cents a quart

WHEN we told A.A.A. officials we wanted to make this test, their eyes widened—"That takes nerve!" they said. But we made it!

Six borrowed cars—old cars, new cars—were placed upon the famous Indianapolis speedway.

Look at these figures. For example : : :

With oil "B" in its crankcase, one car traveled only 152 miles before needing a quart of oil. With Gulf-lube, that same car went 235 miles before the oil level dropped a quart : : : over 50% more miles!

Car No. 2—consumed oil "C" at the rate of a quart every 652 miles. With Gulf-lube, consumption dropped to one quart every 1447 miles. What a difference!

For four days, 12 hours a day, the tests went on—checked by representatives of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. Then all the figures were averaged, and here was the amazing result—Gulf-lube cut the oil costs on these cars 28½%—over a fourth!

Better lubrication for less money!

Switch to Gulf-lube today. You will save money 2 ways. First, you'll use less oil! Second, you'll spend less for repairs. Try it! Buy Gulf-lube at any Gulf station. It's the finest motor oil a quarter ever bought.

*Contest Board of the American Automobile Association

Tomato Aids Normal Growth And Stimulates Appetite

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

What to eat in the summer is a problem. Don't forget the tomato. It "does something" to every meal with which it is served. It makes the food more attractive to the eye, more appetizing to the taste and increases the nutrition of the meal.

Fortunately, the tomato is an inexpensive food within the reach of everyone. It is in the market all year round, but its tempting flavor is at its best in early summer to late fall.

The tomato is a plant native to South America. It is a sun-loving plant and requires long days of uninterrupted sunshine to develop the best fruit.

At one time the fruit was considered unsuitable as a food. Today its use is world-wide and the tomato is everywhere well known for many nutritive elements.

Do you know that the people of the United States eat more tomatoes per person than do the people of other countries? Italy comes next. There it is used in the preparation of many dishes. The Italians call the tomato the "golden apple."

The crops from June to November are supplied by the Northern states. The Southern states, the West Indies and the local hothouses suply our winter and spring demands. Within recent years the tomato has become increasingly popular during the winter months. To meet this demand the hothouses have increased their crop several hundred per cent.

There are many kinds of tomatoes. They vary in size, from a tiny tomato to one weighing three pounds. The color varies from yellow to deep red. The most popular are of medium size and even red color.

The tiny tomato is generally used for preserving and pickling. The green tomato of medium size is also used for relishes, preserves and pickles. The ripe tomato is made into chili sauce and catsup and served with meats and fish. Tomato paste is a thick tomato pulp with the skin and seeds removed. It is used in soups, in the cooking of meats and fish and in making sauces.

The tomato consists largely of water and carbohydrates. The remainder is made up of vegetable fiber, valuable minerals and important vitamins. It is a rich source of vitamins A, B and C, and, unlike other vegetables, does not lose its vitamin content when cooked or canned.

The tomato canning industry is one of the largest in the vegetable or fruit field. Canned tomatoes are more widely used then all other canned vegetables. This popularity can be understood when one realizes how convenient canned tomatoes are to the busy housewife, and that the canned product is as wholesome as the fresh fruit.

An eminent authority on foods says that "the natural acidity of the tomato makes sterilization in canning a greater certainty than is the case with most other foods. Weight for weight, raw or canned, they rank with lettuce and string beans for vitamins A and B content, and with oranges for vitamin C."

According to a statement recently issued by the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture the rich supply of vitamins makes the tomato an almost invaluable part of the diet for both children and adults. It helps the body overcome certain deficiency diseases, protects against infections of the skin and mucous membranes, aids in normal growth and stimulates the appetite.

Tech Professor To Head Meeting

Prof. Harry M. McCully, head of the department of drawing at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, will be chairman of the engineering drawing section of the Society for the Promoting of Engineering Education convention in Chicago next week.

Ralph Leavenworth, general advertising manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, will be principal speaker at a dinner meeting of the convention Monday night.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

FROZEN PEACH DELIGHT—6 nice ripe peaches, peeled and quartered; 1 cup sugar, juice of 1 lemon, 1 cup shredded cocoanut, 1 cup cream, beaten; 2 egg whites, beaten stiff; 2 teaspoons sugar.

Add the cup of sugar to the peaches and mash well, add juice of lemon, shredded cocoanut, fold in beaten cream and the egg whites beaten with two teaspoons of sugar. Mix well and pour into freezing tray of electric refrigerator for 1½ hours.

Variation: Instead of peaches, use bananas, strawberries or cherries.

* * *

VEGETARIAN LUNCH—1 pound mushrooms, cooked in good olive oil; 1 package egg noodles, cooked and drained; 1 small eggplant, cooked and cut into small pieces.

Place in layers on a large platter and pour over a little cream sauce and decorate top and sides with ripe olives, sprigs of parsley or watercress and hard-cooked egg yolks forced through sieve.

* * *

CHOCOLATE BANANA CAKE—¼ pound butter, 1¼ cups sugar, 2 eggs, 4 mashed bananas, 5 tablespoons cocoa, 1 cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup nuts (if desired).

Cream butter and sugar, add eggs. Then add mashed bananas. Mix and sift all dry ingredients together, except the baking soda. Dissolve soda in sour cream. Add flour mixture and sour cream alternately to the creamed mixture. Add vanilla and nuts if desired. Bake in layers and fill with following custard:

Custard Filling—1 egg, 1 cup milk (scant), ½ cup sugar.

Beat egg well and add milk and sugar. Stir until it boils. Thicken with a little cornstarch diluted in cold milk. When cool, put between layers of cake and top with following frosting:

Frosting—1 cup brown sugar, 1 egg white, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons cold water.

Put all in double boiler and beat about 7 minutes, or until mixture will stand in peaks. Spread on cake. Melt a cake of sweet chocolate, pour over frosting and let drip.

* * *

SILVER CAKE—2 cups sugar, 1 cup butter, 1 cup water, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 3½ cups cake flour (sifted seven times) and measured after first time, 7 egg whites unbeaten, 1 teaspoon almond and vanilla mixed.

Cream butter and sugar, add water and flour, with baking powder, alternately, a little at a time.

Safe and Sane Reducing for the Housewife!

Mrs. Christine Frederick, distinguished authority on household effiiciency, says that any woman who weighs more than ten per cent above the ideal weight for her type and her age, is getting into the "dangerous zone." A few months ago Mrs. Frederick was dangerously overweight. What did she do to successfully reduce? She changed from a "42" to a "perfect 36."

Icing—Boil 1½ cups sugar and ¾ cup water till it spins a thread, then beat 2 egg whites stiff and pour the syrup into them slowly, beating until of the right consistency to spread.

* * *

CHERRIES FOR PIES — A different way. Pit sour or pie cherries and place in earthen crock and cover with pure white wine vinegar. Let stand 24 hours and then drain. Return to crock and to every pound of drained fruit, add a pound of granulated sugar. Let stand a week, stirring every day, then tie a clean cloth over top. Put on lid and set aside in cool, dry place to mellow. Will keep indefinitely and makes wonderful pies.

* * *

OLD-FASHIONED MOLASSES COOKIES—1 cup sugar, 1 cup butter or other shortening, 1 cup molasses, 5 tablespoons hot strong coffee, 1 teaspoon ginger, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 2 teaspoons soda, flour enough to roll.

Cream sugar and shortening, add molasses, cinnamon and ginger. Put soda in coffee, add enough flour to roll (not too stiff). Two eggs may be added to this recipe, but I prefer it without.

* * *

MAGIC BUTTER ROLLS — 3 cups bread flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup butter or other fat, ¼ cup each evaporated milk and hot water, 2 cakes compressed yeast, 1 tablespoon sugar, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup chopped nuts, ½ cup sugar.

Sift flour, then measure. To one and a half cups flour add salt and shortening, combining as for pie crust. Combine milk and hot water. When lukewarm, add yeast and one tablespoon sugar, blend well and then stir into first mixture, beating until very smooth. Cover and let stand 20 minutes. Then add eggs and beat vigorously. Beat in the vanilla and remaining one and a half cups flour. Stir until smooth. The dough will be stiff, but slightly sticky. Tie the dough loosely in a square of cheesecloth and drop into a pail of cool water, 70 to 80 degrees. In about an hour the dough will rise to the top of the water, then remove from pail and turn into a platter. Cut off pieces the size of an egg and roll each one in the half cup of sugar mixed with chopped nuts. Twist each into a figure eight and place on greased baking sheet. Let stand five minutes, then bake in hot oven 325 degrees 10 to 15 minutes.

* * *

STUFFED CABBAGE—Pull off large outside leaves of a medium-sized cabbage and cut the inside leaves into shreds. Cook the shredded leaves with a little water until tender (about 10 minutes) and add: 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt; roll 12 crackers and moisten with enough hot milk to make a stiff paste; add 4 beaten eggs, 1 small onion, minced fine and sauted in 1 tablespoon butter until soft; salt and pepper to taste and mix all thoroughly.

Lay a thin piece of muslin cloth in a deep dish. Place the large leaves in this, giving them the shape of a cabbage and fill with the mixture. Draw the cloth tightly over this and tie. Place in a 4-quart pot of boiling water, to which a tablespoon of salt has been added. Boil 30 minutes. Remove cloth and slice. Serve hot with melted butter.

Happy Birthday

On the same station at 10, Grace Moore once more mingles operatic and jazz music, singing Irving Caesar's new hit, "If I Forget You" . . . Lennie Hayton's sympho-rhythms have to do with "I Cover the Waterfront," and "Sweetheart Darlin'."

* * *

One hundred and twenty-five khaki-clad New York Boy Scouts will sit in on Phil Cook's weekly KDKA show at 8:45—Phil's treat in return for the royal welcome he received at a benefit show staged by the Scouts last week.

First Nighter dialers are taken, microphonically speaking, into the pit of a coal mine for the 10:30 KDKA drama, "Dynamite Mike."

* * *

Musical Highspots

Musical highspots—Nino Martini, singing "Le Reve" from "Manon" and "By the Waters of Minnetonka," WJAS at 8; Joseph Littau's "Pastoral" concert, KDKA at 7:30; Jessica Dragonette, singing hits from "My Maryland," WCAE, at 8; Columbia Revue medley of Jerome Kern show hits, WJAS at 9:30, and Dorothy Bushey and Brian McDonald in musical comedy bits, KDKA at 6:30.

Arthur Tracey, the WJAS Street Singer, features his own composition, "I Bring a Song," at 9:15.

High School Band With Boys' Club

The Berlin High School string band, directed by L. Guy Garrett, will present the half-hour Sun-Telegraph Boys' Club program on WCAE tomorrow at 11:45 a. m.

'Spotlight'

Dorothy Bushey, who with Brian McDonald offers musical comedy bits during KDKA's "Pittsburgh Spotlights" tonight.

'The Devil's Call' On 5 Stations

WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.
WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.
WKBN, Youngstown, O., 4 p. m.
WALR, Zanesville, O., 5 p. m.
WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.

Ian Keith, British actor, has the lead. The play is based on an article published in the next issue of the big feature magazine, distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph.

Eight Divorce Pleas Granted, 1 Refused

Divorces were granted to Charles Lawrence from Ellen Lawrence, Edith B. Danforth from Edward Danforth, Rosela Kane from James C. Kane, Anna M. Duffey from Raymond C. Duffey, Caroline L. Snee from Philip J. Snee, Reta I. Jamison from Robert Jamison, Theresa Rychanek from Stanley Rychanek and to Helen G. Hayes from Peter P. Hayes. A divorce was refused Earl A. Cunningham from Thelma J. Cunningham.

'BARON' MAY BROADCAST SHARKEY-CARNERA SCRAP

By AIRCASTER

In spite of what happened to the the so-called "broadcast" of the recent Baer-Schmeling imbroglio, Radio Row is thinking seriously about the prospects of a round by round description of next Thursday's heavyweight fight between Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera.

So far plans are somewhat indefinite but the discussion centers around putting on the fight as a fitting climax for the close of the Jack Pearl series.

The intention is to have der Baron Munchausen at the ringside for some comments in addition to those of the regular fight announcers.

Broadcast rights, it is said, will cost something like $15,000. So maybe you'll hear the Baron at the fight and maybe you won't.

Ripley for Pearl?

And with Jack Pearl convulsions fading out, as previously stated, next Thursday, the purveyors of gossip now rush forward with the report that the time will be taken by a tire company.

In following up this rumor, I came across another which had B. A. Rolfe going into that picture, but Rolfe's boss denies that. However, the Revellers Quartet and Bob Ripley are also prominently mentioned for the bill.

Renard Coming Back

Since his caravan rested, many months ago, Jacques Renard, of the fancy fiddle and the facility of unusual orchestration, has been one of the lost souls of radio.

Sponsors and radio executives alike had theorized that he had been so closely identified with the cigaret sellers who had made him one of the musketeers with Morton Downey and Tony Wons, that much water would have to flow under the bridges before he could be brought back from oblivion, which is the limbo of the kilocycles.

Evidently a sufficient amount of time has elapsed for Jacques Renard is coming back. For a time at least, his barnstorming days have ceased. He slashes serially into the air waves July 14 to advertise refrigerators.

The schedule calls for two broadcasts a week, via WJAS. On Wednesdays at 10:30, Jane Froman will add vocal velocity to the program; on Fridays the tantalizing tenor of Howard Marsh will take the musical foreground.

SUGAR you can DEPEND ON

Always uniform—clean—wholesome—always 100% Pure Cane. JACK FROST Packaged Sugar is dependable, whenever or wherever you buy it.

That is the great advantage of buying sugar by name. You know that the contents of every single package of JACK FROST SUGAR is made from sugar cane—refined in this country in modern, sanitary plants—properly protected until it reaches you.

HAVE YOU SEEN PILLSBURY'S Handy sifter PACKAGE?

NOW you can sift Pillsbury's Sno Sheen Cake Flour directly from the package into a measuring cup. No more hacking at heavy packages. No spilled, wasted flour, no pouring out and pouring back, no muss and bother. Most important of all, no mistakes in measurement, for the holes in Pillsbury's new "Handy-Sifter" are exactly the right size to give you a true cup of flour!

You'll be delighted with its convenience. And you'll be just as delighted when you find that the cake flour inside this handy package is the finest cake flour you've ever used. It's made by the millers of Pillsbury's Best Flour, backed by the experience of sixty years of fine milling, approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Ask your grocer to show you Pillsbury's Sno Sheen Cake Flour, in the new "Handy-Sifter" package!

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

See what a reputation does for you!

I have just been invited to a picnic, and do you know the reason why? Well, it seems that someone after reading the articles here about ants, thought that I might be a handy man around such an outing to keep the ants away.

I turned the offer down because the eats didn't include deviled eggs. Deviled eggs, with just a drop of onion juice . . . there is something that will make you forget ants.

* * *

Some young globe trotter is going to be happy with a police puppy this summer. The dog, a year old, male, belongs to Mrs. Oscar Neubauer, of Millvale Terrace. She will give it to some one, who, in addition to a good home, has a yard for him to exercise in.

* * *

Mrs. George Peoples sent me pictures of a bird with only one leg, and describes in a letter the pitiful hobbling of the creature in its search for food. The leg was shot off by a young hunter with an air rifle.

Boys will be boys and sometimes don't appreciate the cruelty of shooting at birds and animals. Mrs. Peoples suggests that fathers and mothers have a talk with their boys and if they are "regular" the youthful Daniel Boones will co-operate.

* * *

Gus Miller, head usher of Forbes Field, invites me to attend Ladies Day and meet the girls.

And let them see the idiot who spoiled their biscuits for them by mixing up his recipes? Is it safe?

Globe-Trotter Schedule

News flashes by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, are broadcast over WCAE and WJAS today at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Tomorrow his schedule will be 9:05 and 12:15 over WCAE-WJAS and 2.15 and 6:30 over WCAE only.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

A new half-hour of local dance music is offered WJAS listeners for the first time tonight with the debut of the Original Serenaders from the roof of the Hotel Mayfair. They will be heard six nights a week from 10:45 to 11:15.

Dr. Springer continues his timely discussions at 7:15.

Long's Sports Review WCAE Feature

James J. Long, Sun-Telegraph sports columnist, gives a concise review of this week's events in the sports realm over WCAE at 7 p. m.

Designed specially for children, the Sun-Telegraph Family brings 30 minutes of variety to the WCAE waves at 4:45. Grandpa and Lillian, reading today's comic pages, top the bill.

JOIN the happy thousands who are switching to Shredded Wheat... and forget your years! These golden biscuits bring you all the vital youth-giving elements Nature stores in whole wheat... proteins and minerals, carbohydrates and vitamins. Even the bran, so correctly proportioned in whole wheat, is there. Nothing added, nothing taken away. Start each day with this crisp-baked food of youth ... for at least ten days. A real taste-thrill, for Shredded Wheat can be served in many ways ... with milk or cream, with fresh or preserved fruit. Any way you eat it, it's youth... by the bowlful. Buoyant youth that helps you take each day in high!

When you see Niagara Falls on the package, you KNOW you have Shredded Wheat.

Come over to the SUNNY SIDE OF LIFE

Do you want to feel always at your best? To meet each day with fresh vitality? You can. For when you're healthy, you're happy.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is twice as rich in iron as an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. What a relief to enjoy an appetizing cereal instead of taking patent medicines.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Directions on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

GIANTS TOP BOTH LOOPS IN SHUTOUTS

THE RARE QUALITY of the pitching the Giants have been getting, though singularly that was the department in which they were doped as being too weak to be pennant contenders, is attested by the fact that they became leaders of both major leagues in shutouts yesterday when Carl Hubbell blanked the Reds. That gives the Terrys a total of 10 whitewash victories for the season, five by Hal Schumacher, four by Hubbell and one by Bud Parmalee. Their closest rival is Cleveland in the American League, which has nine to its credit.

Carl Hubbell

Sixty-five shutout games have been pitched in the two loops. The Pirates rank second to the Giants in the National with seven, followed by the Cubs with six, the Reds with five, the Cardinals with four, the Braves and Dodgers with three each and the Phillies with two. Trailing the Indians in the American, the White Sox have four, the Yankees and Browns three each, the Tigers and Senators two each, and Red Sox and A's with one each. The Braves have been blanked oftener than any other club in either circuit—10 times. The Reds come next with eight.

THE ROW OF horse collars handed to the Bucs by Ray Benge yesterday marked the fifth zero defeat for Pittsburgh. The Cubs and Cards have lost the same number, the Dodgers three, and the Giants and Phils two each. In the American, the Red Sox and Browns have been held scoreless five times, the White Sox and Tigers four times, the Senators three times, and the Indians and A's twice.

The job of blanking the Yankees continues too big for opposing hurlers. Barring that exhibition game at Newark last month in which Al Mamaux did the trick, the Yanks have not been shut out since Wilcy Moore, then with the Red Sox did the 1 to 0, in the second game of a double header on August 2, 1931. In 271 consecutive championship games, in the meantime they have not failed to score.

THOUGH THE DODGER owners are hopeful that Joe Hutcheson, the slugging outfielder bought from Memphis, will be able to make the big league grade, they confess that the reports of their scouts on minor league material in general have been very discouraging.

Players who can field, can't hit. Those who can hit, can't field. Others lack speed or smartness, have poor throwing arms or bad habits. Going over the reports, the Brooklyn bosses say they can't find another prospect who is without one or two serious flaws. And they recall with a sigh the time when they bought Zack Wheat, Nap Rucker and Jake Daubert for something like $3,000 each.

THERE IS A sort of code among veteran ball players that makes it unethical for a batter to try to hit safely with two out in the ninth inning against a pitcher who has hurled a no-hit game up to that stage. Evidently fearing that Ted Gullic might be criticized for a breach of ethics in making a single that deprived Whitlow Wyatt of a no-hit game against the Browns recently with two down in the final frame, the White Sox pitcher himself explains it was an accident. "I know that Gullic was not trying to hit that ball," says Wyatt. "He was up there merely going through the motions, and was as much surprised as I was when the ball hit the handle of his bat for an easy tap that got past Luke Appling for a single. It was just an unlucky break for me. But a fellow is lucky to get through even eight innings with no hits. He is lucky because luck as much as skill plays a part in those games."

Frankie Frisch

ONE OF THE sharp bargains for which Branch Rickey is noted has had considerable to do with the rise of the Cardinals this year. It was Rickey's way of arousing Frankie Frisch, whom Branch openly accused last winter of not having exerted himself enough in 1932 to earn his salt.

First Frisch was given a cut of more than 50 per cent in salary. When he refused to sign, Rickey told him the figures would not be raised a cent, but that if Frisch accepted the offer, and went in and hustled, the cut, or most of it, would be restored at the end of the season. Frankie jumped in to play his head off, in order to get the bonus, and has pulled the whole club along with him.

IT IS ON the bases, in particular, that Frisch is showing his true value this year, not only in the matter of stolen hassocks, but in grabbing that extra hassock on hits by a display of dash and daring. That extra base often prevents a force play or a double play later, leads to a run, and one run wins many a game.

Pepper Martin and the other speedsters on the club are playing the same system. The Cards can do their share of slugging on occasion, but when they're having trouble with the enemy pitcher they resort to speed and play for one run, and in that way they win numerous close games for their own strong hurlers.

THE HARVARD CREW that defeated Yale for the fourth straight time, counting a freshman victory, will go down in rowing history as a tough, hard-boiled aggregation of oarsmen, the typification of brute strength and aggressiveness. Because of that, Bob Dunbar relishes telling a story about the stroke of the crew, Gerry Cassedy, a young man who is described as very brusque in his speech and a generally forceful person. Superficially, there is little softness about Cassedy. And mentally, as well as physically, he is the dominating, not domineering, type essential to the making of a good stroke. But there are ideals under his roughness.

SHORTLY AFTER THE race against Yale, Cassedy received a proposal to write his story of the event, and the price offered was $50. If he wished to write the story himself, fine. If he did not wish to write, he could give his impressions to a professional writer who would "ghost" it under the Caassedy name.

The husky stroke declined the offer, and the reasons he gave for the refusal show that the amateur spirit still exists in some quarters. "I could use that fifty dollars," Cassedy said. "It's a soft fifty dollars and would come in very handy. But college sports and college reputations have been commercialized too much. Rowing has been free from it, and I am idealistic enough about crew not to want to cash in on it."

IT HAS BEEN a tough year for favorites and champions in the fight game. Fidel La Barba dropped a decision to Seaman Watson, Frankie Battaglia was beaten by Ben Jeby, Jackie Fields lost the welter title to Young Corbett. Corbett in turn lost it to Jimmy McLarnin, Tommy Paul relinquished the N. B. A. featherweight crown to Freddie Miller, and Max Schmeling was toppled by Max Baer.

Those are only some of the instances in a year of upsets indicating that there may be serious trouble ahead for Tony Canzoneri when he undertakes to defend the world lightweight championship against Barney Ross in a 15-round bout tonight in Chicago.

Tony Canzoneri

AND THE EVIDENCE that it is an unlucky year for titleholders and favorites isn't the only stormcloud in Canzoneri's sky. The caliber of his opponent in itself would threaten plenty of trouble. There is no question that Ross is Tony's most formidable rival. A fighter of exceptional class is Barney. In 150 bounts as an amateur he lost only one, and 45 of his victories were scored by knockouts. In four and a half years as a professional he has been defeated only twice—by Carlos Garcia in 1930 and by Roger Bernard in 1931. He has everything, including a punch. Even at that it must be admitted that he would not measure up to a normal Canzoneri, for Tony at his best established himself as the greatest all-around fighter in any class, the best of all the present champions. But since he took that trouncing from Wesley Ramey, there has been some doubt in the minds of ring followers as to whether the lightweight king still is at his peak. It's from that angle that his title appears to be in danger in the Ross match. Canzoneri will have to be at his very best to escape defeat.

LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPION TONY CANZONERI, FAVORITE TO RETAIN TITLE AGAINST— —BARNEY ROSS IN THEIR 10-ROUND BATTLE IN CHICAGO'S STADIUM RING TONIGHT

ROSS BATTLES CANZONERI IN TITLE GO

By JOHN C. HOFFMAN
International News Service.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Tony Canzoneri, recognized as the greatest fighting man, pound for pound, in the world, and Barney Ross, 22-year-old Chicago challenger, will meet in a 10-round fight tonight in the Chicago Stadium with the world lightweight championship at stake.

The challenger, a rosy-cheeked youth, calmly awaits the verdict that may take him to the pinnacle of a division in the prize fight industry that has been something of a credit to the business. A significant commentary on the outcome of the scuffle is that Ross, though he is comparatively untried, now is quoted at almost even money to whip the titleholder.

CHALLENGER CONFIDENT

Supremely confident and utterly colorless in the fascination of bashing people for dollars, Ross is meeting the fearsome spectacle of a championship battle with an easy propriety, no more unnerved than a merchant who is about to sell a suit of clothes.

Ross is a cunning fighter, with a sharp, stinging left hand, the stamina of youth and a tried and proved ability to absorb a measure of punishment. He is exceptionally quick with his hands and his marksmanship is unerring.

In recognition of the grave possibilities, the champion has trained himself to razor edge for the contest. Always a crowd-pleaser, Canzoneri's stand-up tactics and superior punching power at least will make the fight one of a terrific nature if they do not win for him.

$70,000 GATE SEEN

The encounter is expected to gross something around $70,000, with an attendance of 20,000. Of this amount, Canzoneri is guaranteed $25,000 and Ross 20 per cent.

BENGE BLANKS BUCS, 9-0, ON FOUR HITS

BROOKLYN, June 23.—Those folks who figured the Pirates to come up with a shattered morale today will have to think up a new one, for the Buccos were as confident as a radio announcer, despite the Flatbush debacle of yesterday. You may say that one cannot laugh off a 9-0 defeat, but that is what the Pittsburgh boys are attempting to do.

It wasn't so many weeks ago that these same Pirates made 10 tallies in one inning to down the chesty Cardnials who have not been flying quite so high since that eventful afternoon.

GREAT RACE IN SIGHT

The fact that the Freebooters were five full games behind the pace-setting Giants today was something else that did not appear to terrorize the Rovers or throw them off an even keel.

The race is only starting, and the veteran members of the Pirate entourage realize that a short space of two weeks could thoroughly disarrange the picture. July, August and September, three of the rough months of the campaign, are yet to be encountered.

The members of the Gibson club, together with other Western athletes, think the Giants will find some very rocky roads in the not too distant future. Moreover, there is a feeling in the Pirate camp that Bill McKechnie will make a lot of trouble for the various flag contenders from the present right down to the finish of the race. The acquisition of Pinkey Whitney and Hal Lee has rounded out the Boston punch.

Ray Benge had so much slab cleverness yesterday he held the Buccos to four hits, so there is little more to be said as to why the Pirates didn't win.

The home batters, on the other hand, nicked Heinie Meine and Waite Hoyt for nine big counters. And that's just about the half of it. Manager Scoops Carey, himself one of the greatest baserunners in the history of the sport, directed a base-running offensive that netted six stolen sacks. Danny Taylor, Hack Wilson and Joe Stripp each swiped a brace of bases.

The Dodgers made six of their runs off Meine before he departed in favor of Hoyt in the fourth. Hoyt ran into a three-run barrage in the sixth.

GRACE OUT AGAIN

The Buccos received a tough blow when it was learned that Catcher Earl Grace, who only recently had recovered his batting eye, is out indefinitely. The star receiver is suffering from the reoccurence of a leg infection and, unless the infection responds to treatment today, it may be necessary to put Grace back in the hospital. Lindstrom will return to the Pirate outfield today.

Women's Meet Officials Named

Miss Agnes Abbott will represent the Allentown Turners in the 50 and 100-meter dashes and broad jump in the A. M. A. senior women's track and field meet at West View Park on July 1. Entries are to be received at A. A. U. headquarters, 35 Vandergrift Building, until Tuesday evening.

The meet officials are to be: Referee, W. S. Haddock; judges at finish, Carl Olson, C. L. Beares, Jr., R. W. Peters, Dr. H. M. Fink, Harry A. Little, Frances Taylor, C. Lawrence Walsh and R. P. Marshall; starter, John T. Taylor; timers, W. C. Christian, Ziggy Kahn, P. C. Corr and R. V. Shinton.

DATTO SUSPENDED

PHILADELPHIA, June 23 — Johnny Datto, Filipino boxer, of Pittsburgh, has been suspended by the State Athletic Commission for failure to honor a contract at Lancaster. Boxer Steve Senich, of Homestead, and Manager Jock McDonald, of New Kensington, have been reinstated.

WOMEN TENNIS STARS REACH SEMI-FINALS

MRS. SNOWDON, MISS JARVIS ADVANCE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Miss Dorothy Jarvis and Mrs. F. B. Snowdon fought their way to the semi-final round of the annual Western Pennsylvania championship tennis tournament on the Stanton Heights Golf Club today by scoring decisive straight-set victories.

Miss Jarvis won over Dolly Harris by scores of 6-2, 6-3.

Mrs. Snowdon accounted for Miss Mary D. Edwards, 6-0, 6-1.

IN DOUBLES FINAL

Mrs. Snowdon, paired with John Ricektson, also advanced into the final round of the women's double play, by virtue of a 6-3, 6-3 victory over Miss Edwards and Miss Frances Grimes, of Morgantown, today.

A light program was scheduled for today, with fine progress having been made throughout the week. The tournament will be completed Sunday.

Carnera Takes Day Off in Training

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 23.—(INS.)—Primo Carnera, 264 pounds on the hoof, became a carefree woodland sprite today, pushing his big violin cases through sylvan dells in search of rest and solitude. The handlers training the Italian Man Mountain for his title fight with Jack Sharkey next Thursday night decided it would do Primo good, besides helping him, to "get away from it all" for a day.

Primo and a few cronies were to gambol at a picnic in a secluded spot, with boxing taboo. The big fellow will go through strenuous workouts tomorrow and Sunday and then take things easy until the fight. Yesterday he did six miles on the road and boxed six rounds.

Mathison, Boxing Judge, Scribe, Dies

NEW YORK, June 23.—Death has taken Charles F. Mathison, veteran boxing writer and one of New York's best boxing judges. He succumbed to a heart ailment at his Coney Island home last night.

Mathison officiated at the Tommy Loughran-Steve Hamas fight Wednesday night. He was associate editor of "Ring," the boxing magazine, and for years was a sports writer for Detroit and New York newspapers. He was 77 years old.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

CHICAGO, June 23.—Well, folks, at last it's time for the other clubs to raise their lorgnettes and keep an eye on the Red Sox. They may not burn up the league, but, at that, they've got a touch of arson in 'em.

Nick Altrock

And it's good to see the Hub city have a real outfit. It hasn't had one since the Dark Ages when Harry Frazee held a slave auction ands old most of his pennant-winning athletes down the river. And by that I mean the Hudson River, because the Yankees absorbed them all. When Frazee finished swinging his auctioneer's hammer, the Sox were just a Class B team disguised in major suits.

The Boston clubh as been a joke longer than the farmer's daughter, but you'll have to have a strong sense of humor to laugh at 'em from now on.

CONNELLY, WESTINGHOUSE HIGH OUTFIELDER, STEALS THIRD BASE AGAINST SOUTH HILLS . . . HE LATER STOLE HOME

WESTINGHOUSE WINS TITLE

For the first time, the City Scholastic League baseball championship belongs to Westinghouse High School. The Silver Lakers captured the 1933 gonfalon yesterday by defeating South Hills in the third and final game of the title series, 8 to 5, on the Peabody High School field.

While it was Westinghouse's first experience at winning the diamond title, it marked the fourth time the Westinghouse coach, Zonny Zahnizer, had watched a team of his triumph. Zahnizer piloted three Schenley High School nines to the league crown.

Spence Woodill, star Westinghouse hurler, settled down after a shaky start and pitched fine ball for the remaining six innings. He limited the Tunnelites to two hits, ragged support getting Woodill into trouble in the first frame. Westinghouse, led by McMahn and Woodill, collected six hits, one of them a homer by Woodill.

The score by innings:

	R.	H.
South Hills..... 3000002	5	2
Westinghouse .. 310220x	8	6

Batteries — Flinn, Fowls and Phillips; Woodill and Baur.

NEW TACKLE GIANT

Strikeout Homer Recorded at Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 23.—A home run on a strikeout was the feat performed by Harry Bruce, shortstop of the Bethel A. M. E. Church team of the Waynesburg City League.

Playing against the Todd Stars, Bruce missed a third strike and the catcher, Jim Meighen, missed the ball. Bruce raced to first, went on to second when Meighen was late in retrieving the ball, and when the latter's throw sailed wide into center field, Bruce cut for third.

He rounded third and started home, fell over Meighen who had stumbled in handling the peg from the outfield and although suffering from a leg cramp, crawled across the plate.

MASSEY KNOCKS OUT COX

INDIANAPOLIS, June 23.—(AP.)—Lew Massey, Philadelphia lightweight, was awarded a knockout victory over Tracy Cox, of Indianapolis, in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round boxing contest here last night.

VINES, STOEFEN GAIN FINAL

LONDON, June 23.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines, American champion, and Lester Stoefen, giant Californian, gained the final of the men's singles of the London Tennis Championships today, conquering two fellow countrymen in an all-American semi-final round after Mrs. Helen Wills Moody swept into the women's singles final with a straight-set victory over Virginia Rice, of Boston.

Vines, mainstay of the United States Davis Cup forces, came from behind to conquer his doubles partner, Keith Gledhill, 6-8, 7-5, 6-3, while Stoefen tossed a coin with Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, for the other place in the final after playing two long deuced sets.

Stoefen won the first set, 12-10, and was battling along evenly at 12-all with Sutter in the second set when they decided they were getting nowhere rapidly and might as well toss a coin to decide the issue. Stoefen won the toss.

Mrs. Moody had little difficulty beating Miss Rice, 6-2, 6-3.

In the women final, Mrs Moody will meet Mrs. J. B. Pittman, who defeated Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, 6-2, 6-4.

MONARCHISTE WINS

WOMEN GOLF TEAMS PLAY MATCHES

By TOM BIRKS

Western Pennsylvania women's team duels hold the golf spotlight this afternoon, Section I with Oakmont away out in front, plays at the Stanton Heights, Section II, with Longue Vue, St. Clair and Shannopin practically deadlocked for the leadership, swings into action at Longue Vue.

While the race in Section I apparently is over, the women of the district are watching the struggle between Stanton Heights and Westmoreland to stay out of last place in the league standing.

Under the rules of the organization the last place club in Section I must play the winner of Section II for a place in Section I the following year.

Director Edward Lang, of the Department of Public Works, will be tendered a testimonial dinner July 11 by the Schenley Park Golfers' Association. It is planned to have Mayor Herron and a number of city and county officials in attendance.

According to word from an authoritative source, J. F. Byers, former president of the United States Golf Association, will be chosen as head of the Western Pennsylvania Fathers' and Sons' Golf Association at the twelfth annual tournament of the association at the Allegheny Country Club next Monday.

Coen Defeated In Title Tourney

CHICAGO, June 23.—(AP.)—Johnny Shostrum, Chicago high school boy, handed the western tennis Ingles championship its first big upset yesterday by eliminating Junior Coen, of Kansas City, seeded number three, 8-6, 6-3, to enter the quarter-finals.

Other favorites, including Defending Champion Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, and George Lott, of Chicago, swept into the same bracket without being extended. Parker defeated George O'Connell, Chicago star, 6-2, 6-2, while Lott disposed of W. E. Parkhill, Chicago, 6-0, 7-5.

SARAZEN DEFEATED

EXETER, England, June 23.—(AP.)—Archie Compston, British professional, defeated Gene Sarazen, former American and present British Open champion, 5 and 4, today in a 36-hole exhibition match.

SCOTT BEATS DUNLAP IN BRITISH AMATEUR

AMERICAN STAR LOSES, 4-3, IN SEMI-FINALS

HOYLAKE, England, June 23.—(AP.)—George T. Dunlap, Jr., sole America survivor in the British Amateur golf championship, was eliminated in the semi-final round today, 4 and 3, by the veteran British internationalist, the Honorable Michael Scott.

The slim young American, twice holder of the United States intercollegiate title, held his own with Scott through the first nine holes of the match, which they finished all square, but failed to win a hole on the incoming route, Scott taking the lead at the eleventh to end the match four holes later.

On his way to the semi-final Dunlap defeated several leading golfers of the British Empire, including C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, Canadian holder of the United States Amateur title, and Lister Hartley, British Walker Cup star.

SCOTT SCORES EAGLE

The real break in his match with Scott came on the eighth hole, a 482-yarder, where George shot his par 5 only to have Scott sink an eight-yard putt for an eagle 3, to square the match and apparently shake the nerve of the 24-year-old American.

Scott, twice Australian open champion and four times winner of the amateur title there, was a member of the British Walker Cup team in 1924, and scored two of Britain's three points.

He defeated Jess Sweetser, former United States and British amateur titleholder, 7 and 6, and paired with Robert Scott, Jr., to defeat Bob Jones and W. C. Fownes, Jr., 1 up.

Dunlap was playing about as well as he did in his previous matches, but was no match for the aroused Scotsman, who was even 4s through the 15 holes played, with an eagle and one birdie on his card. Scott was only over par three times and two of the holes he lost that way. The cards:

Dunlap, out	4	5	5	3	4	4	4	5	4	—38
Scott, out	4	6	5	3	4	5	3	3	4	—37
Dunlap, in	4	4	5	4	5	5
Scott, in	4	3	4	3	4	4

Scott's victory put him into the final for the first time, his best previous showing being a semi-final berth in 1920.

TOLLEY DEFEATED

Cyril Tolley, British titleholder in 1920 and 1929, also fell in the semi-final round, before Thomas Arundel Bourn, losing out in a 20-hole match.

The defeat of Tolley was as much an upset as that of Dunlap by Scott as the portly former champion, one of the longest drivers in golf, had been favored by the critics to at least gain the final round.

Bourn was native English champion in 1930, and won the French amateur title in 1928. He played in the United States amateur in 1929, being eliminated in the second round.

In quarter-final round matches, played this morning, Dunlap won over Ronald H. Hardman, 5 and 4; Scott defeated Martin Schunck, 2 and 1; Tolley defeated H. L. Holden, 2 up, and Bourn won over Douglas Grant, former New Yorker now living in London, 1 up.

Hagen and Prince Score Golf Victory

LONDON, June 23.—(Universal.)—Walter Hagen and his old golfing partner, the Prince of Wales, handed a drubbing to Sir Philip Sasson and Hagen's Ryder Cup teammate, Gene Sarazen, British Open champion, in a four-ball match over Sir Philip's private course at Trent Park, Hertfordshire, yesterday.

GRAPHIC GOLF

A BACKSPIN STROKE

Applying backspin by hitting the ball a descending blow is a method repeated ever and anon. Little, however, has been written about the correct blow needed to apply the proper contact, particularly in pitch shots where a quick stop is needed. Should the club-head be swept through the ball in the manner of the tee shot there is bound to be some run after the ball hits the turf. In fact, there is likely to be some, anyway, but if the wrists are employed correctly the roll is minimized.

In this shot the uncocking of the left wrist and the hitting power of the right should be kept back until the ball is nearly reached; then snap through at impact. The added snap of the right wrist on this shot, combined with the forearm's rolling movement causes this wrist to climb over the left soon after the ball is hit.

Stars Meet Defeat In Southern Golf

ATLANTA, June 23.—(AP.)—Favorites fell by the wayside in the Southern amateur golf tournament here yesterday as youngsters scored unexpected victories.

Sam Perry, defending champion, was eliminated by Dean Smith 5 and 4. Smith followed this victory by defeating Joe Horacek, 4 and 3, to enter the quarter-finals. Julius Hughes also was a victim of an upset, bowing to Jack Taylor, Jr., 1 up.

A new polo field will be dedicated on Sunday with the 107th Field Artillery polo-ists meeting the Charleroi Veterans as the high point of the dedication ceremonies. The new field, constructed by the 308th Cavalry as a combination assembly area and polo field, is on Fox Chapel road, out of Aspinwall. It is one of the most easily accessible playing fields in the district, with ample parking facilities.

FORT SMITH, Ark.—(AP.)—Mae Cuervorst, of Wichita, Kan., will defend her women's singles title against Charlotte MacQuiston, of Dallas, today in the finals of the Missouri Valley tennis championships here.

GLEN HEAD, N. Y.—(AP.)—For the third time in as many years the paths of Helen Hicks, former national champion, and Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake will cross in the Long Island women's golf championship when they meet in the 36-hole final match today at the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club.

WILMINGTON, Del. — (AP.) — Rallying from what looked like almost certain defeat, Harold MacGuffin, of New York, yesterday staged a thrilling comeback to defeat Sam Gilpin, of Merion, Pa., the second seeded player, and join three other domestic players in the semi-final round of the Delaware state grass court tennis championship.

READING, Pa.—(AP.)—Earl M. Biehl, Central Pennsylvania golf champion, found plenty of competition yesterday in the qualifying round of the championship tourney at the Berkshire Country Club. Biehl turned in a medal score of 76, two over par for the course, but before the day was over three others had matched his card. The trio who nudged their way into the championship flight are Hawley Quier, R. P. Diffenbaugh, of Lancaster, and Herbert Eshleman, of Harrisburg.

The date of the appearance here of the nationally known Iroquois Riding and Polo Club, of Lexington, Ky., for their two matches with the Pittsburgh Polo and Riding Club, has been moved to August 5 and 6, it was announced today. This move will enable Ed Madden, captain of the team, to take the entire Iroquois personnel for two games at the World's Fair in Chicago, July 29 and 30.

SENATORS TIE WITH YANKS FOR LEAD

Associated Press.

The might behind their own bats plus the difficulties the New York Yankees have encountered on the road finally have pulled the Washington Senators into a tie with the World Champions for the American League lead.

Continuing their terrific clouting, the Senators defeated the Chicago White Sox yesterday, 11-4, while the Yankees were dropping a 5-4 decision to the St. Louis Browns, and moved into a first place deadlock at 37 victories and 23 defeats. It marked only the third time this season the Yanks had been deprived of sole possession of the lead.

CRONIN BIG STAR

The Senators' victory was their tenth in 11 games in a winning spurt that has coincided with Manager Joe Cronin's batting rampage and with the Yankees' troublesome tour. Cronin has lifted his average to .352.

Chicago's defeat dropped the Pale Hose into fifth place, a point behind the Athletics, who hammered out eight runs in the fifth inning and defeated the third-place Cleveland Indians, 11-6. The Boston Red Sox scored a 10-inning 9-7 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The pressure on the New York Giants, National League leaders, was eased a trifle when they shut out the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 0, behind the five-hit pitching of Carl Hubbel, while the Phillies smote the St. Louis Cardinals, 9-3, to leave the Cards a game and a half behind.

PIRATES BEATEN

Ray Benge pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers into fifth place in the elder circuit, holding the Pittsburgh Pirates to four hits to win his fifth straight victory, 9-0.

Ed Brandt sent the Boston Braves into a sixth-place tie with Cincinnati with a 3-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs, giving only seven safeties.

Hurling Teams Due Tomorrow

The Cork and Kilkenny hurling teams, 40 strong, will arrive in Pittsburgh early tomorrow morning for their game at Kennywood Park at 2:30 in the afternoon. The first appearance of this sport in Pittsburgh will feature the seventy-fourth anniversary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and their twenty-fourth annual Irish Day picnic.

The Kilkenny team, captained by James Leahy, right fullback, holds the Gaelic League championship for last season. The Cork Club, which is led by John Hayes, also a right fullback, won the championship in 1931.

Jamison Wins Tourney Medal

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 23.—Match play in the annual Westmoreland County amateur golf tournament got under way over the Greensburg Country Club course today with 16 players, all that entered the qualifying round yesterday, in action.

Tom Jamison, Jr., turned in a 73 to win the medal honors. He was out in 35 and back in 28.

SPORT VIGNETTES

That was a corking victory Ted Yarosz scored over Sammy Slaughter in Cleveland the other night, and he turned the trick under most adverse conditions, judging from what Pittsburghers who attended told about the incident when they returned . . . In the first place, the show had been twice postponed last week, and finally was moved indoors to the Auditorium . . . It was a hot night, and the Yarosz bout was put on last, along about midnight, or 1 o'clock Pittsburgh time, an hour which generally finds Yarosz in the arms of Morpheus . . . The fans had tired of the long card in the humid atmosphere, and when Johnny Risko and Patsy Perroni, the main-bouters, finished their labors and Yarosz and Slaughter came on the customers got up and began to leave.

They don't know our Teddy Yarosz over there in Cleveland, or they didn't know him until this show, and they thought the hard-hitting Slaughter probably would belt him out in a round or two . . . However, Yarosz started off in his usual busy manner and the first round was not over before Mr. Slaughter was down for a count of nine from a right to the jaw . . . That was interesting, and those who hadn't already left the building began to return to their seats, and they were repaid with a fine exhibition in which Yarosz was the winner all of the way.

With the Slaughter victory under his belt, Yarosz, now a full-fledged middleweight, is all set to try his hand against Vince Dundee, of Newark, N. J., styled the uncrowned middleweight champion . . . They are to fight at Forbes Field on the night of July 24, and it figures to be quite an occasion . . . There hasn't been a boxing entertainment at Forbes Field since long before the Meyers (now North Braddock) Bowl was built, and that is all of four years ago . . . Because of the attractiveness of the battle, which may lead to a championship match for Yarosz, we are going to have our first $3.30 tops in quite a spell, the ringside seat tickets lately having retailed at $2, with or without tax . . . Only the ringside seats on the field will sell for $3.30, however, the grandstand seats, of which there will be thousands of good ones, going for $1.10 and $2.20.

It is believed the Yarosz-Dundee match will attract many of our better citizens of both sexes and will be quite a swanky affair . . . Evening dress will be the rule in at least one of the ringside sections, and maybe there'll be dancing afterward, for certainly no one will ask for dancing during the bouts.

The decision awarded Baby Joe Gans over Jack Portney, of Baltimore, who is managed by Max Waxman, manager of Dundee, at Hick Park last Monday night, and which was loudly booed by the patrons on the ground that Portney was the real winner, has caused Promoter John L. Hernon no little concern, for the said Waxman has confided to him that he does not feel any too cheerful about bringing his Dundee man on here to run the risk of a muffed decision in his bout with Yarosz . . He expects the fight to be plenty tough and close, as it is, and doesn't want to take any extra chances . . . He has been assured that the local officials do not hold anything against any of his fighters, and that they call 'em as they see 'em, right or wrong, and he probably will go through with the match in due order, but, nevertheless, he is doing some tall thinking and no little worrying . . . He is even thinking of resorting to the rather crude expedient of having his man knock out Yarosz, if need be, and if possible, to avoid any unpleasantness in the matter of a decision at the finish.

Maybe you knew it all along, and maybe you didn't, but the Jumbo Morano, who boxed one of the preliminaries to the Tommy Loughran-Steve Hamas fight in New York a few nights ago, is none other than the Jumbo Moran who starred on the football team at Sing Sing Prison the last few seasons . . . He has been paroled and has decided to go straight—in the fight game . . . He is a 230-pounder . . . In view of what happened to Max Schmeling when he was the favorite against Max Baer, the Chicago fans have grabbed a lot of that 1-to-2 betting on Barney Ross, their native son, against Tony Canzoneri in their lightweight title fight in the Stadium tonight.

They called Primo Carnera a bum when Jack Sharkey beat him easily two years ago, and last summer they booed a decision for him over Hans Birke in New York and called him two bums, and during the past winter he scrambled through 10 rounds against Jose Santa, another dreadnaught, in Madison Square Garden, and what they said about him then wasn't fit to print . . . Then he knocked out a sick man, Ernie Schaaf, who subsequently died, and now they're saying he's greatly improved and is going to beat Jack Sharkey for the heavyweight title when they meet next Thursday night . . . What do you make of that, Dr. Watson, old thing?—HARRY KECK.

The champion Book and Dormont nines meet in the deciding battle for the first-half championship of the City League this evening at Dormont High School field.

The mound selections have not been announced, but it is likely that Bimmy Steel will get the assignment from Heinie Boll and Elmer Knetzer for the Suburbanites.

The Negro National League executives will meet at the Center Avenue Y. M. C. A. tomorrow morning to work out a schedule for the second half of the league, and also act on the status of the Homestead Grays, apparently due to be dropped from the league.

The veteran Oscar Charleston, of the Crawfords, played every position for his team against Jim Thorpe's Indians at Greenlee Field last night as the local Negro team made it three straight over the redskins with a 14-9 victory. In a twilight game at McKeesport, the score was 17-4. Charleston started pitching and wound up at his regular position, first base. Thorpe played through the McKeesport game, but appeared only as a pinch-hitter at Greenlee Field.

HOLT TO SUB IN WINDUP AT BOWL

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Tony Canzoneri vs. Barney Ross (for world lightweight title), 10 rounds, and Johnny Pena vs. Nick Scalba 8 rounds, Stadium, Chicago.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Proving that a good fight in defeat is better than a poor one in victory, Billy Holt, Homewood Negro welterweight, has landed himself the windup at the North Braddock Bowl against Jimmy Belmont next Thursday night, on top of his narrow-margined defeat by Lew Raymond, of Baltimore, in a great battle at Hickey Park last Monday night.

Jack King, of Little Rock, originally was scheduled to box Belmont, but is down with malaria, and Matchmaker Jules Beck reached out and grabbed Holt while the fans still were talking about his Hickey Park engagement.

In the other bouts on the card, Sunny Jim McVey, Bunny Buntach's Negro heavyweight, will meet Joe Doktor, of Buffalo, and Lloyd Clements, of Braddock, will take on Frank Novak, of the North Side, while Jimmy Thomas, local Negro featherweight, will meet Nat Litfin. All of the bouts will be 10-rounders.

The show originally was to be held for the benefit of the Fourth Ward Relief Committee, but this angle has been dropped.

A shift to local talent as a means of drawing in the cash customers is apparent in the card at Hickey Park Monday night. Out-of-town celebrities brought here at the cost of considerable carfare have not proved great magnets, and the home products are to get their chance again.

Battling Gizzy meets Eddie Zivic in a return bout in the windup of 10 rounds. Harry Jacoby boxes Joey Bazzone and Anson Green takes on Tommy Glenn in eight-rounders, and Fritzie Zivic is booked with Don Asto and Dominic Mancini with Jerry Clements in two six-rounders.

South Hills Wins In Legion Battle

Turtle Creek plays at Curtisville this evening.

SHARKEY PLANS RETIREMENT

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—Win, lose or draw against Primo Carnera next Thursday night, Jack Sharkey winds up his fighting career this season and there will be nothing to gain by arguing with him.

The heavyweight champion, standing in the sun outside his training quarters, a scowl inches deep in his ring worn, bewiskered features, yesterday said:

"If I beat Carnera I'll fight Max Baer in September for anyone, but after that—I'm going back to Boston to fish and hunt and play with my 'ids as long as I've got 'em. I won't hang up my gloves. I'll burn 'em."

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT NARROW

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—An atmosphere of indecision pervaded financial markets today and prices of stocks and staples mulled around in an extremely narrow range throughout most of the business hours.

The American dollar was again erratic in foreign exchange transactions, slumping in the first hour and rallying later. Traders, perplexed by currency stabilization maneuvers in London, apparently decided that discretion was the better part of valor for the moment. Stocks rallied moderately in the first hour, but this early show of hopefulness gave way to apathy that resulted in most of the leaders dropping their initial advances. The ticker tape was lifeless at times. Wheat and corn eased, but cotton held fairly steady. Bonds were irregular. Bar silver was heavy, losing 7/8 of a cent an ounce at 34 7/8 cents.

Recent firmness of tobacco stocks has been attributed largely to the substantial improvement in cigaret production which reached a new high monthly record in May and exceeded the previous monthly peak, established in July, 1930, by more than 1,000,000,000 cigarets. Gains over last April amounted to some 6 per cent and the output for May, 1932, was exceeded by 47.6 per cent. Notwithstanding the jump in output, wholesale cigaret prices remain at bottom levels and net earnings of some of the companies are expected to be considerably below those of last year. Rumors of increased prices, however, have been prevalent for the past few weeks.

Railway earnings, in the eyes of most traders, still provide an important basis for judging the extent of industrial improvement. The first six roads to publish statements for May showed a 4.8 per cent increase in gross over May last year, while net operating income was up around 95 per cent. Part of the encouraging gains in transportation revenues is said to be due to the enforcement of rigid economies in operations. June traffic, it is estimated in some quarters, may be 12 or 15 per cent greater than in the corresponding month a year ago.

BUSINESS GAIN 'ASTONISHING'

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP.)—Business in the past week continued its expansion, wholly unaffected by seasonal influences, said the Dun & Bradstreet Review today.

Expected hesitancy from uncertainties regarding the application of commodity processing taxes, the agency asserted, was not apparent in manufacturing schedules, which were generally above those of a week ago. The review said:

"The broadened sweep at which trade is now progressing is eliciting astonishment from even the most time-worn veterans of industry, as the sustained strength of the upswing has passed boldly beyond even the most sanguine expectations.

"The further widening of employment and the continued rising trend of wages form the base of the larger buying power. Each week consumer demand is being extended.

"Evidence of the operation of sound constructive factors built on the secure groundwark which has been laid slowly during the last two years is furnished by the statistical exhibits of the major industries, which as yet reveal not even a faint likelihood of the usual summer lull."

WHEAT RALLIES AFTER DROP

CHICAGO, June 23.—Grain prices underwent early setbacks today, influenced by a better weather outlook for domestic crops. There were also reports that the Australian drought had been broken.

Opening 3/8 to 7/8c lower, wheat afterward rallied somewhat. Corn started unchanged to 5/8c off, and subsequently declined all around.

Advances later lifted wheat values to above yesterday's finish in some cases. Much of the speculative buying of wheat today came from houses that yesterday were conspicuous sellers. Some notice was taken of advices that Argentine rainfall showed severe deficiency. Corn and oats were relatively easy as compared to wheat. Liberal receipts of corn attracted attention. Provisions lacked support, despite hog market upturns.

MISS PERKINS SEES DOOM OF SWEATSHOP

By MERRYLE S. RUCKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, interprets the new industrial recovery act as a vehicle for freeing the country of the meanace of the sweatshop.

Mr. Rukeyser

Pointing out that the sweatshop keeper is an interloper who cannot stay in business on the basis of his own efficiency, Secretary Perkins, in the Nation's Business, says:

"This ruthlessness must stop, and I feel that enlightened businessmen are as eager to stop it as any one. Naturally I do not believe that the sweatshop is entirely to blame for our present depression, but I do feel that it has been a serious contributing feature to the decline of wages and purchasing power. Once the pressure which the 'gypsy' and the 'runaway' operator are exerting for lower wages is removed we will have taken an important step toward business recovery.

"If the 10 per cent of businessmen who are willing to exploit labor can be controlled, I feel that the others can be depended upon to fix fair standard of hours and wages...

"These steps may mean the end of $4.95 bargain dresses for the American housewife, but they should also mean that she could afford to buy dresses at a price which assures the workers who made them a decent living. And perhaps, she would not mourn the passing of the $4.95 dress so greatly if she could know the conditions in some of the shops where they were made."

The American situation has been strengthened by the apparent determination of President Roosevelt to resist any temptation to barter away American prosperity at the World Economic Conference.

Preliminary railroad reports for May indicate that the carriers chiefly needed a pickup in the gross volume of traffic. All the other factors in adversity were secondary.

BROKERS LOANS OFF $7,000,000

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP.)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending June 21 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board as $775,000,000, representing a decrease of $7,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

The loans for the week ending June 22, 1932, were $359,000,000.

The detailed distribution of the loans over the three weeks dealt with in the board's report was, (000 omitted):

	June 21,	June 14,	June 22, 1932.
For own acct.	$719,000	$764,000	$324,000
For account of out-of-town banks	49,000	22,000	28,000
For account of others	7,000	6,000	7,000

*Preliminary.

PITTSBURGH BUSINESS has gained for 13 consecutive weeks without a single interruption. This is shown by the weekly index of business activity in the Pittsburgh district as prepared by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Pittsburgh.

The index for the week ended June 17 stood at a preliminary level of 61.9. This was 22.4 points in excess of the index for the week ended March 18 when the depression low point was reached at the end of the bank holiday.

The rate of activity for last week was higher than any week in 1932. The high level in 1932 of 61.1 was established in the first week of the year. In comparison to the corresponding week of 1932, the index shows a gain of 16.4 points.

* * *

Losses of 18 Months Wiped Out in Three

AT THE END of last week the index stood at the highest level since the second week of September in 1931. From that time until the middle of March, the general trend of the index was downward with some short reactions on the side of improvement. The gains of the last 13 weeks have entirely eliminated the losses of the preceding 18 months.

In comparison to the previous week, the index of 61.9 for last week represents a gain of 2.9 points. It was 6.5 points in excess of the index of two weeks ago. While it was 16.4 points in excess of a year ago it still was 9.1 points less than two years ago.

Steel Records Greatest Gains

IRON AND STEEL continue to show the greatest gains of any element in the index of activity for the district. This factor stood at 53.1 for the week, a gain of 5.2 points over the previous week and an increase of 9.8 points over the week of June 3.

The iron and steel index was more than double the rate of a year ago when it stood at 25.9.

NO EAST TEXAS OIL AT 50c

AUSTIN, June 23.—Oil brokers who have been trying to obtain cargoes of East Texas crude oil, find producers holding out for 60, 65 and 70 cents a barrel, which compares with the current posted price of 50 cents.

A temporary injunction has been granted restraining the Humble Oil and Refining Company, Texas subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, from producing crude oil in excess of its allowable from some of its wells in East Texas.

It is alleged that the company is producing 350 barrels daily more than its allowable from five wells all located in Rush County.

Audacious Girl Reveals Secrets Of the Southern Seas

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Father Kirschbaum arrived to greet us shortly after our schooner had tied up alongside the river bank. I was eager to see and know this truly great man, and my glimpse of him in the flickering light of a hurricane lamp the night before had piqued my curiosity all the more. There is no man in the world, I believe, who knows as much about New Guinea in general as Father Kirschbaum, priest, anthropologist, missionary and fearless adventurer.

He is a huge person, with a bear-like clumsiness which hinders him not at all in penetrating the hinterland; his thick, pointed beard is still untouched with gray, and through monstrously thick spectacles two shrewd and very kindly eyes looked keenly at me. His mouth, seen between dark beard and mustache, was firm and pleasant. He was not garbed in the absurd, long, white, frock-coated outfit and helmet that the German fathers affect in the tropics; he wore nondescript khaki, wore it sloppily and comfortably.

For over 20 years he has labored, sincerely and not in the least sentimentally, among the Sepik head-hunters. He is stern and perhaps even hard when occasion warrants, but he has an underlying humanitarianism that even the untamed natives sense. Nor has he any illusions as to the actual fruits of his labors. Head hunters still hunt heads in the Sepik area. Without doubt human flesh is still relished; native rites and tambarans flourish. Perhaps Father Kirschbaum believes that souls will reach their god according to their respective lights, and does not take cannibalistic evidences as signs of failure of his mission after 20-odd years of Christian influence. But where his influence has reached he has fought against evil superstition and bodily disease; and there is no doubt that he has helped materially in making the shores of the Sepik River safe for other white men who are following the trail he has blazed.

PROSPECTOR SURPRISED

Father Kirschbaum speaks English brokenly; I have an idea that after his quarter-century of exile he speaks his own German brokenly, for his vocabulary sounded to me like a sort of Esperanto of German mixed with pidgin, Australian, and native lingo. But his welcome would have been as heartening in Chinese.

Down to the schooner came one of the oil prospectors—a person who looked as if the world didn't owe him much, whose baggy khaki pants were hitched in place by worn-out galluses, and who sported a straggling mustache and a battered double Stetson. He regarded me with an "Oh-my-Gosh!" expression, and I suspected that he had no use for women. He had jungle-walked five miles since daybreak to see the Nuloa come in, it having been heralded by the mysterious native wireless which knows all things. After a few "spots" in the skipper's cabin, he disappeared as silently as an Arab, and I saw no more of him.

There were hours of work ahead of the natives in the unloading of several hundred cases of petrol and Jim and Brearly's impedimenta.

Again I had an opportunity to observe Jim's wizardry with horses. There were eight restless beasts to be transferred from the schooner to dry land. When the time came he didn't even need a gangplank. With a preliminary caress, a magic word, and a lift of the halter, he jumped each horse from the deck to the shore.

MEN CELEBRATE

Neither of the recruiters had a notion where they were to put up during their two weeks' sojourn at Marienberg while they were organizing their hinterland expedition. At least, they had no prearranged plans. They had a tent and mosquito netting. But Robbie collared them before the missionary had a chance and volunteered to put them up. From the beginning it looked as if there would be goings-on for the coming fortnight, until the beer was exhausted.

We were to have the crowd with us for lunch aboard the Nuloa; there was just room. Before luncheon there was a high party in the skipper's cabin. It was a little cabin, and stuck around were the few intimate treasures that usually mark pathetically a seaman's attempt at "home"—a picture of his dead wife, a few South Pacific curios, a beautiful little bronze god with turquoise eyes from China.

With the men congregated below in the skipper's domain, I stretched out on a hatch for a siesta, not wanting to intrude on the celebration. But in ten minutes the mate came on top hunting for me, with an invitation to join the crowd. So, from as unobtrusive a corner of the bunk as possible, I watched silently, save for occasional sounds of amusement, the accelerating celebration. Father Kirschbaum was there, and was no damper on the party, though he took little active part in it. The party itself was liquid (mostly beer) and lyric.

SEES OLD FRIEND

Later, while we were at lunch, there came to my ears a strangely familiar sound—the busy putt-putt of a schooner engine bearing down the river. Remembering the sound, I cried: "There's the Bonta!" She pulled up alongside the bank ahead of us, looking absurdly tiny, and we greeted Capt. Watson and a tall Australian in shorts and woolen socks. Capt. Watson had realized his ambition, and been paid for doing it, for he had taken a chartered cargo up the Sepik 300 miles to Ambunti, and now was returning to Rabaul.

One is very glad to see old comrades in out-of-the-way places of the world. And he seemed pleased to see me again, and paid me the compliment (now a very safe one) of saying that he was sorry I hadn't gone up to Ambunti with them.

The bushmen were scared of the camera. To them it was some infernal "bokis-belong h'eye." But I found something to make them brave; in their love for bright and shiny things they forgot even fear. The films were packed in tinfoil for tropical use, then sealed in tin boxes, which in turn were gaily put up in yellow cartons. I saw a gleaming, covetous eye directed toward these wrappings, a hand itching to snatch the treasure and make off with it to the jungle.

BARGAINS FOR HAT

So I ingratiatingly distributed the prizes, but not all the wrappings of a film to a single native, no indeed. One bright and shiny treasure to one kanaka, to heighten the value. It worked. They posed like lambs; they let Robbie pull them this way and that, to group them effectively. They had the unfortunate habit, however, of allowing their jaws to drop in wonder, which lent the expression of an amazed chimpanzee to their already unprepossessing countenances. The marys were less docile about the camera than the men, and even at Robbie's stern command they demurred and would not look amiably at the black box.

Much as I deplore it, there must still be a tourist instinct in me, because now that I was in a strange place I wanted to buy something. I wanted curios. What I craved this time was one of the native hats that all men wore. One of them wore a particularly handsome hat, lavishly trimmed with little shell tambaran (native money) and carved dogs' teeth, and was crowned with fur of the flying fox. His long black wool, drawn through the tall, conical head-dress, was bushed into a black halo at the exposed end. Robbie told me to keep quiet, he would bargain for me. At first the boy was exhorbitant; he wanted several shillings, which he could spend at the mission trade-store, plus a pig. A pig! He must have thought I was buying his mary. Still I did crave the hat, and I thought I wasn't going to get it. Robbie, after a volley of anathema, turned away from the bargaining savage. My own pidgin English wasn't in the least adequate for the combat. As the D. O. turned away in exaggerated indifference I cried, "Oh, Robbie, pay him what he asks?" "Keep still!" he said. I kept still. We looked at other things.

BUYS IDOL

I bartered for a splendid specimen of Sepik wood-carving. It was an idol (a heathen idol on the very mission grounds), which a benighted savage, drolling betel juice, brought in his arms. As I write, it is looking sullenly at me from an opposite corner. It is carved from quela wood, its hooked nose extends almost to the upper lip, it has a very long head crowned with a carved Sepik hat, its slanted eyes are half closed, and in its small ears are strung shell tambaran. I can see that the original color of the wood from which it was laboriously carved is white, for in this temperate climate of the United States a great crack has split half of the face from forehead to chin, but the figure itself is colored henna. It wears a small bark-cloth apron. I have no idea what weird singsings, initiations, cannibalistic feasts, and other native rites my idol has looked upon. Whatever its past, it is living a sober and upright life now. I bartered for it five sticks of trade tobacco and a film tin. It is a rare thing, and belongs in a museum; but I am a selfish individual, and it keeps me company, me and my Buka kundu.

I tried to buy a dog-tooth necklace. The marys all wore them, and most of the men. Robbie tried to negotiate with them for me, but the refusal to sell these was almost alarming in its emphasis. Even he didn't press the matter. To the Sepik River people the dog-tooth necklace represents wealth, just as the New Britain natives carry theirs wound around their dangling ear-lobes.

Then the lad with the precious hat edged his way into the crowd. He saw that I had round silver pieces, trade tobacco galore, and silver foil. He couldn't hold out. He came to terms. He forgot the pig, seeing I didn't have one. And I paid four shillings, three sticks of tobacco, a yellow film carton, and a piece of tinfoil.

But buying the hat was one matter, taking possession was another. It was so firmly fastened into his wool that it had to be cut off with a copra knife. He looked sadly naked and shorn when it was gone. I felt sorry for him; he had lost all his dignity and, I fear, much social and tribal prestige.

The hat has been well traveled since that day at Marienberg, and thoroughly aired, but still I handle it daintily. Its kanaka smell abides with it. It sits in solitary and altogether incongruous state on a chaste, colonian table against a wall of my library. When I look at it I recall a background of densest jungle, tier upon tier of purple mountains, and the swift current of a mighty river.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.
I promise to be a 100% Junior Patrol member.

Date of Birth..... Address.....
School .....

Address this pledge to the JUNIOR PATROL, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Upon its receipt you will be registered as a member of the JUNIOR PATROL and will be forwarded a membership card and an official emblem.

Junior Patrol Members Urged to Organize Clubs

Attention, Junior Patrol members!

Have you formed a Junior Patrol organization in your neighborhood? Have you elected a captain and lieutenants?

If not, you live-wire Patrol members will have to get busy and see that the boys and girls in your neighborhood form a club. Don't wait; start your club now during the summer season.

School books have been put away until September, and you and your friends should have a lot of spare time to attend to club business. You don't want to miss the many interesting and joyous times that a Junior Patrol club affords.

There has been widespread interest in the Junior Patrol organization, which was organized by the Sun-Telegraph in connection with Quin Hall's comic strip, "Junior." Also the Junior Patrol radio program, which is broadcast each Wednesday over Station WCAE from 4:45 to 5:15 p. m., has a large following.

BACKYARD MEETINGS

Mr. Hall made several good suggestions today about organizing individual patrols. He said you could hold your patrol meeting in the park or in one of the members' backyards during these warm days. He continued:

"It would be an impossible job for any one person or group of persons to organize the different patrols. Therefore the members will have to do some of the work themselves in order to continue the outstanding success that the organization has already shown."

Find out the names of boys and girls in your neighborhood who are wearing patrol buttons. Get as many as you can. Then pick a time and a place to hold a meeting.

You can have as many patrols as possible in your neighborhood. Every patrol ought to have at least four or five members to start with.

KEEP ON YOUR TOES!

A little competition between patrols on the same street and in the same neighborhood will be a good thing. It will keep you on your toes in trying to follow the Junior Patrol pledge. Let's see which patrol does the most in helping others at home, at school and at play.

At your first meeting be sure and elect a captain. Elect a boy or a girl who is a leader. The captain will be in charge of all the meetings, and will act in the same capacity as a president or a chairman.

The captain will tell you when a patrol meeting is to be held. Probably it would be wise to hold a meeting every few days, or at least once a week.

The next officer to elect is a lieutenant, who will be an assistant to the captain and also will act as secretary. In some patrols it might even be necessary to elect a second lieutenant.

If you have any questions to ask about organizing your patrol, write to the Junior Patrol headquarters, in care of the Sun-Telegraph. In some cases you will undoubtedly run into difficulty. Don't let anything like small troubles stop you. Overcome them and go right ahead!

PICTURES IN NEWSPAPER

The lieutenant should send a picture of the captain and also tell headquarters just what your patrol is doing—what you have accomplished. Be sure to attach the name, address and age of the captain to all pictures. That is necessary so that they can be returned after being published in the Sun-Telegraph.

Martin Rosenberg, 12, of 415 Fallowfield avenue, Charleroi, Pa., and Joseph Scully, 10, of 130 South Negley avenue, were the first two persons to join the Junior Patrol.

Now, let's see which patrol is going to be the first to organize. Which group is going to write headquarters saying it just held its first meeting and elected a captain and first lieutenant?

You've got to hand it to the Democrats—they say what they think and let the chips fall where they may.

Everybody Doesn't Want Beer

We know not whether laws be right or whether laws be wrong. But we do know that the Eighteenth Amendment rang up a sales record of five stubbed toes to the foot.

The writer is neither for beer nor agin it. But, if it comes his way, why should he leave the room when he was there first? The order of seniority governs the social contract.

State by state, the sovereign and majestic commonwealths are discarding the hair shirt. They are pounding out pulverizing totals that make the drys resemble a man taking swimming lessons on a piano stool.

New York City went about 40 to one for repeal. The one did not state his constitutional status on free lunch. If that had been the moot topic there is no doubt the suffrage would have been unanimous from all angles and the dill pickle would have been swept into the expanded archives on the tidal wave of public approbation.

Before blowing the foam off the solid southland we endorse our respect for the communities which do not want beer. In our enforced travels of many years we have been catapulted from upper berths into states which never could make good beer.

Something was wrong with the climate, the ingredients and the water. As you approach the tropics you discover the drinks get stronger.

Gin, whisky, pulque and the sublime spirits of merged volcanoes are popular under the torrid sun. And we can guarantee to deliver to Mr. Farley six states which will vote for beer. But only as a chaser.

When you are balancing your sunburned arches on the equatorial line beer means nothing. The sturdy imbibers won't even soak their upper plates in it at night.

They need something more influential and backfiring. Invite a man to something as flabby and attenuated as beer and you have him next as a favored customer under the historic duelling oak. He will shoot your whiskers off and then plait them into a hair watch chain as a memento of the illustrious and gentlemanly erasure of a colossal insult.

Cordial Co-operation

Maj. Styer's Assistance Will Be Invaluable in Formulating the Flood Control Project.

M. O. Leighton, engineer of the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh, is to confer Monday with Maj. W. D. Styer, head of the United States Engineers' local office, in regard to the plan to establish storage reservoirs at the headwaters of the Allegheny and Monongahela.

Maj. Styer is a busy man. Locks and dams in this district to cost $8,000,000 have already been authorized, and work is being rushed on the plans. In the offing are other projects requiring his attention, such as the proposed improvements in the Beaver, Mahoning and Youghiogheny rivers. These things take much of Maj. Styer's time; yet he has not neglected the flood control project.

His interest in it, moreover, is more than merely academic. He has ideas of his own on the subject which may be put to good use. There is every indication that the promoters of flood control will receive cordial co-operation from Maj. Styer.

High School Increase

The Number of Pupils Has Doubled in Four Years, With Comparatively Few Additional Teachers.

Those who grumble over the increase in school expenses in recent years and think it has not been justified would do well to consider a report issued this week by the State Department of Public Instruction, which shows that high school enrollment in Pennsylvania almost doubled in the four years from 1928 to 1932.

In the same period the number of high school teachers increased only 30 per cent. That means there are more pupils per teacher than formerly, and consequently each pupil receives less individual attention.

The great increase in the demand for a high school education is a remarkable phenomenon. There is a high school in Fannett Township in Franklin County, which draws its pupils from four counties—Franklin, Huntingdon, Juniata and Perry.

Sixty-nine pupils attend this school, and they travel an aggregate of 700 miles a day to attend classes. Fifteen live more than 10 miles from the school, and one 20 miles. It is reported that there are at least 40 other boys and girls eager to attend the school, but unable because of the lack of transportation facilities.

Pennsylvania is sure to benefit from the superior education of the generation that will take control of the government in a few years.

Expenditures on the schools are not extravagant, and with return of prosperity might well be increased—at least to the extent required to furnish the high schools an adequate number of teachers.

Unemployment Wanes

State Employment Offices Confirm the Report That Workers Are in Better Demand.

The Sun-Telegraph has been publishing every day for a number of weeks reports of industrial improvement. Mills that have long been idle are resuming operations. Others are operating at the highest percentage of capacity that has been attained in several years.

Confirmation of the report that unemployment is declining comes from another source—an official source, the State Bureau of Employment.

A. W. Motley, director of the bureau, states that its 13 agencies found jobs for 5,786 persons last month, the highest number of placements made by state offices in any single month since 1930.

There is no possibility of doubt; the business tide has turned.

Hardships of Gypsy Life

The Travelers Aid Society Gives Some Good Advice To Pittsburgh Boys Who Plan Tramping.

But Miss Fredericka F. Hays, executive secretary of the Travelers Aid Society, tells us it is not so.

The Travelers Aid Society in Pittsburgh is the Welfare Fund agency charged with the care of the homeless. It handled twice as many cases of homeless and wandering boys last month as in May last year, and this increase has prompted Miss Hays to issue a timely warning to Pittsburgh boys who are thinking of taking the gypsy trail this summer. Stay at home, she urges.

Hitch-hiking may have been a lark several years ago. Stories have been heard of boys who saw the whole country on a shoestring without discomfort. People were prosperous. Motorists were glad to give wayfarers a lift. But that is no longer the case.

Holdups have made motorists suspicious. The demands for charity have strained the resources of nearly every community, and in many a town wandering boys are told coldly, upon arrival, to "move on." If they do not, they are forced to sleep in dirty, crowded jails, and to associate with the scum of the earth.

Pittsburgh boys, just released from school and college, who have vagabond journeys in mind, would do well to consult Miss Hays and learn of the painful experiences of those to whose succor the Travelers Aid Society has been called.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Mother's Boy

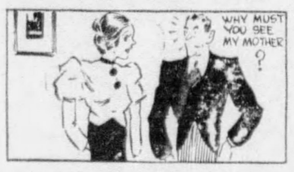
Every man is a mother's boy—SOME kind of a mother's boy. And the best way to get a line on a man is to get a line on his mother. Meet Mamma, before you buy the hope chest, and get a pre-view of Sonny's future and your own.

* * *

The potency and importance of mothers, in this world of men, has been the subject of an interesting discussion in a recent symposium. Which would have been the greatest loss to the world, if she had never been born was the query—the mother of Alexander the Great, of William the Conqueror, of George Washington, of Lincoln, of Napoleon or of Thomas A. Edison?

* * *

At this critical moment, it seems as though the only important mothers are the mothers of men who have brought peace or tried to bring PEACE to the world. Or the mothers of men, who have added to the world's comfort, happiness, knowledge, achievement, beauty or peace.



As for the mothers of Alexander the Great, William the Conqueror and Napoleon Bonaparte—they should have remained spinsters, all the days of their lives! I'm sure they would have gone right out on the back porch and committed suicide, if they had known what slaughter and bloodshed their sons would bring upon the world.

* * *

"Conquerors" and would-be conquerors, whether by sword or blood or finance, are the world's greatest menace today, yesterday and forever. They are blind, unbalanced egotists, whose mothers probably went about swinging incense before them and weaned them on kisses and lollipops, instead of on spinach and spankings!

* * *

It's positively frightening, when you think of what the mother of just one small boy can DO, to make or mar the lives of millions of people! Whether he's the kind of boy that likes to put pennies in his bank or the kind that likes to pull wings off of butterflies.

The mothers of Washington and Lincoln were important to the world, as the mothers of men who fought for freedom—not for conquest. But every man, and especially every woman, has cause, a hundred times a day, to be grateful to Nancy Elliot, the mother of Thomas A. Edison, who has done so much to make life safer, simpler and easier for everybody in the civilized world.

* * *

We ought to toss "an orchid" to Nancy Elliot every time we touch an electric button, turn on the lights, look into the ice-box, run the vacuum cleaner, listen to the radio, go to a moving picture show or get a permanent wave! Every time the Christmas tree falls over without setting fire to the place, and every time we knock over the bridge-lamp without burning down the house.

* * *

And how about the mothers of Columbus, Disraeli, Pericles, Sophocles, the Wright brothers, Copernicus, Marcus, Aurelius, Milton, Shakespeare and Sir Isaac Newton? Not ONE of those fine gals raised her boy to be a soldier!

* * *

Changing a boundary line doesn't help the world much—but giving the world ease, beauty and peace—THAT'S achievement! And the Greatest Mother of all time was the Mother of the Prince of PEACE!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 23.—Thoughts while strolling: I invariably mix Lois Josephine and Elizabeth Brice. Percy McCord's pink collar. The Rialto is still buzzing with Bob Hague's tiff with Joe Tumulty over the Washington Lambs' gambol. Phil Dunning is the best listener in the theater. Art Frank, the stage Rube.

One word description of Secretary Woodin—tittuppy. Judith Anderson and Katharine Brush bear a resemblance. So do Mickey Marks and Octavus Roy Cohen. What's become of Harry Thaw? Don't hear so much about the Young Intellectuals any more. Herb Roth's Carnera shoulders and button nose.

Wonder if anyone else stops to read memorial tablets? Jacques Danielson and Fannie Hurst are together more than ever lately. How popular the dachshund is becoming! There's the ex-Millicent Rogers with two. And Jack Pearl has one, also. Helen Worden, who heads the women's press club.

W. T. Benda, a Poznan (Poland) boy who made good in the city. Those old gallants of the club windows who slyly test their knee jerks now and then. Nobody can look so quick-silverish as Queenie Smith. Any time any one stops and looks at me shrewdly I feel guilty of something or other.

One of my favorite people—Felix Isman. I like to hear Bobby Jones say "import-unt" in those golf talkies. Sign: "Drive Slowly and Live!" Pins save lives, too, by not being swallowed.

* * *

I peeked in the foyer of the Ziegfeld the other day, now a continuous movie. Something faintly recognizable about the uniformed ticket taker clicked the sudden realization he was a well-known actor of 20 years ago. One of the afternoon patrollers of the Broadway pave in spats, lapel flower and twirling a stick. Show business!

* * *

The premiere at the Ziegfeld is the only opening night, so far as I know, Lindbergh attended. He was just from his triumph, a world's idol, curiously baffled by the furore. Four blocks on either side along Sixth avenue were jammed with milling admirers. He came late, with the usually late Jimmy Walker, also riding a tide of idolatry. At the finish of the play there was an ovation for Lindbergh. He stood, bowed awkwardly and I shall always remember his only hand wave was for the balcony. I liked that.

* * *

The other evening I visited in a forty-second-story apartment in one of the thin high towers. A storm came up and of a sudden the pinnacle was deafening with eerie shrieks like harp strings in a gale. The occupant told me this phenomenon is only during high winds. As a rule, on such occasions he reads a blood-curdling mystery, usually one of Poe's, and afterwards buries himself under covers. He has a swell time scaring himself silly.

* * *

I used to beg Alice Bunch, our faithful hired girl, to tell a ghost story at bedtime. Once when the family was away she consented. It concerned a man living alone in a castle in an isolated woods. He feared robbers and at night hung pans on every window and door. With all the Negro talents for spooky effects she worked to a shuddery climax. The robbers creeping upon the occupant! At the opportune second she slyly shoved a wash pan off a table with a crash. People back home to this day think that's what's the matter with me. At daylight I was still screaming. And weeks afterward, wherever I happened to be, I would freeze in sudden horror and let go a lulu.

* * *

Alice's major reward for superior behavior was permitting me to manipulate the top of the baking powder can as a cookie cutter on Friday—cookie day. If I had shown especial memorizing with my Sunday school leaflet the left over dab of dough was baked into what was called a johnnie-cake, several times the size of the ordinary cookie. Devouring it in the cool of the cellar steps was as much fun and certainly as great a reward as life offered.

Those were the days I used to laze in the hammock sultry evenings plinking a mandolin. Alice mooned over such fuddy-duddy. "I hope he don't take that potato bug thing serious," she confided to Grandma. Then added dolefully: "I once married a guitar picker."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Graduation month—and the annual row is on in thousands of American homes.

SHALL OR SHAN'T YOUNG BILL OR BESSIE GO TO COLLEGE?

Of course if you're still living in Millionaire's Row, that question means nothing to you. Bill and Bessie will go to college, if only to get them out of the way for a few more years.

But if you're just one of the Regular American Mob, this college query is causing you plenty of trouble. Hard enough to send a youngster through college ANY year.

But THIS YEAR—whew! ! ! ! !

So the Missis and you—or you and the Old Man—are having it out, with the youngsters listening in and probably feeling mighty sorry for themselves.

Chances are the Missis is voting for college, regardless. And you can't blame her. That youngster has cost her a lot. Cost her in ways that a man can never dream. All these years, while her husband has been building up his business, going off on conventions with the boys, taking the yearly fishing trip, her children have been her one big enterprise and adventure. She's given them all she has. All of her own dreams have gone into those boys and girls—her own thwarted hopes, her own secret hungers and rebellions.

THOSE CHILDREN ARE PART OF HERSELF IN A SENSE THAT THEY CAN NEVER BE A PART OF THEIR FATHER'S SELF.

AND SO THERE IS A PERSONAL HUNGER AND FURY IN HER DESIRE TO SEE THEM GET THE BEST CHANCE POSSIBLE.

Naturally she thinks college is the best chance possible; for college holds all the color and adventure she longed to have herself, but was denied—fun, excitement, smart clothes, gay companionship, the thrill of sports.

And, of course, there's an education. But in her secret soul, the average mother isn't spending much thought on education. She wants success for her children as much as their Dad does; perhaps more. But she doesn't think that an education is the only way, or even the best and quickest way, of getting it. No, the Missis believes that the biggest aid towards success is—

MEETING THE RIGHT PEOPLE.

AND COLLEGE WILL GIVE BILL OR BESSIE THE CHANCE TO MEET THE RIGHT PEOPLE.

Or so she thinks.

So mother is pulling hard for that college course, and no argument of Dad's can shake her. Take their last cent? Mean another plaster on the house? What if it does?

ISN'T THE YOUNGSTER WORTH IT?

WHAT KIND OF A FATHER IS HE, TO BE WILLING TO TURN HIS CHILDREN OUT WITHOUT AS GOOD A CHANCE AS THEIR SCHOOLMATES?

(And always, of course, she's remembering the chance SHE once took for that boy or girl—the price SHE paid.)

All of which Dad realizes with more or less sympathy. But he can't possibly take Mom's angle; for Dad is living in a world of practical facts—where results, and results only, count.

He knows, through bitter experience, that that world is crowded as it never was before, and that only the man or woman who can show real action stands the slightest chance of survival.

"But they'll meet the best people." Dad laughs that old argument off. Maybe it counted once, but nothing doing now. It's every man for himself!

Pretty clothes, fun, sports—yes, he'd like to be able to give these to the kids if he could afford them. But even suppose he could.

WOULD HE BE DOING THE YOUNGSTERS A FAVOR IF HE ALLOWED THEM TO SPEND THEIR MOST PROMISING YEARS PLAYING AROUND AND LET THEM BE TURNED OUT AT TWENTY-ONE, OR TWO, HELPLESS, IGNORANT, INTO A WORLD WHERE OTHER YOUNGSTERS OF THEIR OWN AGE HAVE ALREADY SHOT FAR BEYOND THEM?

"They'll make up the time," pleads Mother. "Everybody prefers a young person with a college education. If you have a college education, you can go ten times as far."

But DO they? And CAN they? Dad doubts.

Then he produces all the Horrible Examples. All these young people who didn't learn one useful thing in college—just came out swell-headed smarties, who thought they were too good for common work, yet didn't know how to do any other kind.

And those others—bright, willing youngsters, who were graduated two, three, even four years ago, but have been loafing ever since because all the jobs are filled.

Dad quotes figures; sad statements by college professors, themselves. Thousands of young engineers idle, with this year's graduates swelling the ranks by the tens of thousands. School teachers, without hope of a school. Doctors, with no more chance of a practice than a jack rabbit. Lawyers, and lawyers already thicker'n wood ticks.

And young Bill and Bessie look on, wondering bitterly why Some Kids Get All The Breaks.

AND WHAT'S YOUR VOTE?

If Bessie or Bill belonged to you, would you send them to college? And what would you expect to gain if you did?

Or maybe you have no youngsters, but have done plenty of thinking about colleges and their results. If so, what are YOUR conclusions? Let's hear them.

The Human Side of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

I NEVER cease to marvel at the courage and fortitude of the human heart. And many a hero goes unsung to his grave. One such I knew, and I would like to tell you about him. His name was Pietro Tulio and he was a young Italian, a tunnel driller, or sandhog, as they call them.

He was working in a tunnel that was being cut by the Lackawanna Railroad through a hill in Jersey City. A mass of solid rock, ninety feet high, gave way and piled up with a roar that shook houses for blocks around. Fifteen rock-drillers and sandhogs were working in the tunnel when the rock mass toppled forward exactly like a child's house of lettered blocks. The only warning they had was an instant's grinding and rending of the huge mass of stone. Thirteen had time to drop their tools and escape, fighting and clawing through a rabbit-burrow of a hole into another shaft.

But two, Pietro Tulio and Anton Kwiakowski, stopped to get their coats and were overwhelmed. Anton was crushed instantly under a thousand tons of rock, and Pietro's right leg was pinned down by a block of stone as big as a house. When we newspaper men crawled into the tunnel 30 men were burrowing like moles to reach poor Pietro, and we followed their desperately slow progress. After three hours they reached him.

He was perfectly conscious in his suffering and smiled in the lantern light. He wanted whisky, but they were afraid to give it to him because of his weakened heart. They gave him a little milk and crackers.

"How do you feel, Pietro? the doctor asked.

"Moocha bad," said the brave chap. "But I maka date weeth my Giuseppina. I musta keepa da date."

* * *

Last Rites Are Administered

AS FAST as they chipped the rock away from his crushed right leg they stuffed cotton waste into the holes to ease the lay of his body, but try as they would they couldn't loosen the grip of the great rock. Pietro was losing strength with every breath. They got a small hydraulic drill down into the hole and Pietro had sand enough to adjust the drill with his own hands.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, 12 hours after the collapse of the rock wall, he asked for a priest. They found Father John Kiebooms, a professor of philosophy in St. Paul's Seminary, in St. Paul, Minn. The only way to reach the floor of the shaft was to stand on a narrow platform and be swung far out into the air and dropped 90 feet by a crane hoist. The Jersey City commissioner of police and Father Kiebooms made the trip together.

"If you've got the nerve, commissioner," said Father Kiebooms, "I guess I have."

He administered the sacrament and then Pietro, now very weak, looked up with another smile. "I theenk I get out," he whispered, "what you theenk?"

But they couldn't move the stone, and they were forced to cut off his right leg at the hip. When they put him in an ambulance he looked up with a smile and said to the doctor: I maka da best with one leg, eh?" But that night, still smiling, stout-hearted Pietro, in Christ Hospital, passed to the reward that awaits the brave.

Ancient Pension Still Regularly Paid

ONE never knows what mysteries or curiosities of life are hidden in some corner of a great city. A retired laundryman living on East Seventh street in New York City received a yearly pension of $200 from the estate of Charles II, who was king of England from 1660 to 1685.

Harry Franck discovered that odd fact when he was in England getting the material for his new book, "Footloose in the British Isles."

More than 280 years ago, when King Charles was defeated by Cromwell at the Battle of Worcester, the young king, hunted and with a price on his head, was hidden away by an ancestor of this retired New York laundryman. That night Charles was able to make his escape in disguise. When he was called back to the throne by Gen. Monk, in 1660, one of the first things he did as he plunged his eager hands into bushels of gold was to reward the man who had saved his life the night after the Battle of Worcester.

He gave that man a pension of 100 marks a year, forever, to him and his heirs. That pension today amounts to 50 pounds, or about $200 at the present worth of the British pound.

Regularly every year, an old firm of London lawyers receives this sum from the trustees of King Charles' personal estate, and pays it over to the most direct descendant of the king's benefactor, even though that descendant and his forbears were American-born.

A curious thread, is it not, which runs from modern New York back to Old England of the Stuart kings and Cromwell?

By Winifred Black

Oh, you needn't laugh, sweet and 20—50 is young when you are looking at it from the wrong side of the market.

Fifty—and all the worries and follies and miseries of youth well behind you. Fifty, well and hearty, all your friends chosen, all your enemies forgotten. Fifty, with wit for a companion and humor for a partner. Fifty, with honest, well earned friendships to lean upon. Fifty, with a neat little trunk full of memories put away in the closet—50, with a good constitution and a sound heart and a clear head—not so bad, this business of 50 when you come to think of it.

"What on earth do you do, to keep so young," said I to the woman I know.

The woman laughed.

"Oh, I just keep busy," she said.

"What kind of busy?" said I.

The woman laughed again. "You'll be amused," she said. "Do you remember that bit of verse everyone was quoting a while ago? It was about a man who wanted to live in a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man.

"Well, that's what I am. I have a house by the side of the road and I am being a friend to girls. Nine girls, to be exact about it. Two stenographers, two office girls, one box office girl in a moving picture show, two clerks and two girls who are looking for a job.

"I keep a boarding house—that's what they call it, but it's really a place for girls to live and be sort of looked after.

"I show them how to mend their clothes. I give them a little laundry where they can do their own washing and ironing. On Saturday afternoons the house is a bee hive and Sundays—well, you ought to drop in some Sunday and have some fun with us.

"The girls come down into the kitchen and we get a regular old-fashioned, home made Sunday night supper.

"Each girl does her part—one makes the salad, one makes the corn-beef hash, one makes the coffee, one makes the hot biscuits and so on, and anyone is free to add some special goodie like olives and celery or something. And any girl may ask a friend to supper.

"You ought to see those friends—men and women, old and young, in they come as gay as a bunch of meadow larks. Why, we sit around that table and laugh and have fun for hours. And afterwards we stand around the piano and sing—visitors and all.

"Oh, I have trouble on my hands, too—love affairs go wrong. The girls get jealous and quarrel and they tell me about it, and I try to straighten things out. I don't meddle or interfere—I just stand by in case of trouble.

A house by the side of the road—well, now, if that isn't a good idea, what is?—I'd like to have you tell me.
